HAPPINESS IS MADE UP OF SMALL THINGS, THE LITTLE SIMPLE PLEASURES OF LIFE, THE SWEETNESS AND COMFORT OF EVERY DAY. WE CAN ACCEPT THEM AND BE GLAD, OR WE CAN CRUSH THEM UNDER OUR FEET, AND GO ON OUR DISCONTENTED WAY VAINLY LOOKING FOR SOME GREAT HAPPENING THAT SHALL SUDDENLY FLOOD LIFE TO OVERFLOWING WITH DELIGHT AND TRANSFORM ALL ITS ROUGH PLACES INTO BEAUTY. HAPPINESS IS LIKE HEAVEN—IT MUST BE BUILT OUT OF DAILY LIVING, IF EVER IT IS POSSESSED AT ALL.

GENERAL ATTACK ON ENTIRE FRONT RAGES

Italians and Austrians in Gigantic Clash on Battle Line from Switzerland to the Adriatic Sea.

Today's War News Given in Summary

A great battle is in progress on the Italian front. Advices from Rome and Vienna indicate that the offensive movement of the Italians, presumably to relieve pressure on the Serbian front, is under full headway. An official communication from Rome states that this move is in progress on the Tyrol and Trentino frontiers along the whole front to the sea.

The latest reports from Vienna state that the Italians were repulsed with heavy losses, although they succeeded in reaching the Austrian positions in some places. The Italian staff, however, announces a series of important successes. It is stated the Austrian line was pierced in several sectors and that many Austrian positions were captured.

German troops are following up their recent offensive movements on the French front, but apparently no fighting of great importance has developed. The official report from Paris today mentions three German attacks, and says that in each instance the attacking parties were dispersed in Lorraine, French forces occupying a German trench.

German, Austro-Hungarian and Bulgarian armies invading Serbia over the northern and eastern frontiers continue to push back the defenders, according to today's Berlin official statement. German troops have forced a passage over the Drina river and have driven the Serbians from the heights south of Visegrad. On the eastern section the Bulgarians have captured the towns of Negotin and Roglyevo.

Udine, Italy, Oct. 23.—The Italian army is making a general attack along the whole line from Switzerland to the Adriatic. In the preceding five months of the Austro-Italian war the efforts of the Italians have been directed at the penetration of Austrian territory and capture of strategic points for the securing of Italy against the possibility of Austrian invasion. In the opinion of the Italian general staff this has been accomplished and the war is now entering its second phase.

It is estimated here that the Italians have taken 25,000 prisoners during the war and have put out of action upward of 100,000 men in all. Italian losses, including killed and wounded and prisoners, amount to about 45,000 according to official figures, which is the lowest percentage of any of the belligerent nations.

GERMANS CROSS DRINA.

Serbians Driven Southward on Heights Near Vizgrad.

Berlin, Oct. 23.—German troops have crossed the Drina river in northwestern Serbia near Vizgrad, driving southward the Serbians on the heights according to the official statement issued today by German army headquarters. It is also announced that Bulgarian troops have captured the Serbian towns of Negotin and Roglyevo.

"Competent German authorities deny the official announcement made in London on October 20 that only 183 British merchant vessels and 175 British fishing vessels had been sunk by submarines up to October 14," says the Overseas News agency. "These authorities state that up to the middle of October, 289 British trading ships had been sunk and that up to September 14, 275 fishing vessels had been destroyed, as shown by statements published from time to time in English newspapers. These reports do not disclose all the facts, and the

SPEAKS VERY HIGHLY OF LOCAL Y. W. C. A.

E. Gertrude Gogin, Field Extension Secretary Tells of Her Work.

Miss E. Gertrude Gogin, industrial extension secretary of the central field of the Young Women's Christian association, who has been at the local association for the past few days, speaks very highly of the local association. She stated that she finds it to be one of the most active associations in the field and very well equipped in many ways. Its biggest need, she says, is the increase in industrial extension work for which there is such a large field in this city.

The extension work is a new proposition to the local association, only being one year old. Although young it has one large organization known as the Kymknit club with 104 members, second in size to Detroit, which has a membership of 300, the largest in the field.

The idea of Miss Gogin's work is the forming of self-governing clubs for girls. The activities of these clubs are along social lines, having as good a time as possible but at the same time not neglecting the educational lines. Some of the work along the educational line includes dressmaking, millinery, manicuring, hair dressing, hygiene work and many other things, or anything the club decided to do.

Miss Gogin states that the industrial extension work in the Y. W. C. A. of the United States is only four or five years old and is only one year old in the states of the middle west. However, in the Central field there are 3,000 girls in these clubs which are self-governing, who have as their adviser the extension secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

PATMONT IS QUICKLY ACQUITTED BY JURY

Pastor Recently Heard in Ft. Wayne Not Guilty of Arson Charge.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 23.—Rev. Louis R. Patmont, indicted jointly with Macar Lubich, for arson, in connection with a fire in the Christian Polish church here April 10, 1913, was acquitted in the quarter sessions court here today. Lubich was never apprehended and Patmont surrendered himself to stand trial. The jury was out only ten minutes.

Attorneys for Patmont told the jury it would be shown that anti-prohibition interests in the middle west were responsible for the present charges and also were responsiblue for the kidnaping of the defendant in Illinois two years ago.

Rev. Mr. Patmont was heard in several addresses in Fort Wayne a few weeks ago.

WILL CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY.

At the regular meeting of Sion S. Bass post, G. A. R., Friday evening, it was decided to observe the anniversary of the organization with a patriotic celebration and program on the evening of November 26.

TWO ARE HURT IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Alice F. Meigs Badly Injured When Autos Collide.

C. E. PRANGE IS CUT ABOUT HEAD

Charles Striebig, Aged 12, Hurt in Auto Smash Saturday Morning.

Mrs. Alice F. Meigs, 58 years old, mother of Optician Charles A. Meigs, was seriously injured and Charles E. Prange, 56 years old, living on Kinnaird avenue, suffered painful cuts about the head, when a jitney bus belonging to H. A. Banks, 1139 Sinclair street, and a car belonging to George Lew, a local contractor, living at 3435 Piqua avenue, came together in a collision at about 5 o'clock Friday evening at DeWald and Calhoun streets.

Mrs. Meigs was rendered unconscious and was injured internally, besides innumerable bruises over her body. Her condition is regarded as extremely serious and it is feared that she may be permanently paralyzed.

Prange, who is employed at the Indiana Electrical Appliance company, was thrown through the wind shield, a deep gash from which the blood flowed profusely being cut in his ear, besides other cuts about the face. Prange was taken into the Miller drug store, nearby, where he was given medical attention, and Mrs. Meigs was hurried to the home of her son, with whom she resides at 1020 Kinniard avenue.

Banks was driving south on Calhoun [illegible] and Lew was going east on DeWald street, when the two cars came together. Both machines were badly damaged.

Among the passengers in the jitney bus were Mr. and Mrs. Muriel B. Larimer, 308 West Creighton avenue; William Mitchell, 727 Edgewater avenue; Charles E. Prange, Kinniard avenue; Mrs. Alice F. Meigs, 1020 Kinnaird avenue.

Small Boy Hurt.

Charles Striebig, aged twelve years, is suffering from a slight concussion of the brain and severe cuts and bruises as the result of a collision between an Overland car driven by his brother, and a Maxwell car driven by George Roche, of West Wayne street, at Calhoun and Holman streets, at ten o'clock Saturday morning.

The boy was thrown from the car, his head hitting the windshield, and he then landed in the street. He was picked up unconscious by Patrolman Krueckenberg, and was hurried to the office of Dr. Daniel R. Benninghoff near by, where his wounds were dressed and he rapidly regained consciousness.

Striebig admits he was on the wrong side of the street when he turned over into the Roche car, but states that a street car was driven directly in front of him as he reached Calhoun street and that he had to swing in a hurry to keep from mixing it with the car. He then swung into the other machine.

TRADE INVASION IS FEAR OF FAIRBANKS

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 23.—Warning that the United States should be prepared for a commercial invasion as well as for a military invasion was voiced by Charles Warren Fairbanks, former vice president, in an address delivered at a political meeting here last night.

"The present prosperity of certain industries, based upon war orders, is inherently temporary," he said. "Within the period of the next administration our own national life and markets of the world are going to be profoundly affected by the great conflict now raging abroad. We must meet that with a constructive pro-American program which consists of: First, the restoration of the protective tariff; second, adequate preparedness for national defense; third, the restoration of the American flag to the ocean; fourth, organization to market our wares in the world markets."

PLAN SPECIAL TRAIN TO MICHIGAN GAME

Alumni of the University of Michigan are preparing to take a special train crowd out of this city to Ann Arbor Saturday (November 6, to attend the Michigan-Cornell game. It is the plan to carry a hundred or more on the trip, and a diner will be attached to accommodate the local people. The whole cost of the trip, including fare, diner and admission fee, will amount to about $10. Dr. J. H. Gilpin, Dr. Fred Schultz and E. A. Barnes are the committee and would like to get the names of all persons who wish to attend by Monday night, to allow them to make reservations by wire Tuesday.

Wants an Independent Naval Aviation Corps

Washington, Oct. 23.—A naval aviation corps independent of the navy proper with the same status as the marine corps will be recommended to congress by Secretary Daniels as one step toward the improvement of the aviation service at sea.

The present requirement of law that a man to enter the aviation service must be a graduate of the naval academy or to have served something like two years in the line would be abolished and men would be enlisted in the aviation corps from civil life with the opportunity of becoming full fledged officers of the navy. Secretary Daniels has been led to adopt the plans because of the remarkable aeronautic service of men in Europe without military training who had become expert in handling motors through their daily occupations.

Secretary Daniels is still uncertain as to the value of the motors furnished with the aeroplanes now available and will continue consultation with motor experts with a view to remedying recognized defects. He will confer next week with Director Walcott, of the Smithsonian institution who as chairman of the government board of aeronautics may be able to carry on some experiments looking to the perfection of a motor for the navy.

MAY BE ABOARD BIG LINERS AT HOBOKEN

Suspicion Regarding German Warrant Officers Who Broke Parole.

Washington, Oct. 23.—As the result of conferences over the parole-breaking of six warrant officers who vanished from the German cruiser Kron Prinz Wilhelm a week ago Monday, a government official who participated in the conferences said today he was sure the men now at Hoboken, N. J., aboard one of the big German liners there.

The facts that have come to his attention he said, warranted the conclusion that there was a general effort to get as many of the men as possible away from the interned cruisers. He added that the precautions that have been taken by the government since [illegible] breaking by the six men would in all probability prevent any further escapes.

GIRL COMITTED TO THE STATE SCHOOL

In the juvenile court Saturday, Judge Eggeman ordered Harriett Hardesty, aged 16, committed to the Indiana school for girls until she is of age. The young woman was found to be without moral sense. With her two married sisters, Mrs. Clara Golliver, and Mrs. Felbia Burkshire, were arrested last week for gross immoralities. The two married sisters are now serving jail sentences. The testimony relating to the three women has shown them to be inconceivably depraved. Susie Calhoun, the 16-year-old miss who was taken from a street car last Monday night after she had been the passenger-guest of an admiring conductor, was also in juvenile court. She will be detained here until Judge Eggeman can hear from her father at Anderson, and will probably be sent there to be given into the custody of the Madison county juvenile court. Jack Lewis, the street car conductor, was brought before Judge Eggeman and solemnly warned to keep away from the girl. He is said to have been trying to get her out of town.

EXPERT TO ADDRESS REAL ESTATE MEN

A telegram was received Saturday by Secretary Frank Hilgeman, of the Fort Wayne Real Estate exchange, from Lee J. Ninde, who is attending a meeting of real estate men in St. Louis, announcing that he had secured John Lathrop, of New York, representative of the city planning exhibition now being carried on in St. Louis, as a speaker at the next meeting of the exchange Tuesday evening at the Commercial club. Col. D. N. Foster, who witnessed the exhibition in New York, will also be one of the speakers at the meeting.

The local exchange is boosting the city planning scheme and the meeting Tuesday evening promises to be helpful to the members in the movement here.

ART SMITH STAR AT TEXAS STATE FAIR

Art Smith is dazzling Dallas, Texas, by his aerial work this week according to information received here Friday afternoon. He has a two weeks engagement at the Texas state fair, and goes from there to the west and will show again at the San Francisco exposition, remaining at the fair throughout the last month of its existence.

The young birdboy and his wife, Aimee Cour-Smith, are making the trip together, and the southerners have welcomed them with the typical hospitality of the south. The Texas newspapers are throwing a variety of contortions at each new stunt attempted by the daring Fort Wayne aeronaut.

IS EAGER TO BE FRIENDLY

Carranza Seeking Cordial Relations With All Countries.

VOICE PLEASURE AT RECOGNITION

Rumor That Diaz and Zapata Troops Menace Capital Not Credited.

Washington, Oct. 23.—General Carranza, through his representative here, Eliseo Arrendondo, addressed a note today to the United States and the other American republics which recognized his government, expressing his appreciation of their action and announcing that diplomatic representatives soon would be accredited to the various countries. Gen. Carranza declared it was the purpose of his government to establish cordial relations with all countries.

State department officials today admitted hearing a rumor from Juarez, attributed to Vi. officials, that Felix Diaz and forty tnousand Zapata troops were menacing Mexico City. It was said at the department that no such number of Zapata troops had ever been reported before as in the field and it was not credited. The Carranza agency received a telegram from one of its agents in New York saying he had seen Felix Diaz in New York three days ago.

Messages also were received from Mexico City by the Carranza agency stating that the Zapata forces had been disintegrated into small bands, many of them had asked Gen. Gonzales for amnesty, and that appeals have been received from the people of Morelos for more troops to combat the small guerilla bands as the Zapata troops had abandoned all pretense of organization.

FATALLY STRICKEN IN HARDWARE STORE

Antwerp, O., Oct. 23.—Arthur Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smith, of this place, aged about 29 years, succumbed to heart failure Friday evening. He was standing in the hardware store owned by his father and brother, Carl, when the death messenger claimed him. He fell to the floor with a moan and was immediately surrounded by sympathizing friends who endeavored to lend aid for his relief. Physicians were hurriedly telephoned for and Dr. Murphy arrived on the scene, shortly followed by Drs. Moats and Bratton, who gave all the medical aid possible without avail. He never rallied from the stroke. He had been ailing for some length of time, and doctors had prescribed a term of rest from active farm work, and he had but just moved here from Defiance, and expected to work in the hardware store, where he would have had but light work to do. He leaves a wife, mother and father and several sisters and one brother.

SHRINERS LEAVE ON A SPECIAL CAR

The band and patrol of Mizpah temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, accompanied by a number of other local Shriners, left at 3 o'clock this afternoon on a special interurban car, with Butler as their ultimate destination.

Brief stops are to be made for concerts and exhibition drills at Auburn and Waterloo, and at the latter town the Shriners will be met by autos and transported to Butler for similar exhibitions. The Shriners return at 11 o'clock tonight over the Wabash.

WARREN OPERATED IN COLUMBIA CITY

Identified There as One Simon P. Thompson, Found Insane.

Chief of Police Charles Lenz has received from Columbia City, in answer to inquiries, word that Charles L. Warren, the radiant groom of Beulah Youse-Warren and now in jail here for fraudulent check operations, is identified there as one Simon P. Thompson, who rigged banks in that town six years ago after the same formula he employed here and in other cities of Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. A South Whitley man who was in the Whitley county jail with Thompson in 1909, declares he recognizes in newspaper pictures of Warren the man who was his jail mate.

Thompson Went to Insane Asylum.

Simon P. Thompson was charged in Columbia City with defrauding a bank there after he had deposited a check for $5,000 and received a certificate for the amount. The deposited paper was found to be worthless and Thompson was arrested. His case was heard in the Whitley circuit court and on March 30, 1909, he was committed to the Northern Indiana Asylum for the Insane at Longcliff, Logansport, Attorneys Gates & Whiteleather, who appeared for him, having kept him out of the penitentiary on a plea of insanity. Thompson was released from Longcliff July 2, 1909.

To Chief Lenz a confession was made by Warren that he had once been arrested in Whitley county, but claimed that nothing was done with him on the charge for which he was taken. The man Thompson was arrested after his Columbia City exploit by officers along the Nickel Plate railway tracks near Dunfee, nine miles west of Fort Wayne.

Warren is making good progress in convincing the police and the jail officials here that his stories of being a voracious dope fiend are adroit bunk with clever method in it and that he is laying the foundation of a defense on the ground of insanity or mental irresponsibility due to the use of narcotic drugs.

CREDIT LOAN FAILS TO CHECK DECLINE

Foreign Exchange is Once More on Downward Path.

New York, Oct. 23.—In the face of the $500,000,000 credit established by the Anglo-French loan and of further private credits established or being negotiated for the account of English, French, Russian and Italian bankers, foreign exchange is again on the downward path. Today demand sterling dropped a cent from yesterday's quotation to 4.63, which represents a loss of ten points from the high mark reached on the recovery of the market shortly after the Anglo-French loan commissioners reached this country. The quotation is now thirteen points above the low point reached during the sensational decline of early September. The weakness is attributed to the recent enormous exports of munitions of war, which have been responsible for a flood of bills on London and Paris within the last two weeks.

More than $25,000,000 of gold for English account has been received from Canada this week and further importations of the metal are looked for, but in these days of hundred million dollar debits such amounts, the bankers say, are scarcely drops in the bucket.

CULVER MILITARY CONFERENCE IS OFF

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 23.—Because of the advocacy of President Wilson, the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy of measures that will add to the country's preparedness the Indiana conference to be held at Culver Oct. 29 and 30 to consider national defenses, has been postponed according to the announcement of Claude Nicely, secretary of the provisional organization. The headquarters of the organization are in this city.

MOTHER'S MANSION BURNS WHILE SON IS BEING WED

Peru, Ind., Oct. 23.—Mrs. Louise Cole's handsome Fairview home three miles east of Peru, valued at $25,000, was destroyed by fire today while her son, Louis Cole, and Miss Ella McCaffrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCaffrey, were being married at St. Charles Catholic church by Rev. Lawrence Monahan. The Coles were not notified of the fire until after the wedding.

EXPECT 25,000 WOMEN IN LINE

New York City is Scene of Greatest Suffrage Parade Today.

FULLY 10,000 MEN ALSO IN PAGEANT

Mother and Child Division Answer to Charges Made by the Antis.

New York, Oct. 23.—Suffrage leaders were busy today mobilizing thousands of women and several thousand men for the march up Fifth avenue in what the leaders say will be the greatest demonstration ever made in favor of woman suffrage. The enthusiastic leaders predicted that fully 25,000 women would be in line at 3 o'clock, the hour scheduled for the start from Washington square. In addition to the women more than 10,000 men have registered for the parade.

The chief feature of the march, aside from the numerical strength, was the mother and child division. Scores of children in baby carriages, decorated with yellow and white, or purple, white and green ribbons, were included in this division, as well as many others between the ages of eight and sixteen years.

A Formidable Answer.

The mothers believed that the large representation of children would be a formidable answer to the antis who charged that suffrage workers had neglected their children to march.

The children wore small white felt hats, identical with those worn by the women marchers.

Before starting in the main march a delegation from the Women's Political union paraded along the east side. A majority of the marchers were provided with torches, as it was thought the parade would not be completed until after dark.

Miss Albert A. Hill, as grand marshal, is to lead the parade. Miss Hill and her staff will be on horseback and will wear the convention black riding habit, black derbies and broad sashes of purple, white and green.

The "Victory" Float.

Ten women, representing "Victory," "Liberty," "Equality," "Justice" and the six continents are to ride on a "Victory" float in the maid body of the parade. Delegations from the various suffrage organizations of the state will be in line. Other divisions will represent the states where women now have the franchise, countries having equal suffrage, professional women and business women, colleges, teachers, nurses, actresses, artists and various nationalities.

POLICE ARE SEEKING WOMAN, "SIZE FORTY"

Indianapolis, Oct. 23.—Burglars forced a side door of the Hargrove suit and cloak house, of this city, some time during the night, and took furs, cloaks and suits valued at approximately $2,000. The estimate was made today by C. M. Hargrove, son of W. V. Hargrove, proprietor of the store. A woman "size forty" is being sought by the police in connection with the robbery. A woman who tried on numerous size forty suits and cloaks and showed a preference for the highest priced furs in the establishment paid a long visit to the store less than a week ago.

The suits and cloaks were taken from the size 40 case.

LAST MINUTE NEWS

HASTEN OUT TO SEE WILSON AND FIANCEE

Washington, Oct. 23.—President Wilson went for a long automobile ride today accompanied by Mrs. Galt, his fiancee, and Miss Margaret Wilson, his daughter. The president went to Emmittsburg, Md., seventy-five miles from Washington, and took lunch with a brother-in-law of Mrs. Galts. People along the country roads hurried out to catch a glimpse of the president and Mrs. Galt.

ITALIAN STEAMSHIP SUNK BY AUSTRIAN SUBMARINE

Paris, Oct. 22.—The Temps publishes a dispatch from Geneva, giving an Athens report that an Austrian submarine has sunk an Italian steamship. The name of the vessel is not given.

Check Swindler Coffey Continues Sham to Last

A. P. Coffey, a check swindler arrested by Sheriff A. C. Gladieux several weeks ago after Coffey had executed a check swindling operation in New Haven, and who since his apprehension has feigned a highly ornate brand of insanity, was arraigned in the circuit court Saturday and received a sentence of one to five years in the penitentiary at Michigan City.

When brought into court and arraigned Coffey continued his refusal to talk that he had persisted in since his arrest, but on a slip of paper wrote that he wished to change his plea from not guilty to guilty. When presented for sentence he indicted another chirographic message to the judge, and then the blow fell.

Up to the day of his arrest Coffey had been talking voluminously around New Haven. He gives his age as 30, his residence as Indianapolis and his occupation as a salesman. He victimized the New Haven bank with a worthless check for $5.

GOES TO PRISON FOR ASSAULTING A WOMAN

Elmer A. Jackson to Spend Two to Fourteen Years in Penitentiary.

Elmer C. Jackson, aged 35 years, pleaded guilty in the circuit court Saturday morning to assault and battery with intent to commit criminal assault and was sentenced to serve two to fourteen years in the state prison at Michigan City. The crime was committed near Sprankle station, on the Southwestern Interurban line, five miles southwest of the city. Jackson has been married, but is separated from his wife. He is believed to be a thorough degenerate.

Wife is Making Him Trouble.

In a complaint for divorce filed in the superior court by Hattie M. Driver against William Driver, the plaintiff among other things charges that her husband procured her signature to a deed transferring title to fifty-seven acres of land in Maumee township to his father for the purpose of contesting a suit to forelose a mortgage for $3,500 that is on the property. She says he has not delivered the deed and does not intend to, but she wants a restraining order to prevent him from doing so and from disposing of certain chattels on the farm. The wife charges that her husband is a habitual drunkard and unfit to have charge of five minor children of whom she asks custody. She also wants suitable alimony. Colerick & Hogan are attorneys.

Says Wife Heckles Him.

Martin D. Wright complains in the superior court of Nerla Wright and wants a divorce on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. He says that since their marriage in 1910 she has constantly nagged him, has refused to cook his meals and wash and mend his clothes and gets angry without cause because of her ungovernable temper. They separated last month and have no children. Emrick & Emrick appear for the plaintiff.

Notes of the Courts.

Jessie Tegtmeyer has brought suit in the superior court against Benjamin B. and Lillian A. Shaw to collect a note for $575. R. B. Dreibelbiss is attorney for the plaintiff.

Edwin S. Kleindinst has brought suit in the superior court against E. M. Smith. Guy Rager and the Automatic Baseball company to recover $500 alleged to be as rental for the building at 1232 Calhoun street. An attachment for the property of the defendants was issued. Hugh M. Olds appears for the plaintiff.

Clarence Schonell and Amelia Schonell have brought suit in the circuit court against Sarah Elizabeth Miner and others to quiet title to real estate. Barrett, Morris & Hoffman are attorneys for the plaintiff.

In the superior court the suit of A. L. Randall vs. J. Frank Dinnen has been dismissed.

Judge Yaple in the superior court has continued for thirty days the contempt proceedings against James Crowel for failure to make payments ordered for his divorced wife, Ollie Crowel.

The superior court has granted Inez Ransom a divorce from Andrew Ransom and a similar decree to Morgan Fortney from Ethel Fortney.

The superior court has given judgment for $2,177 to Jesse Orin Longsworth against Ralph W. Cramer. Eugene Pauley, Effie Cramer and the Freiburger Hardware company were given smaller judgments against the same defendant on intervening claims for which liens were taken and Effie Cramor was held to be the owner of one-third the property involved. Mortgages were foreclosed against all the defendants in the suit and the property was ordered sold.

The circuit court has given judgment for $275.30 to the plaintiff in the suit of the Woodburn Lumber company vs. Clinton Gustin on a note.

GOOD WEEK FOR ROAD WORK.

The past week has been auspicious for work on the public highways and the most has been made of it. County Superintendent of Roads William Tonkel was making fine progress with the work of resurfacing the Maysville road until his supply of tarvia was exhausted. With two weeks more of favoring weather the Yellow river road will be completed, according to President James D. Butt, of the board of commissioners.

BOYS AT DETENTION HOME MAKE A BREAK

While Superintendent Charles A. Singrey, of the juvenile detention home on the new county farm, eight miles north of Fort Wayne, was in the city attending juvenile court, Saturday, five of his young male wards decided the time auspicious for a general delivery and ran away. Mrs. Singrey, the matron, learned of the break for liberty and by telephone notified Superintendent Singrey and he with Deputy Sheriffs Ed Courdevey and D. Mills started by automobile in pursuit. The boys were found about four miles northeast of the city. When they saw the car approaching they recognized Superintendent Singrey and all jumped the fence and started across the fields. Several shots in the air from Deputy Courdevey's revolver brought the boys to a standstill and all were brought into the juvenile court Saturday afternoon to face Judge Eggeman. The lads who ran away were Lester Snyder, 11; Willard Snelling, 13; Thomas Martin, 10; Gerald Martin, 11; Leo Schnitz, 13. Judge Eggeman ordered Snyder and Snelling committed to the boys' school at Plainfield.

BIG WORDS WERE BUGABOO.

Indianapolis, Oct. 21.—The difficulties which Harold Morris, aged thirteen, experienced in the study of orthography prompted him to run away from his home in Frankfort, Ind., Sunday afternoon. He was found in this city yesterday at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Lottie Butler, 136 North Belmont avenue.

"My teacher kept me after school and made me write two words seventy-five times because I couldn't spell them," the boy told the police, who had been asked to assist in the search for him. "I'd rather visit Aunt Lottie than go to school and spell all them big words," he continued.

Otto Morris, the boy's father, came to Indianapolis last night and took him home. There is no definite information concerning subsequent happenings.

LOS ANGELES GETS IT.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 23.—Los Angeles was chosen as the place of meeting of the national council of Congregational churches in 1917, after a contest between delegations from Illinois and California, which kept the council in a gale of laughter by reason of the repartee of those who were explaining the allurements of Chicago and Los Angeles, respectively, until the vote was ordered.

WILL PROBE CHARGES.

Washington, Oct. 23.—The federal trade commission today ordered an investigation of charges that combinations of cotton buyers exist in North and South Carolina and Georgia to depress the price of cotton.

HOEMIG TO HOSPITAL.

Charles Hoemig, who was seriously injured when his automobile driven by his daughter, Mrs. Nora Havens, was struck by an Ohio Electric car on the first crossing west of New Haven, just off of the Lincoln highway last Sunday, is reported worse and will be removed to the St. Joseph hospital some time Saturday. The others who were injured are improving.

EIGHTY-THREE YEARS OLD.

John D. Smith, who makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. Elsie Kiger, 2812 Indiana avenue, celebrated his eighty-third birthday anniversary, Saturday, at the home of his son, Andrew Wilson Smith, 1650 Wells street. Mrs. Smith died a year and a half ago shortly after their golden wedding ceremony which was held on December 24, 1913.

Tired of Farm, Boy Hikes 250 Miles to Chicago in 2 Days

RICHARD LILLARD

Chicago, Oct. 7.—"Hiker" Dan O'Leary has a youthful rival, or else the kindergarten club has taken in a new member.

Be that as it may, Richard Lillard, aged seven, is in Chicago, waiting to hear from "mother" or "Aunt Virgie." He says he walked from his home in Kahoka, Mo. and made the trip—a stretch of 250 miles in two days. "I'd rather hike than pitch hay, that's why I left Kahoka," he explained.

50,000 WOMEN MARCH IN GREATEST SUFFRAGE PARADE.

MISS CAVELL DIED LIKE TRUE HEROINE

English Nurse, Executed by Germans, Went to Her Death Bravely.

London, Oct. 23.—The British foreign office made public the report of Rev. H. S. T. Gahan, the British chaplain in Brussels, who visited Miss Edith Cavell just before her execution, and a letter from Brand Whitlock, the American minister to Belgium, to Walter Page, the American ambassador in London.

In his letter Mr. Whitlock says he requested that the body of Miss Cavell be delivered to the school for nurses, of which she was the directress, his request being referred to the ministry of war in Berlin.

Found Psisoner Calm.

The Rev. Mr. Gahan in his report said:

"Her first words to me were upon a matter concerning herself personally. She then added that she wished all her friends to know that she willingly gave her life for her country, and said:

"'I have no fear nor shrinking. I have seen death so often that it is not strange or fearful to me.'

"She further said: "'I thank God for this ten weeks of quiet before the end. My life has always been hurried and full of difficulties; this time the rest has been a great mercy. They have all been very kind to me here. But this I would say, standing as I do in view of God and eternity: I realize that patriotism is not enough. I must have no hatred or bitterness towards any one.'

"A German military chaplain was with her at the end and afterward gave her a christian burial. He told me:

"'She was brave and bright to the last. She professed her christian faith and said she was glad to die for her country. She died like a heroine.'"

NOTED SCULPTOR IS DEAD.

T. Waldo Story Passes Away at His Home in New York.

New York, Oct. 23.—T'l Waldo Storey, the sculptor, died at his home here today. He had been seriously ill for some days, suffering from a brain clot.

The first sattue ever placed in the house of commons, the figure of Sir William Vernon Harcourt, installed there in 1906, was his work.

In America his work includes the gold mosaic meforal to Mr. and Mrs. August Belmont in Trinity church, Newport, R. I., the drinking fountain presented to Hopedale, Mass., by Gen. Draper and the bronze doors of the library of the late J. P. Morgan.

THE DEATHS.

ALTER.

Marie Julia Alter, five months and one week old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Alter, died at noon on Saturday at the family residence, 817 Erie street, of bronchial affection and pneumonia. The father is a well known clerk employed by the Becker Paper company. Four brothers and three sisters survive beside the parents.

Funeral at 2 o'clock on Monday at St. Mary's Catholic church. Interment in Catholic cemetery.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE.

Harold, the three-year-old son of S. H. Harvey, 434 West Creighton avenue, was struck by an automobile driven by W. A. Grayless, 2119 Creighton avenue, Friday evening, and knocked down, the machine passing over him. He was not injured in the least, as the wheels of the car never touched him.

BOMBARDING BULGARIANS.

London, Oct. 23.—The British admiralty today issued the following statement concerning the bombardment of the Bulgarian coast:

"The bombardment of the Bulgarian coast was carried out by an allied squadron composed of British, French and Russian ships, on the afternoon of the 21st.

A number of military positions were shelled and serious damage was inflicted on the harbor works, the railroad station and on shipping at Dedaghatch. Great care was exercised by the allied squadron to avoid firing upon any points other than those known to be of military importance.

BLOCK GERMAN ADVANCE.

Paris, Oct. 23.—Yesterday evening detachments of German troops endeavored to advance from their trenches, near Bois-en-Heche and Givenchy, but they were quickly disposed of, according to the official statement given out by the war office this afternoon.

D. B. Long, buyer for Wolf & Dessauer, has returned from New York wehre he has been for the past week.

A telephone call sent the chemical of No. 3 to the residence of Charles Thiesen, 1124 Sinclair street, at 11:05 o'clock Saturday morning where smoke from the furnace had filled the house. Fearing that the house was on fire the call was sent in.

SHE'S ONLY 24, BUT SHE SMOKES AND WEARS TROUSERS AS SOCIETY REBEL.

Margaret Anderson.

By Honor Fanning.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 23—Trousers are merely a form of self-expression.

A cigaret is sometimes a smoke, but to Margaret Anderson, poet, musician, liberal thinker, and editor of the "magazine of revolt," the Little Review, a Philip Morris is a protest!

A combination of trousers, cigarets and liberal views is a rebellion—a revolt against social convention, and a system of false economies.

On these philosophic grounds the founder and editor of the Little Review explains Chicago's misapprehension about those awful "troudies" she's been wearing lately; about the cigaret and the "anarchistic" views credited to the former society favorite.

"Why shouldn't women wear trousers!" repeated the "society rebel." "Why shouldn't women do anything they want to do? And why should they be expected to do the things men, and other women, want them to do?

"We are all in bondage to social convention, and only by rebellion may we break those bonds. I have been in revolt since I was 8. (She's now only 24). My first revolt was against my family—against home bondage. It's the hardest of all to break, because the fetters are forged by love, and love and reason are not easily reconciled."

Although her "social revolt" began at eight, Margaret Anderson, now known the country over as a disciple of Emma Goldman, did not find her medium or "self-expression" until last November, when she founded the Little Review. She left a luxurious home in Dayton, O., to cast her lot with the social revolutionists—and incidentally she won the privilege of wearing trousers.

THREE CALIFORNIA GIRLS BROUGHT GOLD FOR MRS. GALT'S WEDDING RING.

© G.V. Buck

Three California girls and their chaperon, who came all the way from the Pacific coast to Washington with the precious yellow gold in its raw state, with the suggestion, happily accepted, that it be used in making the wedding ring for Mrs. Galt, bride-to-be of President Wilson. From left to right they are Mrs. Gaillard Stoney (chaperon,) Miss Dorothy Starr, Miss Altha McQueeney and Miss Esther Bull. Altha McQueeney, the youngest member, won the trip east because her invitation to President Wilson was the best composed one submitted by the girls of the grammar school grades in her city.

For Fort Wayne and vicinity, (radius 20 miles): Fair and slightly warmer tonight; Sunday fair.

For Indiana: Fair, slightly warmer tonight; Sunday fair.

For Ohio: Fair tonight, slightly warmer west and south portions; Sunday fair.

For Lower Michigan: Generally fair tonight and Sunday; slightly warmer tonight.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Low pressure overlies the extreme northeast and north Pacific region, while in the interior sections of the country the pressure is high. Except that there was rain in portions of the south Atlantic and north Pacific states, this distribution of pressure resulted in generally fair weather during the last 24 hours. The temperature is somewhat lower in the eastern portion of the lake region, New England and the south Atlantic states, but in the other portions of the country the temperature changes have been unimportant. Except in the northeast and portions of the southwest, the weather is generally warmer than the seasonal average.

MORE APPLE PICKING.

Society Girls Make Another Invasion of Farmers' Orchards.

Another invasion of apple orchards in Allen county was made Saturday by a number of Fort Wayne society girls. The automobiles were furnished through the efforts of Secretary Charles L. Biederwolf, of the Commercial club, and the pretty girls were supplied through Mrs. Mary G. Keel, chairman of the philanthropic department of the Woman's Club league.

The apples that were gathered last week have all been distributed among many needy and worthy families in Fort Wayne through the Associated Charities.

HORSE'S LEGS BROKEN.

A horse belonging to John Burch, of Milan township, frightened at an automobile Friday evening west of the city and whirling suddenly, jumped directly in front of the machine. The horse's hind legs were broken. The automobile belonged to Lloyd Hursh.

One of the novel features of the St. Peter's church fair soon to be held will be the Chinese laundry booth in charge of George J. Phillip, assisted by his three sons, dressed in Chinese costume.

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR CROSS, SICK FEVERISH CHILD

If little stomach is sour, liver torpid or bowels clogged.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it can not cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoe, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Advertisement.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

DREAM TRUE BEFORE HE DREAMED IT

Adams County Farmer Has Vision of Loss of Papers By Fire—Wife Had Already Burned Them.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 23.—Through an oversight and because she had been told by the husband that a bundle of papers, lying on a table where he had been going over his notes and bank certificates, were worthless, Mrs. Adam Pease, wife of one of the best known retired farmers of Wells county, cast into the fire notes and mortgages of the value of between six and seven thousand dollars, a few days ago, and all were burned to ashes.

Mr. Pease had been going over the papers sorting them out and after doing this had put some of them away, however, leaving a bundle on the table. Soon afterwards Mrs. Pease was cleaning up about the house and when she saw the papers asked the husband if they were of any value and being told that they were not, she threw them into the fire.

Nothing more was thought about the matter for several days, Mr. Pease thinking that his securities were safe, rested in perfect ease, but recently he dreamed about his notes being burned and in a few nights the dream was repeated. This weighed upon his mind to the extent that he made an investigation of his papers, when he found they were gone, and then the incident of burning the bundle of papers came back to his mind and he knew what had become of them. As nearly as it could be done an inventory of the last notes was made and today a son-in-law, C. M. Andrews, is traveling over the country in an effort to get matters straightened out again.

Many of the notes are secured by mortgage, and there is no difficulty in getting a line on these, but others are not and are the source of more difficulty. So far little difficulty has been experienced and in every instance where the parties have been located the promise of new notes was secured.

For years Mr. Pease resided in Adams county, until he retired from farming and moved to Craigville.

MONROE TOWNSHIP PIONEER DIES.

Monroe, Ind., Oct. 23.—Funeral services were held in the M. E. church here this morning over the remains of Mrs. Malinda Martin, wife of David Martin. She was one of the pioneer residents of Monroe township. She was born in Champaign county, Ohio, March 4th, 1833, and came with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Clem, to this vicinity when quite young. On January 1st, 1853, she was united in marriage to David Martin, at her parents' home in Monroe township, a few miles east of Monroeville. Surviving her are husband and the following children: Burt and David Martin, Jr., of this vicinity; William Martin, of Jackson township; Joseph and Alvin Martin, Mrs. Floretta Bowers and Mrs. Nannie Stuck, of Fort Wayne; Samuel Martin, of Spokane, Washington, and Mary Ellen Stephenson, of Michigan.

FARMER HAS DELUSIONS.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 23.—James K. Beaty, aged about 65, a prominent farmer of Jefferson township, living east of Ossian, was taken into custody shortly after noon today by Sheriff J. A. Johnston and Deputy Sheriff George Albright and was brought to the Bluffton jail, pending further developments in the case. The relatives of Mr. Beaty have reported that his talk and actions recently have indicated that he is demented. Mr. Beaty imagines during his attacks of dementia that he is the victim of intrigues, and his delusions have led him to make threats, it is reported, against members of his own family. It it said he also imagines there were trespassers on his place last night and that on occasions he has grabbed a gun to give pursuit to imaginary prowlers, even going so far as to discharge the weapon.

GETS ANOTHER WAR ORDER.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 23.—The Columbia Woolen mill was much flattered Friday morning when the request came to them from New York, from the agents of the French government, asking them to make all the cloth they could make for them till Nov. 1st, and the mill immediately, accepted 4,000 yards more. This is a green-grey cloth, very heavy, and will be used in making overcoats. The additional order will amount to over $5,000 and the men in charge of the mill think that they can turn it out in a week. The shipments of cloth from the mill have averaged over $1,000 per day every day this month with the exception of Sundays. The mill will soon complete an order for 10,000 yards for the French government.

How To Get Rid of a Bad Cough

A Home-Made Remedy that Will Do It Quickly. Cheap and Easily Made

If you have a bad cough or chest cold which refuses to yield to ordinary remedies, get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking a teaspoonful every hour or two. In 24 hours your cough will be conquered or very nearly so. Even whooping cough is greatly relieved in this way.

The above mixture makes a full pint—a family supply—of the finest cough syrup that money could buy—at a cost of only 54 cents. Easily prepared in 5 minutes. Full directions with Pinex.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup preparation takes right hold of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough in a way that is really remarkable. Also quickly heals the inflamed membranes which accompany a painful cough, and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. Excellent for bronchitis, spasmodic croup and winter coughs. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children like it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, which is so healing to the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex,"—do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PIONEER OF LAGRANGE DIES.

Lagrange, Ind., Oct. 23.—William S. Olney, aged 81 years, who has been very poorly all summer passed away at his home in VanBuren township. He was born on the farm where he died, September 16, 1834, and has spent his entire life there. His parents located in VanBuren township in 1830. He has been one of the prominent and well-to-do citizens of that part of the county, owning over 400 acres of land. He is survived by his aged wife, to whom he was married June 10, 1858, one son, Edward A. Olney, and one grandchild. Funeral services will be conducted at the M. E. church in Scott this afternoon.

SAVES LIFE OF BLIND COLT.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 23.—A blind colt recently purchased by George Hardesty, was saved from a watery grave Friday by Earl Wornock. Mr. Wornock is being highly complimented for his rescue but he modestly seeks to disparage his heroism. The colt was pastured on Paxson's island and in some way got into the river and made its way down stream until it fell into the quarry, just west of the interurban bridge. It was swimming around in a circle when Mr. Wornock discovered it and whistled to it. The colt swam to him and was easily led out on the bank.

GOVERNOR TO VISIT HUNTINGTON.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 23.—Assurances have been given the Rev. Elmer Ward Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church, by Governor S. M. Ralston, that he will appear at a banquet to be given by the members of the Huntington Commercial club, some time during the first two weeks in November. The Rev. Cole, who, with I. B. Potts, had been appointed a special committee to obtain speakers for the banquet, went to Indianapolis with the express purpose of obtaining the chief executive's consent to feature the event here.

MONTPELIER MAN TO TAKE BRIDE.

Montpelier, Ind., Oct. 23.—An announcement has been made of the coming marriage of Miss Anna Reel, of Gas City, to Harry Krepts, of this city. The announcement will come as a surprise to the many friends of the young couple. Miss Reel has been visiting at the home of Fred Coons of this city and while not generally known here, she has made friends of all who have come in contact with her. The young man is well known in this city. He is the son of William Krepts, and has a wide circle of friends in the city.

PAYS FINE FOR BITING SON.

Van Wert, Ohio, Oct. 23.—In the hearing of the case against James Oddo, charged with whipping and biting his eight-year-old child, Joe, in mayor's court, the defendant was found guilty and was fined $10 and costs. Oddo was arrested on the testimony of several witnesses who complained of his cruelty to the boy. In his defense Oddo stated that he did not know he was acting contrary to the law and was merely following customs of punishment in Italy, his former home.

HAS THE CHAMP PEAR TREE.

Kendallville, Ind., Oct. 23.—C. S. Wert of this city, claims to have the champion winter pear tree of this section. He completed picking the fruit from the tree Thursday and had an even fourteen bushels. The tree is not very large but each limb was loaded very heavily. Last year the tree had five bushels. Another tree on Mr. Wert's lawn this year had about five bushels, so that he is well supplied with this luscious winter fruit.

PIONEER OF BRIMFIELD DIES.

Kendallville, Ind., Oct. 23.—Reuben Monroe, age about 62 years, a resident of Brimfield almost half a century, died at his home there of cancer of the stomach. Death followed a lingering illness. For a number of years he was engaged as painter and paper hanger and was regarded as a skilfull decorator. He is survived by a widow. The funeral was held Saturday at 2 p. m., from the U. B. church. Interment was made at Osborn cemetery.

FRENCH DEDICATE FLAGE.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 23.—La Prevoyance, a French mutual society, held dedicatory exercises for a new flag. There were several visitors, among them being George Dutilleaux and Gaston Guignare, of Belgium, who are spending the winter in this city. They sang a French patriotic song which captivated the house. A number of aged Belgians living on the south side, who do not belong to the society, were guests.

MENTONE CITIZEN DEAD.

Mentone, Ind., Oct. 23.—Elmer Yocum, father of Dr. M. G. Yocum, who had been in poor health for several years, died yesterday morning, a little after midnight. Although in feeble health it was thought that he had been gaining slowly for a few weeks past, until on Sunday evening when he was taken with apoplectic symptoms and failed quite rapidly until the end came.

AGED WOMAN AIDS BAZAAR.

Portland, Ind., Oct. 23.—The first contributions for the new hospital bazaar to be held here in November, was received today from Caney, Kas., from Mrs. Ruth Ross-Stratton and her mother, Mrs. Jellison, formerly of this city. Mrs. Jellison, who is over 83 years old, sent a tray cloth made by her. Her daughter gave two fancy caps.

NEW HAVEN NEWS.

New Haven, Ind., Oct. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Wolf, of Wichita, Kansas, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Wolf, east of town.

The funeral services of Isabelle Bercot, who died at her home in Cleveland, and who was a former resident of Allen county, were held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. John's Catholic church.

Miss Lillian Wilson is visiting in Cuyahoga Falls, O.

Mrs. Albert Cramer and daughter, Mrs. Blaine Butler, were called to Fort Wayne Thursday by the illness of the former's sister, Mrs. Belle Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Welling are now living in their home on Summit street.

The Ladies of the Lutheran Sewing circle met with Mrs. Conrad Buhr Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Williard Lucas and little son Williard, have left for Wray, Colo., where they will visit her sister, Mrs. Sylvester Mix.

Mrs. August Bandelier and family will move to Fort Wayne soon. Mr. Weaver and family from west of town, will occupy the house vacated by Mrs. Bandelier.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Grubb are enjoying a two weeks' trip through Michigan.

The funeral services of John C. Hazelet were held this afternoon at the M. E. church. The deceased had spent most of his life in this vicinity and his sudden death was a great shock to the community.

On Thursday evening, October 28, Frederick J. Baylis will give a lecture at the Methodist Protestant church. His subject is "From the Breadline to the Pulpit."

OFFICER IMPERSONATED.

Seeks Quinine Over Long Distance Phone, Saying He Is H. E. Barnard.

Columbus, Ind., Oct. 23.—During the recent effort said to have been made to corner the Indiana quinine market, some one impersonated H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner, in an effort to buy up a supply of quinine here. A long distance telephone message came from Indianapolis to Theodore E. Otto, local pharmacist and formerly a member of the state board of pharmacy. The speaker represented himself as being Mr. Barnard. He wished to know how much quinine Mr. Otto could let him have. The local druggist knew how much quinine Mr. Otto could let him have. The local druggist knew there had been a rapid advance in price, so he told the man he could have only a little of the drug.

"So you're next, are you?" asked the voice at the other end of the wire.

Mr. Otto investigated, and found Mr. Barnard had not been talking to him at all.

ALL OVER BUT THE VOTE, SAYS DETROIT

City Certain to Have Municipal Street Cars by January 1.

By Dean Halliday.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 23.—It is all over but a final voting on Tuesday, Nov. 2—then Detroit will proceed to get busy and buy and then operate its present corporation-owned street railway system.

Already Detroit has voted for municipal ownership—they have been fighting for it 20 years—but Nov. 2 the citizens must vote on the plan by which the city can buy the Detroit United Railways system.

By Jan. 1, 1916, the city expects to have possession of the car lines, for there is little doubt but what the people will vote "yes" on the plan to purchase the system.

Under this plan judges of the circuit court will fix the price the city must pay. This is not expected to exceed $20,000,000.

Detroit's street railway commission—composed of three men, James Couzens, vice president of the Ford Motor Car company, John F. Dodge of the Dodge Motor Car company, and James Wilkie of the Parke-Davis Chemical company—is confident that under this plan the entire property can be paid from earnings, and the only city bonds that will ever need to be issued will be a portion of the million dollars that falls due in 1916.

Detroit wants real street car service—that is the vital issue. Since 1900 the street railway people growing fat from their profits, have refused to spend money for trackage that was adequate to the needs of the fast growing city.

From 1904 to 1913 revenue passengers carried on Detroit's railway system increased 180 per cent., from 78,349,220 to 219,606,056.

In the same period the company increased its trackage from 180 to 200 miles, approximately only 14 per cent.

The result of this failure to keep pace with the growth in population and traffic is that Detroit today has a traffic density of 1,062,000 revenue passengers per mile of track.

One gains a better idea of just what conditions are in Detroit, when one learns that the traffic density of this city today is only exceeded by Greater New York, which had a traffic density in 1914 of approximatel 1,190,000 per mile of track.

Those are the conditions that Detroit faces, and et as a result of a traffic survey the city has shown that $400,000 spent in re-routing downtown lines would increase the capacity of these lines 40 per cent.

In 1913 the city forced the company to a general 7-for-25-cent fare, with universal transfers. Eight for a quarter tickets are sold during the day on about 60 miles of lines and on all lines for an hour in the morning and evening.

So it is not a fight for cheap transportation as much as it is for service.

Terms of Proposition.

The terms of the proposition—to be voted on Nov. 2—by which the city of Detroit proposes to buy the street car system from the Detroit United Railways company, are briefly, as follows:

1. The city to buy the lines at a price to be fixed by judges of the Wayne county circuit court.

2. Within 60 days after approval of contract by the people the city to start suit for specific performance of the contract.

3. Within 30 days after this suit is started the company to deliver possession of the entire railway property within the one-fare zone.

4. Hearings to fix the price not to begin until city is in possession of the railway, the city to take all profits from the lines, pending fixing of price.

5. The city not to be personally obligated for a sum in excess of two per cent. of the assessed valuation, or $11,000,000. The remainder to be secured by the lines and their earnings.

6. The city is required to pay $1,000,000 on the purchase price in 1916. The balance will not fall due until 1932.

7. Pending fixing the price the city is required to set aside from earnings, in a sinking fund, $300,000 per year.

The price is not expected to exceed $20,000,000. The city expects to be in possession of the car lines by Jan. 1, 1916.

INVESTIGATES STAMP THEFT.

Secret Service Agent and Internal Revenue Officers at Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 23.—Captain Thomas E. Halls, of Indianapolis, secret service agent, is here investigating the theft of $14,601.06 worth of war emergency stamps from the internal revenue collector's office Monday night. The police believe the robbers escaped from the city in an automobile. A hot tamale dealer told the police he saw three men enter the federal building her about midnight Sunday. The officers here believe the stolen revenue stamps may be found easily. Herb Williams, a deputy in the revenue office, remained in the office Monday night and Tuesday night to guard $60,000 worth of stamps. There is no place to keep the stamps since the safe was cracked Sunday night.

DEER WITH GLASS EYE.

Hunter Kills Buck With Earmarks of Civilization.

Salinas, Cal., Oct. 23.—Abalardo Cooper, of Salinas, while hunting in the fastness of the San Lucia range, killed a four-point buck that had a glorious green glass eye in one of its sockets.

Besides, the ears had been swallow-tailed, a common practice in marking the ears of cattle, and its tail had been cut off in some manner so that only a stub an inch long stuck out.

It is thought possibly the deer was a pet of one of the ranches down in the Salinas valley, and when the "running" season started the deer answered the call of its mates and started for the wilds.

Beautiful Bust and Shoulders are possible if you will wear a scientifically constructed Bien Jolie Brassiere.

The dragging weight of an unconfined bust so stretches the supporting muscles that the contour of the figure is spoiled.

BIEN JOLIE (BE-AN JO-LEE) BRASSIERES put the bust back where it belongs, prevent the full bust from having the appearance of flabbiness, eliminate the danger of dragging muscles and confine the flesh of the shoulder giving a graceful line to the entire upper body.

They are the daintiest and most serviceable garments imaginable—come in all materials and styles: Cross Back, Hook Front, Surplice, Bandeau, etc. Boned with "Walohn," the rustless boning—permitting washing without removal.

Have your dealer show you Bien Jolie Brassieres, if not stocked, we will gladly send him, prepaid, samples to show you.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Exodus 20:18-26.

18 And all the people saw the thunderings, and the lightnings, and the noise of the trumpet, and the mountain smoking: and when the people saw it, they removed, and stood afar off.

19 And they said unto Moses, Speak thou with us, and we will hear: but let not God speak with us, lest we die.

20 And Moses said unto the people, Fear not: for God is come to prove you, and that his fear may be before your faces, that ye sin not.

21 And the people stood afar off, and Moses drew near unto the thick darkness where God was.

22 And the Lord said unto Moses, Thus thou shalt say unto the children of Israel, Ye have seen that I have talked with you from heaven.

23 Ye shall not make with me gods of silver, neither shall ye make unto you gods of gold.

24 An altar of earth thou shalt make unto me, and shalt sacrifice thereon thy burnt offerings, and thy peace offerings, thy sheep, and thine oxen: in all places where I record my name I will come unto thee, and I will bless thee.

25 And if thou wilt make me an altar of stone, thou shalt not build it of hewn stone: for if thou lift up thy tool upon it, thou hast polluted it.

26 Neither shalt thou go up by steps unto mine altar, that thy nakedness be not discovered thereon.

The Reorganized Wabash.

Slowly but surely the Wabash railroad system is emerging from its latest cloud of financial difficulty, and under a new Indiana charter as the Wabash Railway company it will seek a fresh, and, it is to be hoped, more promising start toward financial rejuvenation. Headed by Edward F. Kearney, who was president of the old company and later one of the co-receivers of the system, the reorganization has taken on new promise and without the handicap of some of the conditions that have long been a millstone about the neck of the Wabash.

The Wabash crosses Indiana in running from Toledo to St. Louis, and from Chicago to Toledo. It also has a line from New Haven, through Detroit to Buffalo, and a short branch from Attica to Covington. It also has lines running from Chicago to St. Louis, St. Louis to Kansas City and other lines, including a line into Pittsburg, making it one of the important trunk line railroads of the central states. Despite the extent of its mileage and the rich and important territory which it traverses, the road has had a stormy financial career for many years, and it has been in the hands of receivers so often that it is doubtful if even the stockholders themselves have memories sufficiently exact to enumerate its vicissitudes in this direction. It has been hampered not so much by lessened earnings or lowered net profits as by the internal clashings and bickerings of the varied interests which have at one time and another managed to get a clutch upon its neck and used the organization as the football of their financial fights. What the Wabash has lacked most has been team work of the interests which controlled it. This has constituted its greatest misfortune.

Yet in the face of long years of these calamitous conditions, the Wabash has managed to remain a big figure in American railroading, and to preserve its entity instead of being dismembered or swallowed up by some of the other systems which must have regarded it with envious eye. It is so important an institution to the territory through which it passes that there will be hope of future smooth sailing for the Wabash. Such a condition might for one thing make the securing of track elevation and similar improvements in Fort Wayne a less laborious and less protracted task than we have experienced in the past.

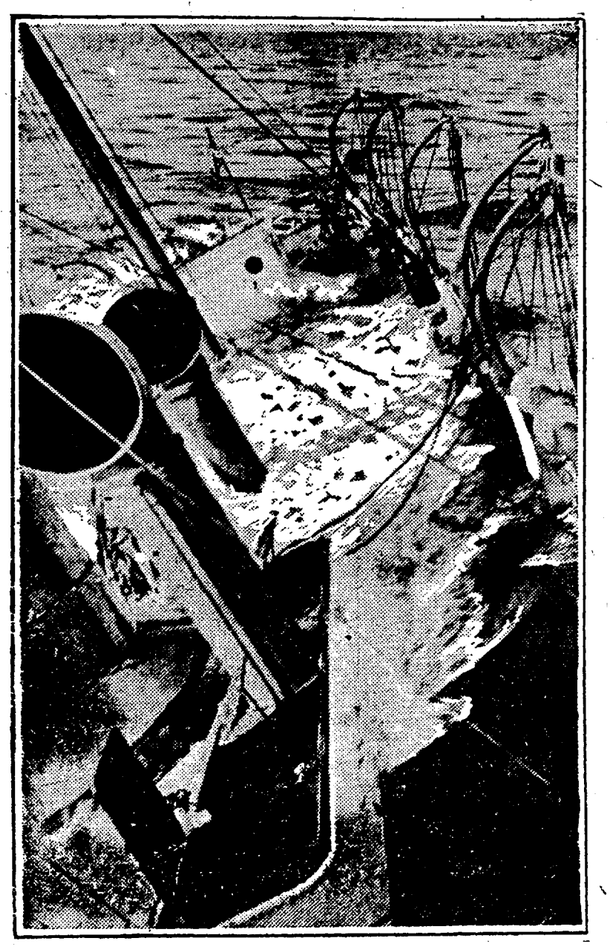
It is estimated that ten thousand Fort Wayne people embraced the opportunity to inspect the new Harmar school at the formal opening of that institution Friday. Not only did they see a thoroughly modern and magnificently equipped structure for educational purposes, but it was their privilege to see the pupils in the vocational departments at practical work which engages them from day to day in fitting them for the battle of life that is before them. It is a most happy state of affairs when mere pride in our educational institutions is supplemented by positive personal interest and a more closely-developed relationship between the parents and the schools in which their children are being trained. We believe it will be cheerfully agreed by the ten thousand people in attendance at the Harmar school opening that the visit was one well worth while.

Further illustration of the manner in which the new compensation act is working in Indiana is shown by the fact that the state industrial board has awarded $1,834 to Mrs. Mary Lichliter, of Randolph county, for the accidental death of her husband, John Lichliter, whose neck was broken in a fall from a gravel wagon September 14. The board also approved a settlement in the case of Charles Garriott, driver of a motor truck for Alonzo Ferguson, of South Bend. Garriott lost an arm and leg and he will receive $9.09 per week for 175 weeks. James McWhorter, of Seymour, will receive $5.50 a week for 150 weeks for the loss of a hand, severed by machinery.

Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, in the course of an address at Cleveland, amazed his hearers by taking the position that business needs more publicity. He condemned the practice of secrecy, and asserted the belief that the taking of the public into complete confidence and the establishing of closer and franker relations between business and the people would bring about an infinitely better state of affairs, removing much of the disposition to assail business because of practices which have been under suspicion. The general public and private individuals, said Judge Gary, have been in the past too far apart for the good of both.

Adjutnt General Frank L. Bridges, in his forthcoming report, will state that the Indiana national guard is now larger in membership and higher in efficiency than at any previous time in the history of the state militia, and he submits some rather convincing facts and figures to sustain his contention. This is the one effective way in which the adjutant general can "get back at" his foes who were declaring but a few months ago that the Indiana national guard had lapsed into little less than a monumental ruin and a military joke.

ALASKA WANTS MORE LIGHT; DARK COAST DANGEROUS TO GROWING COMMERCE.



The wreck of the "Tahoma," which struck an uncharted pinnacle.

Washington, Oct. 21.—The government faces the job of throwing more light on Alaskan waters. Chains of lighthouses must be built along the 26,000 miles of Alaska's coast to make navigation safer or the fullest development of our "far north" territory will never be realized.

On Sept. 20, 1914, the United States revenue cutter "Tahoma" struck an uncharted pinnacle rock of Agattu island in the western Aleutians, and went down. During the summer season last year two other vessels, the "Parameta" and the "Gayhead," struck submerged pinnacles and were wrecked. Others escaped almost by a miracle, some "scraping" or "touching" pinnacle rocks. The three ships that went down in 1914 were worth in the neighborhood of $500,000.

In recent years there have been lost more than 500 lives and property valued at more than $8,000,000 because of the lack of lighthouses and the fact that much of the coast is absolutely uncharted. Many wrecks strew the coast, landmarks of the failure to safeguard Alaskan waters.

With three exceptions there are no lighthouses at all from Icy strait, in southeastern Alaska, north to Nome, a distance of nearly 3,000 miles. Hinchbrook island at the entrance to Prince William sound has a lighthouse, and there are two at Unimak Pass, where vessels pass north through the Aleutian chain, but these are all in that stretch of coast.

The summer of 1916 will probably see the beginning of the shipment of coal from Alaska to the Pacific coast. The construction of the new $20,000,000 government railroad into the heart of the rich central valleys of Alaska will mean eventually an enormous development of commerce between the territory and the states. And Alaska's gateways are all coast terminals. SSteamship lines will multiply between the Pacific coast ports and the ports of Alaska. It is time to face the pressing question which will arise because of these facts. To insure her development Alaska must have her waters safeguarded: they are the gateway to her vast riches.

NATIONAL DEFENSE AND "PORK."

(Indianapolis News).

Without condemning in the least the desire to better national preparedness it may be well to suggest that it is just as possible to find "pork" in national defense as it is in river and harbor appropriations, pension funds, Indian, water power, irrigation, reclamation or public land bills. It is no exaggeration to say that the people are very much in earnest, that they are willing to do what is necessary and that they really desire to strengthen the army and the navy and increase the coast defenses. Certain cities are beginning to point out the advantages of a fort here, a training camp or academy there, a munitions plant over the way, a new—or larger—navy yard at such-and-such a port.

A St. Louis paper recently explained that a munitions plant—several of them, perhaps—should be constructed in the interior. By the process of deduction it is found that the Mississippi valley is the region most adaptable, and of all the cities in the valley it is argued that St. Louis is the logical and necessary site for such an establishment. Similar hopes have been expressed in Chicago and elsewhere. Each offers some argument, such as central location, transportation, population and the like. St. Louis is proud of Jefferson barracks, and there was a time when this station was of much importance. During the civil war the city was a concentration point and from it many of the campaigns in the west started. All this glory of history, however, has nothing to do with the building of a munitions plant on the Mississippi river.

Indianapolis can not very well refer to the ambitious projects afloat elsewhere without frankly admitting its own. Only the other day Senator Kern was quoted as proposing the establishment of a permanent training school for officers in or near Indianapolis. Such a school was to be second only to West Point, so that the officers graduated would increase the number of trained reserves. We do not imagine that this proposal will please other cities with similar forts or government establishments. No one knows exactly how the term "pork" originated, but everyone understands what it means. It means the extravagant or corrupt padding of appropriations. It is a natural weakness, perhaps, and there are indications that it will appear before long in the movement for preparedness.

JUST MANNERS.

(Milwaukee Journal).

"Manners," someone says, "are the minor morals." Say rather they are the outside symptoms of good morals. For good manners rise from consideration for others; they are the testimony to our recognition of the principle that no man liveth to himself.

So little a thing as not interrupting another person is our acceptance of everyone's right to that same privilege we challenge for ourselves of being heard. A green youth overcome by his own sapience, making himself heard loudly and listening little, is set down not merely as deficient in training and etiquette, but as lacking in common sense. And anyone "whom the music of his own vain tongue doth ravish like enchanting harmony" exhibits a rarely poor judgment of the relative importance of things. Mayhap it doesn't seem closely allied to morality that a man rises when a lady enters the room, but it is. Among savages they don't do that sort of thing; force alone compels respect. The homage of civilized man to other qualities is the reflection of his truer sense of values.

The other day we saw a young girl, 17 or 18, perhaps, listening quietly and attentively while her father told a story she had heard often. One sees so much of inattention and smirking deprecation of father's or mother's hobbies that it was a pleasant thing. We credit that little lady with far more than mere good training, with the right kind of heart. For truly good manners mean more than technique; they bespeak the true man—and the true woman, too.

The Wabash ticket office will soon have new furniture and a new carpet.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Riegel, who were but recently married, are cosily domiciled at Berry and Fulton streets.

Henry Colerick and John Bieghler addressed a big democratic meeting at Sheldon last night.

Wilson E. McDermut will deliver an address discussing the tariff tonight at the court house.

Judge S. M. Hench has returned from Noble county, where he was attending court.

Capt. William Bradley has completed a model of his electric street railway invention and he exhibited it today at the Central hotel.

The residents of New Haven will not enjoy the comforts and conveniences of natural gas this winter, as they had anticipated. The scheme to pipe the fuel to that town has been abandoned for the present.

Water of St. Mary's river have entirely washed away the lot of Mrs. Eissing, who resides in that part of the Fifth ward called Nebraska. Only the sidewalk remains of what was a $500 piece of property.

A vicious dog attacked and seriously bit a little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Hahn, 157 West Main street this morning and was shot by Marshal J. B. Franke. Dr. G. L. Greenawalt attended the child's injuries.

One thousand people came to Fort Wayne today on the Grand Rapids and Indiana railroad's "trade excursion from points north. The City band, employed by the Business Men's exchange, met the excursionists at the train and escorted them to the business center.

Messrs. John W. and Henry P. Vordermark have in their shoe store a record of unusual events. In the collection of rare happenings is recorded one of which today is the twenty-first anniversary. On October 23, 1869, a fall of snow one foot in depth came in this section and apples were red on the trees. It is something the like of which has never happened since.

A Word From Labor.

By P. H. Doty.

In recent years many of the silly and ungrounded prejudices against labor organizations have disappeared and those who entertained them, have in many instances, become enthusiastic supporters and advocates of the principles of modern unionism. It has been learned that instead of labor unions being fomentors of anarchy and lawlessness, they are in fact, among the strongest safeguards of law, order and morality. We need but take but a very few of the recent years for our restrospect to prove what the "organizations" have done for the railroad man in these particulars as well as for the stockholders, and what is true in this field is applicable in many others. Instead of being composed of reckless, dissolute and immoral persons, such characters are barred from membership in all labor organizations; and if an occasional exception to this rule is found, it is no more of a reflection upon the labor world than a defaulting teller on the banking system or a bribe-taking official upon popular government, or a carnal-minded minister of the gospel upon the christian religion. The more respectable persons employed in every handicraft are found among the members of the union of their craft and the higher the standard of intelligence becomes among such craftsmen, the higher becomes the safety of all institutions which are established for the public good, and the greater will be the security of the government of which they are in part auxiliaries. But if through public indifference or lethargy, laws are enacted that are detrimental to the people's welfare, the labor unions are the first to make the discovery and the last to let go their grasp for the repeal of such laws. Lust for private gain is the chief source of all such vicious penury-breeding legislation and it is the oppostion to this lust that has led to the establishment of craft organizations. The labor unions seek a better distribution of the wealth of the world among those whose labor creates it, and as the unions are multiplied, poverty is diminished and crime, which poverty propagates, is correspondingly decreased. When a man can earn a living by honest labor he is not apt to beg or steal, and the easier it is for him to find such employment the more certain is he to be engaged at it. Labor unions are doing more than any other agency to close up the avenues which lead to crime. As labor creates all wealth, it is but just that a more equitable distribution of it should be made, a condition aimed at by all organized bodies of wage earners.

Labor unions stand for high wages and improved conditions of life, physically, mentally, morally, and socially. The skilled mechanic who receives high wages and spends his earnings to maintain a well regulated home, assists and encourages every branch of legitimate business enterprise. He spends his surplus earnings for books that will instruct the members of his household, and for pictures and furniture and many luxuries that bring happiness and cheer to all that possess them. He patronizes the merchant and other tradesmen in proportion to his income, and his children are constant attendants at institutions of learning. He constitutes a potent factor for the well-being of humanity in general. He is a respected citizen, a credit and a benefit to his neighborhood and country. Being upright and honest he is indeed the noblest work of God.

But how about the other fellow, the man who is under-paid and half the time idle? The man who has not enough spirit to demand a legitimate compensation for the labor he performs, who lives more upon charity than the wages he receives? He is about as useful to society and about as much thought of as a strange dog that picks up his living from garbage cans down along the alleys and is kept busy dodging stones and clubs thrown by street loafers who enjoy about the same degree of home comforts as the object of their attack.

He is miserable himself, and tends strongly to make all others miserable who come in contact with him. Is the principle of organized effort right and legitiate? The progress of a nation is measured by the progress of its individual laborers, and each individual laborer's progress depends upon the development of labor unions.

Only a few years ago, when the labor unions took up the question of and brought about the shorter work day, we saw the dawning of a new era of inventions, and this came about because wage earners found opportunity during their increased hours of leisure to develop their latent inventive genius, thus adding to their own capabilities, increasing the commercial output of their employers and above all promoting the happiness of the world, and yet such men are alluded to as outlaws and anarchists by narrow-minded individuals because they are members of some labor union and that union is making a stand for justice.

I have already said that the persons of greatest intelligence employed in every handicraft are found among the members of the union of their craft. I wish to make the application broader by saying that the persons of greatest intelligence employed in every vocation in life have established unions for their mutual benefit, and although some of these unions are known by names that are less repulsive to the minds of the capitalistic class, which takes delight in robbing the laborer of his leigtimate earnings, they are unions nevertheless. The medical student passes his examination, pays his fee, gets his diploma, and is then permitted to practice his profession, and, furthermore, is protected by state and national law. He belongs to the "union." If he breaks any of the laws or rules he is known by his fellow craftsmen as a "quack," which is synonymous in the parlance of his profession with the word "scab" in the language of labor unionism. The lawyer is admitted to the bar, which is his union, and if he fails to gain admission he is not permtted to practice law in the courts of the country. The ministers of the gospel have their conferences. The merchants and bankers have their unions which are softened to suit the effect of the ear by calling them associations. The mining and manufacturing unions are called "Trusts." If a manufacturer refuses to be coerced into joining the particular trust which has assumed dictatorial power over his particular line of production, his inalienable rights as a citizen of this "great country," to be an independent manufacturer is knocked into a cocked hat by the manufacturers' union and in the end his business is either absorbed by the trust or sold by the sheriff.

The difference between a trust union and a labor union is that the former aims to concentrate the wealth of the country into the hands of the few by destroying competition in the various lines of industry, and by securing a monopoly of the market and curtailing the supply, so as to be able to fix absolutely, not only the price of the raw material and finished product, but everything that enters into the cost of the finished product, including rent, fuel, light, wages, etc., making the masses of the people absolutely dependent upon the trust and practically its slaves. The labor union aims to have an equitable distribution of the wealth which labor creates by giving a large portion to the laborers themselves, thus benefiting not only the millions of laborers but the hundreds of thousands of people who have their money invested in various enterprises which depend entirely upon the prosperity of the wage earning classes.

Were it not for labor unions the wealth of the country would be so rapidly concentrated that many now living would see conditions in America akin to those which have immediately preceded and hastened industrial and economic upheavels in the past history of the world that are too horrible even to contemplate.

Says World Peace Will Not Come

To the Editor: While the world is reeling at the spectacle of civilization going to pieces under the blow of a cataclysmic struggle, and while "the progress of mankind" is taking us toward destruction at an appalling rate, there are some religious leaders and statesmen who persist in talking world peace and predict the beginning of the millennium at the close of this war. This Utopian's dream will never be realized. Lasting, universal peace will never come between the nations of this world.

The word "millennium" signifies a thousand years, without any reference whatever to the character of the period, whether good or bad. It means simply and only a thousand years. In six verses in Rev. 20, this expression, "a thousand years" is used. It is a period in which Christ will reign with the just of all ages after they have been raised from the dead at the first resurrection.

Destruction, not conversion, awaits the world at the very time when many popular religious teachers cherish the delusive hope of the good time coming. They see no danger, and braud as fanatical alarmists those who obey the prophetic injunction, "Blow ye the trumpet in Zion, and sound an alarm in my holy mountain; let all the inhabitants of the land tremble; for the day of the Lord cometh, itis nigh at hand." "But," says the Apostle Paul, "when they shall say 'Peace and safety,' then sudden destruction cometh upon them."

The millenniai reign with Christ brought to view in Rev. 20, is not on this earth, but in heaven, for when the righteous dead are raised at his second coming, (1 Cor. 15:22-24), at the last trump, (1 Cor. 15:51-54), they are caught up to meet the Lord in the air, (1 Thess. 4:15-17), and are taken to heaven, where Christ is (John 14:1-3). Thus, the saints shall live and reign with Christ in heaven during the thousand years after the first resurrection, or the resurrection of the just. But it should be remembered that when Christ comes the second time and gives life to the righteous, at the same time the brightness and glory of his presence consume all the wicked, so that the earth is depopulated and left desolate. This will be clearly seen by a comparison of 2 Thes. 1:7-9, with Rev. 6:14-17; Rev. 19:11-21; Isa. 13:6-9; Isa. 24:1-3; Jer. 25:31-33; Zeph. 1:14-18, and Jer. 4:19-27.

When the living wicked are consumed by the burning glory of the coming of Christ, and the "blessed and holy" are taken to heaven to reign with Christ a thousand years, the earth, left desolate and uninhabited, is called "the bottomless pit," into which satan is cast and confined. In this desolated earth he remains bound for a thousand years. In the beginning the earth was "without form and void"; that is, it was in a chaotic, empty, desolate condition; and this will be its condition again during the millennium. Satan, confined in this earth during the millennium, and having no one to tempt and deceive, is said to be bound with a chain. This chain is a chain of circumstances, circumstances which not only limit his operations, but absolutely take away his opportunities to deceive and destroy souls.

But when the wicked dead are raised at the end of the thousands years, as we are informed in the first clause of Rev. 20:5, satan is said to be "loosed out of his prison, and shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth," as in verses seven and eight.

After satan and all his rebel host meet their fate in the lake of fire which envelops the earth, a new earth appears, with the New Jerusalem as its capital city. Rev. 20:9-15; Rev. 21:1-5. This will fulfil Isaiah 65:17-19, to which Peter refers in 2 Peter 3:10-13. This in brief, is the bible doctrine concerning the millennium.

Sincerely yours,
JNO. H. NIEHAUS,

Chips from the Pine Block

I JUMPED ABOARD A JITNEY BUS

—and fell upon my head. A lawyer picked my carcass up, and soothingly he said, "You should have waited till trap had stopped and let you in. We'll sue them for a million, but we'll have to work like sin." I jumped aboard the ambulance as it went dashing by. Another lawyer brought me to and pocketed my eye. The drive of the ambulance stopped not for cars nor trains. We spent the early afternoon in sorting out our brains.

For many years I went to court to hear the lawyers fight. I got judgment for one bone, another for my sight. Believe me, when I climb aboard the good old hearse at last, I'll see that care is taken that we do not go too fast. WAREHOUSE IS BURNED.

Evansville Concern Suffers Loss Estimated at $110,000.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 23.—Fire originating on the third floor of the Evansville Warehouse company late yesterday afternoon spread to all parts of the building before the fire department could get into action and two hours later the brick structure, which covered nearly a city block, was in ruins. The total loss is $110,000, with insurance estimated at $60,000. The heaviest losers are the Heilman estate, owners of the building, $50,000, and the Midland Mirror company, which occupied one floor, $35,000. A large number of firms had commodities stored in the building. The fire was so hot that firemen had difficulty in approaching to within 300 feet. To the fact that the wind was blowing toward the river, near which the building was located, is ascribed the escape of large saw mills and manufacturing plants in the vicinity. The cause of the blaze is unknown.

REMEDY FOR SUNDAY SICKNESS DISCOVERED

Rev. C. H. Snashall, pastor of the First Baptist church, has discovered a wonderful remedy for the very prevalent and contagious disease, Morbus Sabbaticus, more familiarly known as Sunday Sickness. The directions follow:

On Sunday morning rise at seven; use plenty of cold water on the face; eat a plain, hearty breakfast. Then mix up and take internally a dose composed of equal parts of the following ingredients, namely:

Will, Energy, Push.
Determination, Self-respect.
Respect for God's Day.
Respect for God's Book.
Respect for God's House.
A Desire to be Somebody.

Stir well; add a little sp. of love to insure sweetness. Repeat the dose every three minutes until church time, if relief does not come sooner. If the day is stormy, an external application of umbrellas, rubber coats and overshoes will be beneficial.

FORT WAYNE PUBLIC SCHOOL ORCHESTRA TURNS OUT REAL MUSIC AT THE HARMAR DEDICATION.

The Fort Wayne public schools now are possessed of an orchestra that Fort Wayne may well be proud of. Under the able direction of Prof. George J. Thompson the orchestra has developed to a remarkable degree in its short existence, and at the Harmar school opening Friday it did itself and its parents and its schools proud. The youngsters are Doris Welker, Everett Woods, Jack Gillion, Floyd Gaskill, Harry Coudret, James Thompson, Bertha Werkman, Ray Bronson, Robert Stetson, Robert Rogers, Leona Page, Herman Lowry, Charles Winans, Loeta Bovine, Walter Purcell, Robert Christ, Ruby Allen, Wesley Stewart, Joe Horner, Joseph Rond.

Society

About thirty ladies were guests at a very lovely bridge party given this afternoon at the Anthony hotel by Mrs. Thomas E. Potter, jr. Mrs. Potter received her guests quite informally but she was assisted in distributing tallies and visiting with the guests by Mrs. William H. Noll and by Miss Phyllis Potter, Miss Virginia Vernon, Miss Alice Wilding and Miss Katherine Bannister. The card tables occupied the north end of the reception hall of the hotel and numerous baskets with tall handles were filled with yellow chrysanthemums and oak leaves and placed on the piano, tables and against the balcony rail with very good effect. The guests were served a luncheon after the game, and the party was one of the delightful ones of the season.

Miss Linda McKinnie is going to Indianapolis next week and will be the guest of Miss Blanche Foster, who writes for the Indianapolis News, and the Indiana Press club banquet.

Miss Mamie Heine, of Wallace street, entertained the members of a card club to which she belongs on Thursday evening at dinner. The decorations were carried out in pink and white and the nut holders were paper pink chrysanthemums. Miss Nellie Miller won the prize at cards after the dinner.

A few friends perpetrated a surprise on Miss Ellen Kohrman, of Superior street, on Thursday evening. Enjoying the pleasant time were Misses Alma Huhn, Josephine Wehrle, Clara Suelzer, Marie Stock, Johanna Lindmann and Messrs. Alphonse Shilling, Lewis Bell, Clarence Mensing, Tom Kohrman, Al Kramer and Robert Ehinger.

Miss Hilda Trebach was hostess on Thursday evening for a pre-nuptial party in honor of Miss Minnie Ernsting, of Gay street. Gifts in aluminum ware were presented to the bride-elect. Misses Florence Gerding and Clara Schroeder won prizes in a game and presented the souvenirs to the honor guest. Miss Bertha Busching entertained at a pretty affair on Friday evening in honor of Miss Ernsting.

One of the most agreeable evenings of the season was spent at the home of Miss Frances Brey, 1923 Oliver street, when she entertained a jolly bunch of girls at a kindergarten party in honor of Miss Ferne Kircher, who is soon to leave for her home at Wabash. Kindergarten games were played and at a late hour a very good lunch was served. The hostess was assisted by Miss Ellen and Miss June Miller. Those who enjoyed this delightful affair were Misses Ferne Kircher, Euda Ramsey, Elizabeth Marshall, Lola, June and Ellen Miller, Guinevere Stamets, Frances Brey and Winnie and Ethyl Astry.

Miss Gladys Young, who is living with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Greene, of West Berry street, at present, had a party this afternoon for a few school girls that was given for her by her aunt, Mrs. W. H. Noll. The company attended the New Palace performance and then went to the Anthony hotel for ice cream and other sweets. Mrs. Greene was the chaperon. The guests who enjoyed Miss Gladys' party were Virginia Vernon, Ruth Tepepr, Julia Bash, Margaret Ann Keegan, Inez Hartzler, Charlotte Auger, Mary Belle Jackson, Louise Metzger, Florence Gruber, Grace Hamlett, Helen Bittler, Angela and Katherine Gilmartin.

Mrs. Pauline Kuner of East Williams street, entertained the children of her Sunday school class. There were planned for the children's pleasure many games, a nice supper and pretty decorations of pumpkin lights, yellow flowers and pretty favors of the season. The children were Irene Noble, Irene Klotz, Cleo Schmitz, Lillian Pelton, Ruth Waltemath, Adaline Krudop, Vera Sheets, Mildred Sheets, Elizabeth Fisher, Evelin Fliger, Grace Blough, Ruth Ricketts, Alma Pressler, Melwin Lew, Clara Neibel. Mrs. Kuner was assisted in entertaining the children by Rupert Kuner, George Lash, Mrs. W. G. Lew and Miss Alice Neibel.

A number of the young women employed in the small motor department of the Fort Wayne Electric works, gathered at the home of Miss Minnie Blee, 418 East Suttenfield street, on Thursday evening to perpetrate a surprise upon her. During Miss Blee's absence for a short time from the house the rooms were beautifully decorated in pink and white festoons and flowers. A birthday cake of appearance and taste to test the skill of a professional in culinary art, was the center of the table's attractions and was lit up with pink candles. There were games and music for entertainment but the hilarious fun resulted from the costuming of the company in made attire. Participants were Misses Lois Miller, Amelia Reese, Edna Moody, Flora and Clara Gilmore, Esther Young, Christina Vogelgesang, Esther Crummitt, Ocie Miner, Ethel Allen, Cora Blue, Lillian Droegemeyer, Esther Moody, Helen Gruber.

FOGARTY WILL OPERATE IT.

New Binder Twine Factory Proposed for Lafayette.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 23.—An agreement was reached here yesterday between J. Fogarty, present warden of the Indiana state prison at Michigan City, and the Lafayette Development company whereby the former and his associates are to erect and operate a binder twin factory in this city. The grounds and buildings are to cost more than $35,000 and more than $100,000 will be invested in the plant. Charles Murdock, of this city, and Samuel T. Murdock, of Indianapolis, will be interested with Mr. Fogarty to the extent of $25,000 each.

MUCH SUPPORT FOR FORT WAYNE WOMAN

Mrs. Fairbanks' Candidacy Given Endorsement by Club Women.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 23.—Muncie clubwomen have decided that their delegates to the annual convention of the state Federation of clubs shall be instructed to vote for Mrs. Clark Fairbank, of Ft. Wayne, for the presidency of the state federation. The delegates will be instructed to vote for her as long as there is an opportunity to win, according to members of local women's clubs.

Miss Vida Newsom, the retiring president, has indorsed the candidacy of Mrs. Fairbank, as has Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, of Evansville; Mrs. Felix T. McWhirter, the past president; Mrs. S. E. Perkins, of Indianapolis; Mrs. R. C. Bennett, of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Sara Messing Stern, of Terre Haute.

The clubwomen of the northern part of the state say that they feel that something is due them, as at the last election they gracefully acceded to the wishes of the southern part that a president be elected from its ranks. The northern clubwomen have not been represented by a president since Mrs. O. P. Kinsey, of Valparaiso, was elected in 1906.

WOMAN CAUGHT IN THE HIGH SCHOOL

Margaret Sweringer, aged 32, and believed to be a bit demented, was arraigned in the city court Saturday morning, on a loitering charge. She had been twice detected Friday, rummaging in the girls' cloakrooms in the Fort Wayne high school. The first time she was discovered Principal Ward sent her from the building. The second time the police were called and the woman was turned over to Matron Fannie M. Winch and Detective Sergeant Joseph P. Brennan. To the officer and the matron she confessed that she had lately stolen some miscellaneous plunder from various places. In court she wanted to be told what was going to be done about a woman who has defrauded her of $500. Instead, Judge Kerr continued her case and let her go on her own recognizance provided she would report to Mrs. A. C. Gladieux, matron at the jail, to be given a surely-needed bath and to be decently outfitted with underclotning. There has been a pestilence of petty stealing from the high school cloak rooms for several months.

THOUSANDS VISIT NEW HARMAR SCHOOL

Dedicatory Exercises Are Held in Auditorium Friday Evening.

The magnificent new Harmar school was officially dedicated Friday when it is estimated ten thousand people took advantage of the opportunity of inspecting Fort Wayne's finest graded school.

The program of addresses and music was given at 8:15 o'clock. Following several selections by the Elks' band Councilman Jacob Hartman made a few opening remarks in which he told of the work of the East Side Civic Improvement association and the efforts that had been made by its members to secure the new school. He then introduced Superintendent Justin N. Study, who expressed the hope that the occasion would not be the last for the patrons' visit, but that they would visit the school during study hours. He spoke on the subject of "Our School System."

William H. Shambaugh's remarks dwelt with the playgrounds in the city. William Baer, president of the city council, spoke in the absence of Mayor Hosey, who is out of the city. A history of the Harmar school was given by Ernest W. Cook, of the school board.

Harry H. Hilgemann spoke on the subject of "Education." "Show me the progressive city and I will show you the educational city," he said. "Show me the educational city and I will show you the progressive city. The schools mean a constant improvement of municipal government. All citizens should take part in civic progress."

WILL SPEAK AT COURT HOUSE MONDAY NIGHT

Dr. Frederick W. Hamilton, of Boston, director of the United Typothetae and Franklin Clubs of America, and W. C. Book, superintendent of the vocational schools of Indiana, will speak at the Allen county court house, Monday evening. The meeting is being given under the auspices of the Master Printer's association and Allied Printing Trades council. Although primarily for those in the printing trades and especially for the apprentices, the public is also asked to attend.

Both of the speakers are at the forefront in this field and their addresses are sure to be exceedingly interesting Dr. Hamilton is in charge of the North End Trades school at Boston and is one of the best known men in the country on vocational education. Mr. Book has become very prominent in the same line of work throughout Indiana in the past few years.

SAYS FRENCH WOMAN WAS ALSO EXECUTED

Amsterdam, Oct. 23.—The Telegraaf publishes an article from its Antwerp correspondent, under the title, "The Paternal Administration of Belgium," in which it is said that some weeks ago a French woman, Madame Louise Frenay, was executed at Liege.

The correspondent says that the aim of the German firing squad was not accurate, and that as in the case of Miss Edith Cavell, under similar circumstances, the commanding officer of the firing squad was obliged to put Madame Frency to death by shooting her through the head with his revolver.

FRIENDS OPPOSE PREPAREDNESS.

Take Action at Richmond Against National Defense.

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 23.—The American Society of Friends, at the international conference of laymen here, adopted a resolution protesting against the adoption of any policy of preparedness for national defense. The 800 members of the conference pledged the members to do their utmost to "arouse and unite the membership of Friends and all other churches in the peace cause" and to solicit "every senator and congressman to vote against increase in armaments." The secretary was instructed to acquaint President Wilson with the views of the conference.

ITALIANS GOING HOME.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 23.—Railroads here today arranged to move some 4,000 Italian reservists from West Virginia and western Pennsylvania who have been ordered to join their regiments. Small bodies of 100 or less were sent to New York last week but it was planned to move the main body in four special trains not later than next Wednesday in order that they might immediately embark on the waiting ships.

TO GIVE MASQUERADE DANCE.

Arrangements were made Friday evening at the armory for a masquerade dance to be given under the auspices of Company E, I. N. G., at the armory next Friday evening. Each member of the company has been given the privilege of inviting friends.

Empire in Control of Food Price and Supply

Berlin, Oct. 23.—The German federal government today decided to assume control of the price and supply of victuals throughout Germany. Up to the present time the state provincial authorities had been considered competent to handle the food situation.

The German government now considers it necessary, the Overseas news agency says, to equalize the position of the various sections of the empire as to the distribution and the price of victuals which are abundant but under different conditions in the various states and provinces of Germany.

New regulations will be made in order to avoid differences and to distribute in an equal manner food throughout Germany, thereby assuring for the coming months full supplies at reasonable prices in all districts.

Conferences are being held by the government authorities and it is expected the decisions regarding the measures to be taken will be announced in the near future.

JITNEY DRIVER IS FORCED TO RETIRE

Victor Nash, an alien, who conducts a grocery and meat market in the rolling mille district, conceived that the present traction situation in Fort Wayne opened a broad vista of easy money and broke into the transportation game with a jitney. That was four days ago. He has just retired honorably, but reluctantly from that business upon orders from Chief of Police Charles Lenz. He was arraigned in the city court Saturday morning on a charge of violating the traffic ordinances. Officer Erdman testified that Nash had repeatedly ignored the signals and run the blockade on him and he was finally compelled to send him in. On the witness stand the reasons for the alien's contempt of traffic rules and signals were made clear. He cannot read English, speaks it little better and understands it when spoken to him in a very crude way. He said he knew the traffic signals at the intersections and explained that one whistle meant to stop and two whistles to go ahead. He had been navigating his new jitney on this interpretation of the signals. Judge Kerr let him go on condition that he obeyed Chief Lenz's order to take his jitney off the streets and retire from business. The chief's action was based on Nash's palpable unfitness to be operating a car as a common carrier.

TURNING POINT IN FOOTBALL SEASON

Big Matches Chalked Up for This Afternoon in East.

New York, Oct. 23.—Today is considered the turning point of the football season. Virtually all of the leading elevens in the eastern section of the country were matched against opponents expected to make them prove their metal. Upsets are expected when the scores come in. The Harvard-Cornell game at Cambridge is of first imortance in the estimation of football men, as the Ithaca eleven is one of the best ever turned out. The annual Princeton-Dartmouth game at Princeton ranks as second in importance. The Washington and Jefferson team did not expect to repeat its victory of last year over Yale but hoped to give the blue eleven a hard battle at New Haven. Other games in the east were: Pittsburg vs. Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia; Syracuse vs. Brown, at Providence; Georgetown vs. the Army, at Westpoint; Virginia Polytechnic vs. Navy, at Annapolis; Wesleyan vs. Amherst, at Amherst; Columbia vs. St. Lawrence at New York; Carlisle vs. Bucknell, ta Carlisle; Colgate vs. Rensselaer, at Hamilton; Albright vs. Lafayette, at Easton; West Virginia vs. Penna at State college, Vermont vs. Springfield training school, at Springfield; Stevens vs. Union, at Schenectady; Trinity vs. Williams, at Williamstown; Hobart vs. Hamilton, at Clinton; Muehlenburg vs. Lehigh, at South Bethlehem; Fordham vs. Holy Cross, at New York; Haverford vs. New York university, at Haverford; Colby Bowdoin, at Waterville.

WESTERN ELEVENS FACE SUPREME TEST

This is a Big Day in Football World—Indiana Not Working.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Football teams of the west faced the supreme test today in games considered to have important bearings in deciding championship claims. All of the "big nine" elevens, with the exception of Indiana, were in action. Outside of the western conference the important contests brought together Notre Dame and Nebraska at Lincoln and the University of Michigan and the Michigan Aggies at Ann Arbor. Both Notre Dame and Nebraska claimed the western championship last season and the teams representing the two universities this season are regarded by experts as being every bit as powerful.

In the "big nine" the Wisconsin-Ohio state game attracted unusual interest as both teams are considered championship possibilities.

Among the football games in the west today were: Purdue vs. Chicago, at Chicago; Wisconsin vs. Ohio State, at Madison; Illinois vs. Northwestern, at Champaign; Minnesota vs. Iowa, at Minneapolis; Kansas vs Kansas Aggies, at Manhattan; Ames vs. Missouri, at Ames; Michigan vs. Michigan Aggies, at Ann Arbor; Notre Dame vs. Nebraska, at Lincoln; St. Louis vs. DePauw, at St. Louis; Wabash vs. Franklin, at Crawfordsville; Marquette vs. Carroll, at Milwaukee; Rose Poly vs. Butler, at Terre Haute; Oklahoma A. & M. vs. Arkansas, at Fort Smith; Haskell Indians vs. Creighton, at Omaha; Case vs. Oberlin, at Cleveland; Western Reserve vs. Akron, at Akron; Denison vs. Cincinnati, at Cincinnati.

ILLINOIS ELEVEN IS BADLY CRIPPLED

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 23.—Illinois sent a crippled team on the field to play the Northwestern eleven today. The team was without the support of Pogue, the veteran halfback; Petty, at tackle, and Potsey Clark, who sustained a broken jaw bone in the game with Rolla School of Mines. Coach Hupke plans to keep his injured players out of the game in the contest with Minnesota. Line-up:

Northwestern.	Pos.	Illinois.
Normal	R. E.	Mardwardt
Rudolph	R. T.	Graham

TY BEATEN ONLY IN DRAWING PASSES FROM HURLERS.

The only offensive play in which Ty Cobb failed to lead the American league this year was drawing bases on balls. He was beaten by Eddie Collins, of the White Sox. Ty led the league nearly all season and finished with 118 walks, but Collins at the last moment beat him out by two.

Four American leaguers drew more than 100 bases each this season, for the first time. Bush, Detroit, and Shotten, St. Louis, each walked 116 times. The previous record for a season was 112 passes, drawn by Bush in 1914.

PINCH KICKER TAKES PLACE OF THE DIAMOND'S PINCH CLOUTER.

Otis Guernsey, who will be in Yale game only long enough to try for field goal.

(By Brown Holmes).

The Yale football team is going to have a pinch kicker, just like baseball teams have pinch hitters, fellows who sit on the bench all afternoon, then step into the place of a weak hitter in the ninth inning and whale the old apple.

Otis Guernsey, of the Eli eleven, is a drop-kicker from Kickersville, and with LeGore disqualified, the Eli team needs him badly. But he has not recovered from a shoulder injury and will not be allowed in scrimmage.

So Guernsey will sit on the bench until the boys in blue get within 40 yards or so of the goal line. Then he'll step in, take a shot at a field goal and step out again. Field goals have decided most of the big battles of recent years.

POWERFUL TEAMS IN SUNDAY BATTLE HERE

Chicago Blues and Friars Play at Even Weight Tomorrow.

Outweighed less than a pound to the man, and heralded as one of the fastest squads that hails from the Windy city, the Chicago Blues come to League park Sunday for a go with the Friars. Now the Chicago boys are newcomers in Fort Wayne football, and the local fans simply don't know what to look for.

The Chicago papers boom the Blues as championship contenders, and their season so far has been one success after another, but whether they can keep it up when they run into the Friars is a matter which no one can decide.

Anyway it will be a rattling good game, and Sunday will see two of the heaviest organizations in independent football getting together. The Friars average 180 pounds against the 179½ pounders who wear the Chicago blue.

Eighty members and guests including veterans of the G. A. R., the W. R. C. and Captain James B. White camp. Sons of Veterans, attended the first public reception to be given by Wayne circle, No. 45, Ladies of the G. A. R., Friday evening. A delightful evening was enjoyed.

EXPECT HARD-FOUGHT BATTLE AT LINCOLN

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 23.—For the first time Nebraska university and Notre Dame university met on the football field here today. The teams were evenly matched in weight and speed and the field was fast. A hard fought battle was expected. The probable line-up:

Nebraska.	Pos.	Notre Dame.
Chamberlain	L. E.	Elward
Corri	L. T.	Stephan
Sheilds	L. G.	Keefe
Morris	C.	O'Donnell
Abbot	R. G.	Fitzgerald

Riddell	R. E.	Baujan
Caley	Q. B.	Phelan
Rutherford	L. H.	Cofall
Gardiner	R. H.	Bergamn
Doyle	F. B.	Backman

MATCH IS POSPONED.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—The ten-round contest between Charlie White, of Chicago, and Matt Wells, the British lightweight, scheduled for Monday night at Milwaukee, has been postponed until next Thursday. White is suffering from ptomaine poisoning, but his condition, it was said today, is not serious.

KLENKE BEATS KEATS IN TOLEDO BOUT

Young Klenke got the newspaper decision over Joe Keats in a ten-round affair at Toledo, O., Friday night before a crowded house. Klenke pushed the fighting throughout, Keats holding back until the house stood up and yelled for him to quit his stalling. Klenke was not in the best of trim, being slightly over weight, and going through several rounds slowly and without much punch.

Women! It's Easy! Dry Clean With Gasoline—Save $5

Nothing shrinks, fades or wrinkles and a wash boiler will do nicely.

Women here who have tried dry cleaning find it very easy and inexpensive to clean and freshen all the ribbons, silks, satins, laces, yokes, furs, silk shirtwaists, kid gloves and shoes, neckties, children's clothes, suits, caps, Swiss, lawn, organdie and chiffon dresses, woolen garments, fancy vests, draperies, rugs, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline, where it instantly dissolves, then put in the goods to be cleaned, rub a little and out they come, looking as bright and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

You can do five dollars' worth of home dry cleaning in an hour at little cost. It is so easy and you can't make a mistake. Any grocery or garage will supply the gasoline and you can obtain two ounces of solvite at the drug store which is simply a gasoline soap, then a wash boiler or large dish pan completes your dry cleaning outfit.—Advertisement.

Mr. Prospective Newlywed are you saving up for that event? Well! if you are we can hasten that happy day by the low prices of our high grade furniture

RUSS HALT GERMAN DRIVE AGAINST RIGA

London Press, Urging Recruiting, Calls Present Darkest Moment for England Since War Began.

London, Oct. 23.—The latest official news from Petrograd gives some indication that Field Marshal von Hindenburg's drive toward the Baltic port of Riga has again been checked and that, nearer the center of the German line, German counter attacks have been repulsed. Fighting on the left bank of the Styr continues and the Russians assert they have made further captures of large numbers of men. In the Caucasus lively actions, in which cavalry is taking an important part are reported. Vienna acknowledges Austrian troops have retired in Galicia under the pressure of superior Russian forces.

The status of political affairs in the Balkans is almost equal in interest to the military situation. The belief is growing here that neither Greece nor Roumania is likely to enter the war; at least, unless the entente allies gain some decisive success. Greece apparently regards this as more important than the offer of the island of Cyprus, and it is feared in Athens that the allied troops have come too late into the Balkan field.

Bombardment of the Bulgarian coast by an allied fleet raises hopes in England that the entente powers will feel content with landing troops in Saloniki, but may cause enough of a diversion elsewhere to engage a considerable body of Bulgarian troops. It is expected here that the arrival at the Dardanelles of General Sir Charles Monroe, the new commander of the expeditionary force, will be accompanied with renewed military activity on the Gallipoli.

Darkest Since War Began.

The appeal issued yesterday by King George to aid the Earl of Derby's recruiting campaign as a final effort to obtain the required men for military service without recourse to compulsion, is framed in a tone bringing to the nation the extreme gravity of its military position and the frankness of the appeal in this respect is emphasized in the editorial columns of the newspapers today.

The Telegraph says that the king's words are charged with "dignity and earnestness of the purpose. Let there be no illusions; the present is the darkest moment since the war began."

The Times in an editorial on what it calls "the king's stern, stirring appeal," says it is estimated that between 5,000 and 350,000 men per week are required and demands that the government would put an end to this uncertainty by definitely providing some test number where the earl of Derby's scheme must eventually be held to have succeeded or failed.

Most of the other London morning papers comment on the strikingly frank character of the king's appeal and the urgency of the situation which produced it. Baron Winburne has placed himself at the head of the movement in Ireland by assuming the position of director general for recruiting and by appointing and organizing committees.

PUTT DISPLAYS TOO MANY INFIRMITIES

Man Tried for Carrying an Overdone Tinge is Shooed Away.

When Charles Putt was called in the city court, Saturday morning, to answer to a drunk charge, he smiled blandly and blinked amiably, the while wagging his head with good-natured deprecation. To the court and prosecuting attorney Officer Erdman, who had made the arrest, interpreted these signs and tokens as meaning that the prisoner was hard of hearing.

"Putt, you're charged with being drunk. Guilty or not guilty?" Prosecutor Callahan roared at him.

Putt wig-wagged both yes and no with his head.

"Were you drunk?" the prosecutor bellowed at him with a voice like a train-caller.

Putt continued to blink and smile and wag.

"Not guilty—let that be the plea, your honor," said the prosecutor to Judge Kerr.

The officer gave his testimony and Putt came to the stand. Both prosecutor and judge joined in a vocal duet trying to make Putt hear, but it was a futile effort. Then Judge Kerr wrote it down on a scrap of paper and thrust the visible query under Putt's nose. The prisoner blinked twice at the writing and then yanked his spectacles from a pocket, poised them with nicety astride his nose and studied the court's penmanship with deep application and seriousness. His bad eyes could make nothing of it and he wig-wagged the result.

Then Judge Kerr began to talk with his hands and shooed Putt off the dock and out of the court room, entering an indefinite continuance. That was evidently the only way out of the difficulty.

Jitney Driver is Fined.

Williard F. Nantz, driver of a jitney bus, was fined $5 and costs for obstructing traffic and appealed his case to the circuit court. Nantz's automobile became stalled on the north-bound Calhoun street track at Montgomery street, Friday morning, and instead of pushing it off the track he let it remain there twenty minutes causing a blockade of half a score of street cars and other traffic. He said he was afraid to move his car for fear of breaking it and that, moreover, nobody in the crowd would help him because of pleasure in the tying up of street car traffic.

Other City Court Cases.

John Schier, who said he was employed as a watchman by the Traction company, pleaded guilty to being drunk and was turned loose. He was found down and out Friday afternoon at Calhoun and Brackenridge streets by Officer Paul. He wore the badge of a special officer and carried a bottle of gin.

Fred Rosselot and Charles Dull were arraigned for keeping a gambling house and Daniel Lung for gambling. The trio were arrested at the Rooselot saloon were arrested Friday evening, after William Ormsby had complained of having been trimmed for $8 in a pool game. Rooselot operates the saloon, Dull is his bartender and Lung takes care of the poolroom. The three entered pleas of not guilty and the cases were continued until October 25. Bond of $100 each was required of Dull and Rosselot, $50 of Lung and $25 of Ormsby for his appearance as a witness.

Ben Ditton, a drunk, paid $11 for being drunk and Harry Johnson, another drunk was continued until Monday.

SWINDLED BY SALESMAN.

A man giving the name of Alfredo Verglialno and representing himself as a traveling salesman for the Eureka Supply company, of Chicago, is reported by Michael Dagan, grocer at 1702 Hoagland avenue, to have swindled him out of $30 and by Joe Colone, grocer at 416 Bass street, to have swindled him out of $50 on orders for groceries for which collections were made in advance.

LAFAYETTE LABOR UNIONS WILL ACT

Members to Be Advised to Stay Off of the Street Cars.

A special meeting of the Lafayette Central Labor Union has been called for Monday night when action regarding the carmen's strike here will be taken up. Members of the Lafayette Federation will be advised to stay off of the street cars in that city until after the trouble in this city is over and it is also probable that financial aid will be voted the former employes of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company in this city.

Drag Crew From Car.

Four men boarded a Lakeside car at the end of the line on Crescent avenue about 11 o'clock Friday night and pulled both Motorman T. S. Thompson and Conductor H. F. Anderson from the car and doubtless would have done them serious bodily harm had they not succeeded in breaking away. Motorman T. C. Thompson was the first to break away and ran back to the car and started it for the transfer corner when Sergeant Blum and Patrolman Amos met them on the Columbia street bridge. The officers went back on the car with the motorman and within two blocks from the end of the car line met Conductor Anderson running. He had been struck a blow on the side of the head from which the blood flowed profusely, but otherwise he was not hurt. The officers were unable to get any trace of the offenders.

Committee Meets.

A meeting of the committee of fifteen from the Federation of Labor met Friday evening to discuss the proposition for the establishment of a complete jitney bus system in Fort Wayne. Representatives from several large motor truck companies attended the meeting.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Fresh declines took place in the wheat market today owing to good weather northwest and big receipts. Opening prices, which ranged from ⅛c to ⅜c lower, with December at 99⅝c to $1.00, and May at $1.02 to $1.02⅛, were followed by a moderate further loss and then something of a reaction.

The close was steady, 1⅝@1⅞c net lower, with December at 97⅜c and May at $1.00½.

Hope of European business lifted corn. After opening unchanged to ⅛c higher, the market scored a slight general advance.

The close was weak at ½c decline.

Oats were steadied by the firmness of corn.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 23.—Today's short session of the stock exchange gave promise of higher prices and increased activity, the opening showing general advances, with more high records in the specialties. Chief among these were the motor shares and Baldwin Locomotive, the latter adding over five points to yesterday's maximum at 154½. Some of the representative rails were higher, notably Canadian Pacific and U. S. also manifested a tendency toward betterment. In the second hour, however, heavy realizing, together with increased weakness in foreign exchange soon obliterated most gains, some specialties falling well under yesterday's final prices. The close was irregular. Bonds were firm.

Special stocks governed trading, with additions to recent high records, while rails and other former favorites were relatively dull but firm. Baldwin Locomotive rose 5½ to the new quotation of 154½, after some slight wavering at the outset. Maxwell Motors was 2½ higher at 72½ and United States Industrial Alcohol made a new maximum on its two points' advance to 128. Bethlehem Steel rose ten above yesterday's close at 585, and General Motors 11 at 381. Other issues of this group were higher by one or two points. United States Steel rose only a fraction and Canadian Pacific led the railroads with a rise of 1½ to 172½.

NOTICE.

Sale of Indiana Printing Company.

The undersigned, receiver of the Indiana Printing Company, pursuant to the order of the superior court of Allen county, State of Indiana, in the case of the J. W. Butler Paper Company vs. the Indiana Printing Company, entered on the 28th day of September, 1915, in order book 28, page 542, hereby gives notice that on November 2, 1915, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the office of the company, corner Sixth and Harrison streets, in the city of Fort Wayne, I will sell, for cash, to the highest bidder, subject to the approval of court, its real estate, buildings, machinery, presses, tools, dies, plates, type, monotype equipment, stock of paper and supplies, office furniture and fixtures, and all other property of said company of every kind and description, excepting only its bills and accounts receivable, and cash on hand.

The real estate of the company is described as lots 198 and 199 in the North Side Addition of the city of Fort Wayne, according to the recorded plat thereof.

Terms of Sale.

The successful bidder will be required, at the time of the acceptance of his bid, to deposit with the undersigned his certified check, cashier's check, or bank draft, payable to the order of the receiver for 10 per cent of the amount of his bid, which sum will be forfeited in case of his failure to pay the balance of his bid on approval of the sale by the court.

The successful bidder will be required to enter into a contract with the receiver to finish all of the unfinished orders on hand on which work has been started.

All bids subject to approval of court.

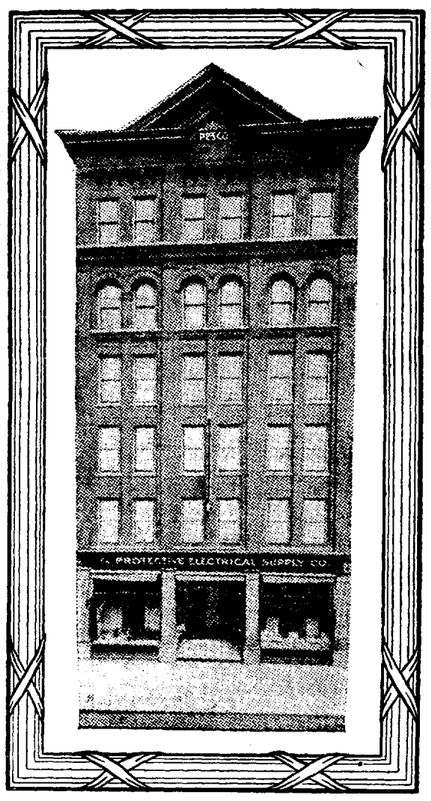
AN INVITATION TO YOU

PESCO PESCO

A Short Story Which Will Interest You



THE PESCO LINE
PROTECTIVE ELECTRICAL SUPPLY COMPANY
130-132 W. COLUMBIA ST FT WAYNE, INDIANA

THE PESCO LINE THE PESCO LINE

THE VIEW on the left of this advertisement shows our new home, 130-132 West Columbia Street, where we shall be glad, always, to have you visit us when you come to Fort Wayne.

We occupy this entire building—seven floors, including the basement—each floor 40 by 110 feet in size, providing a total floor area of 30,800 square feet.

On these seven floors are displayed and stored the thousands of items that make up the famous "PESCO" line of Electrical, Telephone and Automobile Supplies, which have brought the Protective Electrical Supply Company into high favor throughout the middle west.

The First Floor

A suggestion of the lines carried by us on these various floors follows:

The first floor, in addition to the space devoted to two large display windows, the General Offices and the Broken Package Department in the front, is devoted to the Shipping and Receiving Departments and the stock of Fans, Condulets, Unilets, Metal Moulding, Fittings and G-V Pipe Caps.

The Second Floor

The second floor is subdivided into five modern, complete Fixture Rooms, showing all the up-to-date Electrical Fixtures for residence, store and factory lighting. An expert is in charge of this department and his services are yours at any time.

The Third Floor

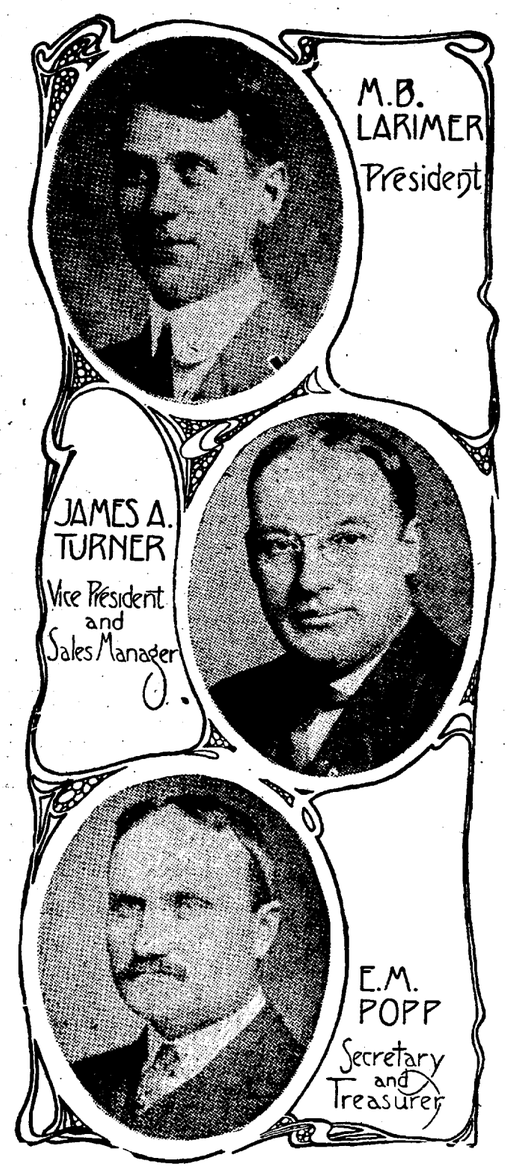
Here is to be found a varied line of Steel Cabinet Boxes, Round and Square Outlet Boxes and Switch Boxes, all Schedule Material, including a complete stock of Arrow E Material. On this floor are Hotpoint Irons and Heating Appliances and Ever Ready Flash Lights and Batteries, as well as the Pyrene Fire Extinguishers. Here, also, is the assembling room for all orders to be shipped the same day they are received.

The Fourth Floor

The fourth floor is devoted entirely to Wire, Rubber Covered and Weatherproof, Magnet, Telephone, Duplex, Interior and Distributing; also Lead-Covered Electric Light and Telephone Cable—all standard.

The Fifth Floor

This floor contains Fir Cross Arms, both Electric Light and Telephone, all sizes, Pins, Brackets, Sparkwell, 1900, Acme Rapid Fire and Cleveland Dry Cells or Batteries, Porcelain Tubes, Knobs and Cleats in standard packages. All of the above are bought in carload lots and we are the price-makers.



A Bit Of History

In 1907, the Protective Electrical Supply Company commenced business with the manufacture of its now celebrated Protective Can Top Cable Terminal, in a room 20 by 40 feet. In 1909, we moved to a four-story, 20 by 140 foot building, and in 1915 located in our present splendid new home where nearly 31,000 square feet of space is needed to care for our expanding business.

It will pay you to consult us always before you buy anything in the line of Electrical, Telephone or Automobile Supplies.

We are the quick shippers. Home 'phones 1813 and 1977

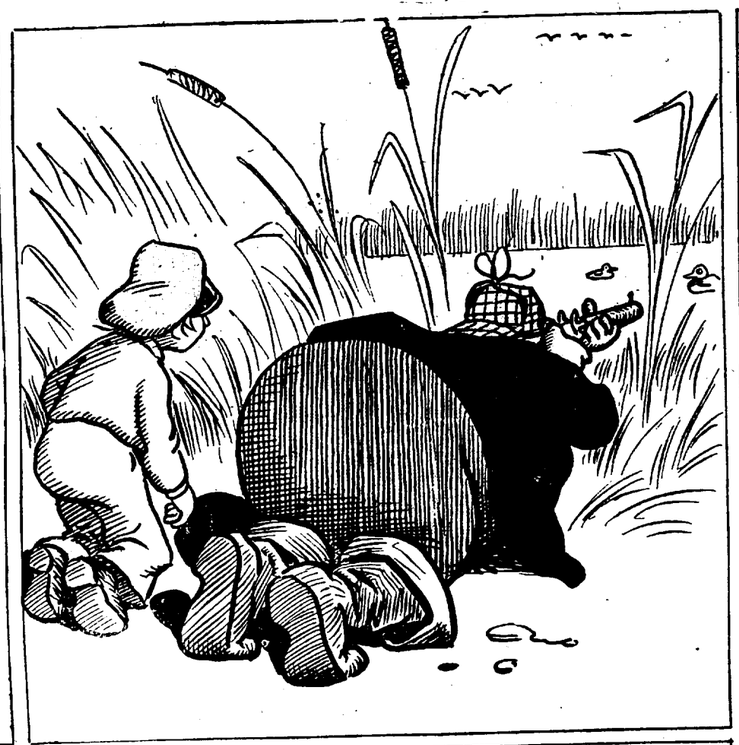
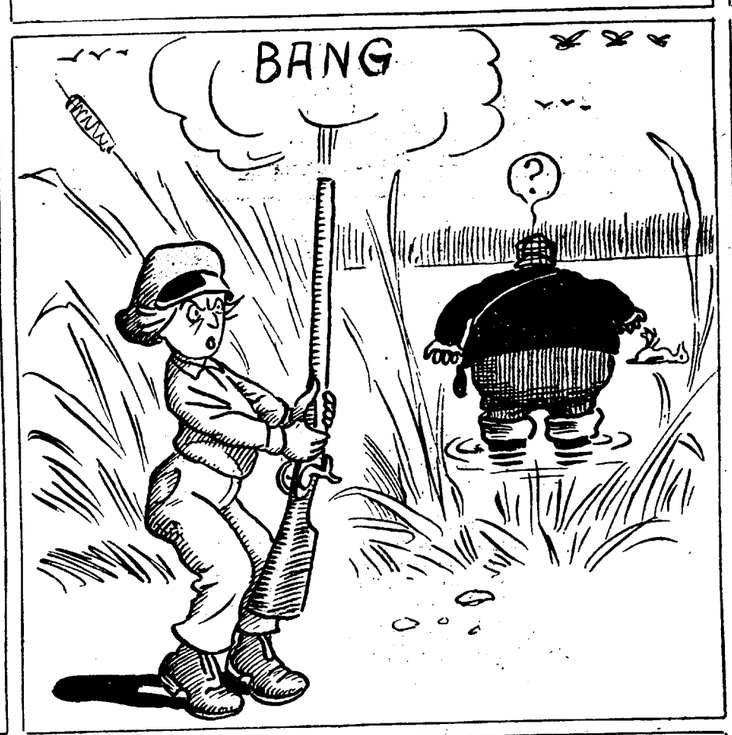
CORY'S KIDS





IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Novelized by Samuel Field
From the Successful Play by ROI COOPER MEGRUE and WALTER HACKETT

SYNOPSIS

Old Cyrus Martin, the head of the American soap trust, makes a bet of $30,000 with a friend, John Clark, a rival soapmaker, that his (Martin's) son Rodney would be making more money at the end of a year than Clark's son Ellery.

CHAPTER III.
Complications.

"I WANT to talk to you," said Rodney, coming toward Mary. "I've been wanting this opportunity for days, and now that I've got it I don't propose to be interrupted. That's why I locked the door."

Rodney had come over to her.

"I want to talk to you," he said impetuously. "Mary, will you marry me?"

"Why, really," began Mary shyly.

"I don't know what to say," hesitated the girl, feeling her ground.

"Say yes," cried Rodney, waiting feverishly to hear her answer.

It came at last shyly, "Yes," whereupon Rodney cried, "You angel!" joyfully and tried to grab her. But things must not go quite so fast, Mary thought intuitively, and drew away a little from him, though, to tell the truth, she would willingly have let him catch her as she felt now.

"No, no; wait a moment," she said.

"We'll be married right away," went on Rodney unabashed.

"But suppose your father disapproves?" said Mary.

"He won't know anything about it until we're married, and then what could he do?" objected Rodney.

"He might cut you off," suggested Mary sagely.

"Would you care?" asked Rodney.

"I? No, no, indeed," said Mary hastily. "I was thinking of you, dear."

"Don't you bother about me," cried Rodney. "We'll be married tomorrow and then come home for the parental blessing."

"No, I couldn't do that," said Mary. "It wouldn't be right. I'm his private secretary. He trusts me and brings me here to his home, and then to find I'd married his son on the sly—no, Rodney, we couldn't do that."

"You do make it sound rather bad," said Rodney. "I shouldn't want to treat father badly. We've always been pretty good friends, he and I. I guess I'd better tell him—in a week or so"—

Mary's self composure had been rapidly returning during this colloquy, and she was surer of what she wanted. Indeed it piqued her a little that Rodney should have made such a proposal to her, so that now her own inclinations and the old gentleman's upstairs ran in the same channel. She spoke up quite resolutely:

"Why, Rodney, if you love me you will want to get this awful suspense over with."

"But suppose he does object?" Rodney argued, seeing his light of happiness grow dim.

"Even then I wouldn't give you up," said his sweetheart.

"Mary!"

"You could go into business," she went on, "make a big man of yourself, make me proud of you"—

"You talk just like the heroine in a play I saw last night," protested Rodney. "She wanted the hero to go to work, and he did, and then for four acts everybody suffered."

"Don't you want to work?" asked Mary anxiously.

"I should say not," Rodney answered quite seriously. "Imagine going to bed every night knowing you'd got to get up in the morning and go to business."

"You'd be happier, wouldn't you," queried Mary, "if you had a job?"

"Please don't talk like father," protested Rodney. "He's preached a job at me ever since I left college. Why should I work? Father made millions out of soap and is forever complaining that he's always had his nose to the grindstone, that he's never known what fun was, that it's all made him old before his time. I can't see the sense of following an example like that—I really can't. He's got enough for you and me and our children and their grandchildren. I've explained all this to him, but I can't seem to make him understand. But it's simple—why work when there's millions in the family? And why even talk of it when you and I are in love?"

"You angel!"

He leaned hungrily toward her, stretching out his arms to her, and finished on a note of genuine appeal: "Come, kiss me, Mary."

But Mary drew back from him quickly. "No, you mustn't," she said firmly. "Not till you've spoken to your father."

"You won't even kiss me till I tell him?"

"No."

"And you will when I do?"

"Yes."

"Then I'll tell him right away!" cried the valiant lover, striding to the door.

"Oh, Rodney, you're splendid!" applauded Mary, "and don't be afraid."

"Afraid!" echoed Rodney scornfully. But he paused a moment at the door and said:

"You don't think I'd better wait till the morning?"

"No, I don't," said Mary. "And don't be silly about his gout. He really is a very patient invalid."

Rodney stood a moment with his hand on the knob, plucking up resolution. As he lingered there a violent knocking sounded on the other side, and his father's voice could be distinctly heard crying "Ouch!" in an extra loud tone in the hall.

"Speaking of the patient invalid," whispered Rodney, looking back at the girl for whom he was so greatly daring.

"If you don't ask him now I'll never marry you," whispered Mary, forming her words as distinctly as was possible under the circumstances.

"Open the door!" cried the elder Martin angrily in the hall.

"I'm coming, father. Coming," quaked Rodney as he turned the key.

The door was no sooner opened than his father strode into the room sternly, uttering the ejaculation "Ouch!" twice and the polite phrase "the devil!" at least once as he crossed the threshold.

"Why was that door locked?" he demanded, scowling.

"Was it locked?" asked Rodney innocently.

"You young fool, didn't you just unlock it?" roared his father.

"So I did," said Rodney nervously.

Mary in the meanwhile had retreated to her typewriter, and now began typifying violently.

"Stop that noise," shouted Mr. Martin.

The noise ceased immediately, and Rodney looked at her discouraged. She motioned to him to go on. Meanwhile Martin painfully limped to a chair by a small table and sank into it, his foot giving him another twinge.

"Ouch! Oh, my poor foot!" he moaned.

Rodney hastily picked up a footstool and came with it to his father.

"I'm afraid your foot hurts," he ventured propitiatingly.

"Not at all—I just pretend that it does," growled his father.

"I hoped you were better," said the son sincerely.

"Well, I'm not. What's that you got there?"

"A footstool—I thought it might make you more comfortable."

"Comfortable? How much do you want out of me now?" his father asked shrewdly.

"Why nothing, father," Rodney answered.

"Well, anyhow the answer is, not a nickel"—

"Why do you say that?" Rodney quavered.

"I know you, and whatever it is you can't have it."

Rodney turned appealingly to Mary, who ignored him. He turned back to his father again, and tried to muster up his courage to the sticking point.

"Well, as a matter of fact, I did want"— he began, clearing his throat.

"Oh, now we're getting to it," Martin retorted. "Well, what is it?"

"I wanted to have a talk with you—an important talk"—

"Curious! That's just what I wanted to have with you. I've wanted it all day, and now we'll have it. Miss Grayson!" he called to Mary.

"Yes, sir," said Mary meekly.

"Get out!"

She went without a glance at Rodney, who stood looking after her dejectedly, not knowing that his love's intention was to give him moral support by listening in the hall.

"Now, what do you mean by overdrawing your allowance again?" she heard Mr. Martin say when the door was closed.

"Why," innocently answered Rodney, "it simply proves that I was right when I told you my allowance was too small."

"What!" ejaculated his father, quite evidently aghast.

"And if my allowance is too small for one it's much too small for two," the boy continued ingeniously.

"For two?"

"Father, has it ever occurred to you that I might marry?" inquired Rodney.

"Of course it has. You're fool enough for anything," growled his father.

"I don't consider a man a fool because he's married," said Rodney.

"That's because you've never tried it."

"I intend to try it, just the same," said Rodney.

"Oh, you do, do you? Who is the girl?"

"The girl?" repeated his son nervously.

"Yes, girl. You're not going to marry an automobile, or a polo pony, or an aeroplane, or any other of your idiotic amusements, are you? You're going to marry a girl, aren't you? Some blue eyed, doll faced, gurgling, fluttering little fool. Oh, why doesn't God give young men some sense about women?"

"I object very strongly to your speaking in that way of Miss Grayson," spoke up Rodney angrily.

"Miss Grayson? Miss Grayson—you're not going to marry a typewriter!"

"Yes, sir."

"Does she know it?"

"Yes, sir."

"Oh, of course she knows a good thing like you when she sees it"—

"I won't listen to you talk of Miss Grayson in that way"—

"You've got to listen. I won't permit any such absurd, ridiculous marriage. Thank heaven you had sense enough not to elope!"

"I wanted to, but she wouldn't. She insisted on your being told. So you see what an injustice"—

"Injustice! Can't you see she wanted me to know so that if I disapproved and cut you off she'd not be stuck with you on her hands?"

"Please, father"— pleaded Rodney and then dropped his hands at his sides and turned to go, adding, "It's quite useless."

"No, my boy; wait a minute," said Mr. Martin. "Remember I'm your friend, even if I am your father. Don't you believe it? It's only your money she wants."

"I'm coming, father. Coming," quaked Rodney.

"I know it isn't," replied Rodney proudly.

"I'll prove it is," said his father, pushing an enameled electric bell that stood near him on the table.

"What are you going to do?" cried Rodney nervously.

"Send for Miss Grayson," said his father grimly. "I'll tell that scheming secretary that if you persist in this marriage I'll disinherit you, and then you watch her throw you over," he amplified for Rodney's benefit.

"Even if you are my father you shan't insult the girl I love," protested Rodney hotly.

"Poppycock! You're afraid to put her to the test. You're afraid she will chuck you," retorted his father.

But Rodney answered quietly: "I'm not afraid, father. You're mistaken."

Johnson appeared meanwhile in answer to the bell and in a surprisingly short time and with a queer look on his usually imperturbable face, if they had only noticed it, returned with Mary Grayson under his escort. Mary looked from father to son with an elaborately assumed air of innocence and inquired:

"You wanted me, Mr. Martin?"

She saw Rodney out of the tail of her eye make a movement toward her and say "Mary" in a pleading tone; then heard his father interrupting him curtly. "My precious son," he told her, "has just informed me that you and he intend to get married. Is that right?"

CHAPTER IV.
The Bargain.

"OH, sir," Mary began timidly, almost losing her composure a moment, to think of the pass that things had come to with her connivance. She was not sure, moreover, if the soap king had not really been in earnest in his fulminations as they floated out to her in the hall. Either his acting or his gout must be genuine today, she began to fear.

"Because I wish to tell you," he began again, "that if he marries you he'll not get one penny of my money. And that means he'll starve. I suppose you realize that?"

Mary turned to Rodney, who was standing up very straight near the window looking on Fifth avenue, one hand catching the braided lapel of his coat as his eyes devoured her with such real love and confidence showing on his face that she could not resist his love's appeal to her. She turned to his father and answered him courageously:

"Then at least we'll starve together."

She was rewarded by the exultation in Rodney's voice as he exclaimed, "Mary!"

"You see, father," he added for the old gentleman's benefit.

"Making a grand stand play, eh," went on the soap magnate remorselessly to Mary, "before my idiot of a son. You think I'm so fond of him that I'll relent. Well, you're wrong. Neither of you will ever get a nickel out of me."

"We shan't starve," declared Rodney.

"Well, what can you do to keep from starving?" demanded his father. "You're not a producer. You never will be. You're just an idler. You couldn't earn $5 a week. But you'll have a chance to try. You'll get out of my house tonight, or I'll have you thrown out."

"Now, father"—

"Not another word, sir, not another word!" cried his father and stamped out angrily into the hall.

Mary gave an involuntary sigh of relief.

"It's getting more like that play every minute," Rodney chuckled.

"Oh, Rodney, I'm so, so sorry," sniveled Mary.

"You were bully the way you stuck up for me," said her lover. "When you said we'd starve together I just choked all up."

"Then at least we'll starve together."

"Please don't, Rodney," protested Mary, quite genuinely touched, and Rodney went on:

"Just because he's got a lot of money he seems to think there isn't any left for other people, but I'll show him. I may not have much at the start, but watch my finish"—

"What are you going to do?" she asked him excitedly.

"I'm going to work."

"You are—really?"

"Yes, indeed. Father couldn't make me do it, but you can. I'll work for you."

"Oh, you are splendid!" Mary cried. "Shall you get a position?"

"I should say not! Work for some one else? No! I'm going in business for myself—for you. I'm going to show the stuff that's in me. Of course we can't get married till I've made good. Will you wait?"

"Yes, dear," said Mary shyly.

"You're a dandy!" cried Rodney, moving nearer to her.

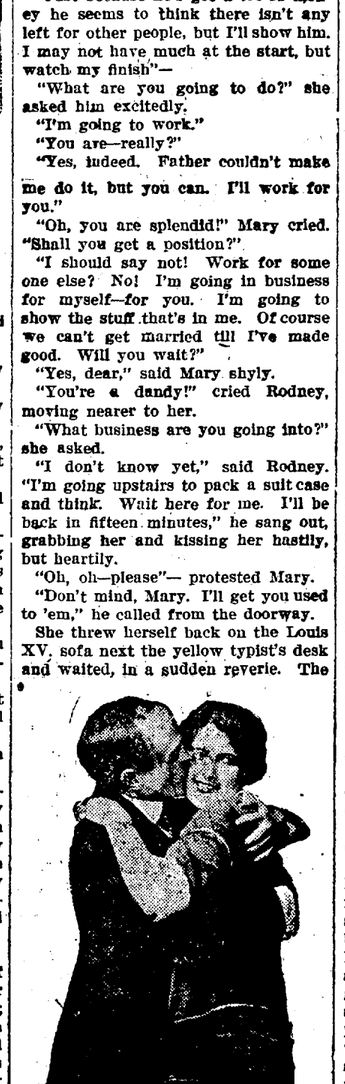
"What business are you going into?" she asked.

"I don't know yet," said Rodney. "I'm going upstairs to pack a suit case and think. Wait here for me. I'll be back in fifteen minutes," he sang out, grabbing her and kissing her hastily, but heartily.

"Oh, oh—please"— protested Mary.

"Don't mind, Mary. I'll get you used to 'em," he called from the doorway.

She threw herself back on the Louis XV. sofa next the yellow typist's desk and waited, in a sudden reverie. The carved wooden rim of the sofa back gave her a kink in her coiffure comfortably, and she lapsed into that curious state of introspection that comes sometimes with bodily and mental relaxation. What did she think of herself for what she'd done this evening? Was she any better than an adventuress? Was she not cajoling a young man into proposing to her for the love of money? Would Rodney's father really reward her as he had promised to do? Strangely enough it would not have seemed so bad, she felt, if she didn't like Rodney. Well, if the old man didn't pay, let him keep his money. She shouldn't care. It was something to have won a love like Rodney's love for her. There was something very lovable about Rodney Martin—



He Hugged Her Greedily to Him.

In a moment Rodney himself bounded in again on her day dreams. There was the thud of a heavy kit bag dropped on the marble floor of the hall by the front door, and then he ran in to her impetuously, with his arms open.

"Mary, sweetheart!" he cried.

He held her away from him a moment to regard her face.

"The pater's upstairs dressing for dinner," he rattled on. "I shan't even say goodby to him. Serve him right. I'm going to take a stage down to the Collegiate club this very night. Can't afford cabs now."

"Rodney," whispered Mary conservatively, "you must work hard and be brave."

"And can't I do that for the sweetest sweetheart in the whole world?" he demanded rapturously, folding her again in his arms. He hugged her greedily to him, and she yielded to him a little despite herself. There was something fresh and clean about the boy, and certainly his kisses were not distasteful. The arms she felt around her were a man's arms and very strong.

In the end Rodney decided he would have a cab anyway, and so he and Mary left the house of the soap king in each other's company without farewells. It was their last ride together, so to speak, and a very blissful one for the young lover. Rodney was going to take a room at the Collegiate club, but first they spun across the somber park to Mary's apartment, somewhere in the West Seventies, and Rodney bade her a rapturous good night while the motor throbbed and the taximeter spun.

The gout had been so benefited by the explosion of yesterday that Cyrus Martin had gone down to his office next morning, as Mary guessed he would, and the two met there on somewhat more impersonal terms than in the Fifth avenue library. Very impersonal indeed Mary tried to make it seem to the wily magnate and threw something unwonted and chilly into the manner with which she greeted him.

"Well," he began, "do you think our scheme is going to work?"

"Yes," said Mary quietly. "I do."

"You really think you have got him to go to work?" he demanded eagerly.

"I have," said Mary.

"By George, that's great!" said Mr. Martin gleefully.

"Isn't it " said Mary.

"You're sure he wasn't just talking?"

"No, he went upstairs to pack and go out and make a name for himself."

"You're a wise girl, Mary. Isn't it wonderful?"

"And you said I couldn't do it," said Mary coldly.

"I said I didn't think you could, but you have, and I owe you $2,500."

"Oh, there's no hurry!" said Mary, still quite coolly.

"Never put off till tomorrow the money you can get today," said the millionaire.

"Aren't you proud I've been so successful?" said Mary presently.

"Proud! I'm so darned happy I'm making this check out for $5,000."

"Oh, Mr. Martin!" Mary cried, quite taken aback.

"It's worth $50,000 to me to have my boy really want to work, not just to do it to please me," said the old man, really moved beneath his gruff exterior. "What a difference an incentive makes!"

"Doesn't it?" said Mary, smiling at her check.

"But what about your marriage?"

"He said he wouldn't marry me till he'd made good—if I'd just wait."

Her employer looked at her a little anxiously.

"Do you think perhaps he may really love you?" he asked.

"Of course not," said Mary.

"It's the first time he's actually wanted to marry anybody," said his father.

"Oh, it's just that I've been very blue eyed and baby faced!" said the secretary modestly.

"I guess you're right," agreed Martin.

"Of course I am. Why, dear Mr. Martin, even for this," she said, pointing to her check, "I wouldn't give your son one real pang. He's too nice a boy. When I break our engagement he may feel a bit lonely and be very sorry for himself for a few days and give up women forever, but pretty soon some charming girl of his own position—of his own world, who needs to be petted and spoiled and protected, some limousine lady—will come along, and they'll live happily ever after."

"Nonsense!" said Mr. Martin. "I don't agree with you at all. I begin to wish this marriage were going to be on the level."

"It wouldn't work out," Mary interrupted. "I'm a business woman. Marriage and the fireside and leaning on some man are not for me. I've been independent too long. I couldn't stop my work for a man, and there can't be two heads in a family—two happy heads. Even if your son did love me—really love—I wouldn't marry him. Just now he's twenty-four, with an india rubber heart that is easy to stretch and easier to snap back. All men at twenty-four are like that."

"I suppose so," Mr. Martin commented reminiscently. "I remember when I was a young man there was a girl—my heart was broken for a week—perhaps ten days—however, however"—Then, abruptly changing the subject, he inquired, "What's my son going to work at?"

"I don't know yet," Mary said truthfully.

"Do you think he'll make good?"

"He will if he loves me."

"Well, you'll keep him at it, won't you?"

"That wasn't our agreement," said Mary. "I only undertook to get him to start to work."

"Hm!" went Mr. Martin, tapping the arm of his chair.

"Isn't that true?" demanded Mary quietly.

"Quite, quite," said Martin cannily. "I was just thinking we might make some agreement to have you keep him on the job."

"To keep him on the job?" echoed Mary faint heartedly. Here was a new complication if the soap king was proposing a second chapter in the deception. She had honestly meant to give the whole thing up. She truly did not want Rodney to get permanently interested in her. She had let him kiss her—the memory of his kisses still trembled on her lips—but she had done that for the boy's own good. Poor little secretary, pretty little Mary Grayson, what was she to think of things, how cleave her way through this tangle of motives that bound her heart and hands? She had let him kiss her, yes, but had it really been wrong in her? Was it—bad? No, she found her whole soul protesting, it was not wrong or bad. It had been for the boy's own good, she told herself again. She hugged the thought greedily, tasting a portion of that joy of women in giving herself up to some man for his good. But she would not spoil his life. She had been firm as to that. And now here was old Mr. Martin coming back at her with this hateful power of money and trying to bribe her to go on. What should she do?

Suddenly, by a complete change of venue, her thoughts attacked the case from a different angle. She had been enough in the business world to know the power and use of money, and from a French grandfather she had inherited a streak of the keen and honest thrift. Let the rich people look out for themselves; the poor had to. Curiosity, too, set in, and helped dictate her answer when she finally made it.

"Well," she said at last enigmatically, "I'm a business woman."

Mr. Martin looked at her delightedly.

"What strikes you as fair?" he asked her.

"I'd rather the proposition came from you," rejoined Mary.

"What do you say to your present salary, and at the end of the year I will personally give you a check for 25 per cent of what he has made?"

"That wouldn't interest me," said Mary.

"What's your proposition then?" asked Martin. "State your terms."

"My present salary doubled," said the business woman promptly.

"Um—that's pretty steep."

"You told me what I'd done already was worth $50,000 to you," retorted Mary.

"Merely a figure of speech, my dear," said Martin. "Let's see, you're getting $40 a week, and"—

"Fifty dollars, and I want $100."

"Sounds like a hold up."

"Then let's drop it. This new contract was your idea, not mine. Good evening"—

She moved to the door.

"Hold on, hold on," Martin cried after her. "I was simply figuring," he explained; "tell you what I'll do. Seventy-five dollars a week and 10 per cent of what he makes."

"Then let's drop it."

"All right, I'll go you," said Mary.

"Good," said Mr. Martin.

"Will you just write me a note stating the facts and consideration?" Mary pursued.

"Certainly."

He began to write, and as his pen moved across the paper Mary went on:

"As soon as you see Rodney you'll have to discharge me."

"I will, violently. I'm a pretty good actor under your direction."

MINISTER GIVES TESTIMONY.

The Rev. C. M. Knighton, Havanna, Fla., writes: "For three months I suffered intense pain in kidneys and back, which at times laid me up entirely. I read of Foley Kidney Pills and after trying various remedies without result I decided to try the Foley treatment. I was relieved almost with the first dose and it is a fact that I used only 1½ bottles when all of the pains disappeared. I am 55 years of age and now feel like a young man again." GETTING BEHIND THE FILMS IN A FT. WAYNE PHOTO-DRAMA HOUSE

If you took the lid off a movie playhouse, and looked right down into the guts of its inner workings, what would you see? Did you ever think about it, that mechanism within a mechanism, that system within a system, that thing that is there in a movie house, yet which you can neither see nor hear?

A Sentinel representative this week went out in quest of something to photograph. And as he wandered from end to end and from side to side of the town, he saw always the same hurrying sights and the same hurrying people in the same hurrying way. There wasn't enough there to make it worth while to unlimber his camera. Then he came at last, tired of mind and body, to a picture playhouse, and went in and sat down.

There was a picture on the screen and music in the atmosphere, and the picture had a plot and a star and a setting. But the photographer in search of news-pictures had little time for plot or star or settings, he gazed idly at the picture and saw only lght effects, and composition, and depth of focus.

And he wondered at the efficiency of the photo-playhouse, and at the real art of the photography that wound on in a never-ending grind before him. He began to wonder how the pictures were made to project so far and so perfectly, and why they didn't fade out toward the corners, and a host of other things.

Then he went to find out.

The picture house which he had dropped into was the Orpheum, and he saw there the lights that greet anyone who is fortunate enough to go on a trip of adventure behind the movie scenes in any of the higher type of playhouses throughout the country. And he became so thoroughly interested that he saw at last the pictures he had been hunting, for here in the deep and seldom visited heart of the movie house was a "story" with a wide appeal and a bushel of that much sought quality in all news matter, "human interest."

The Operating Room.

The operating room is the hub of the photoplay house. It is as the alarm desk in a fire department or the dispatcher's office on a railway system. All the machinery of the theatre revolves about it, and nearly all of it, in it.

In the Orpheum you reach the operating room by a storway and a balcony and an office and a work room. Then you come to a place of flaring white lights and fireproof walls and incessant ticking. The odor of hot metal, almost a dark-lantern smell, intermingles with the whiffs of celluloid and collodion.

And the manager who acts as guide, introduces you to an operator who is busy as a traffic copper, but who takes pity on your ignorance regarding things movieatrical, and explains to the minutest detail the processes of the photo-play-projection.

The two big machines stand abreast, opposite the door and a real of film is flicking off at sixteen clicks a second in front of one of them. A long shaft of light so thick and smooth you feel that you could slide down it in perfect safety starts at a tiny square hole in the wall and terminates in the picture on the screen.

A tiny motor operates the film, pulling it through the camera with a surprising regularity and superhuman precision. And when the film on one of the machine gets wound close to the end, the lively operator is seen jumping about, regulating the other, and before you realize it, the shaft of light has changed course, and the film is clicking through the other machine.

Then in one corner, and opposite another hole in the wall, stands a long and villianous looking impiement of torture that looks like the cross between a spy glass and a forty-two centimeter gun (see Berlin reports).

But the kindly operator again takes you under his wing, and explains that that is the spot under which the beautiful lady and the handsome man vocalize once an hour. But the wonders of the operating room are many and varied and of such character that mere printer's ink could not describe them.

The Work Room.

But right back of the operating room there is another all-important apartment that few novices ever heard of. It is in this room that the films are cared for. A long table stands beside the window, with a couple of reels and many minor implements that look like the tools of a spiteful dentist scattered over it. Here it is that the operators go over the films each day before the show opens, examining every foot and every inch for flaws. In one of the accompanying photographs the film is seen in this process. Objectionable parts are cut out and discarded, rough spots are repaired and the whole film is given the once over before it touches the machine.

But a playhouse of the character of the Orpheum has so large a number of employes that it would be really distressing to have them hanging around the lobby or shaking dice in the barber shop all the time they were not in actual work. So there are rest rooms for men and women. The musicians and all the other employes meet here "between the acts," and the rest rooms are on the order of the green rooms in old fashioned theatres.

As the reporter walked into the rooms set aside for the ladies he found three of them passing a half hour waiting for their turn at bat. One of them was operating a sewing machine with all the vim with which she plied her trade at piano and violin, another was knee deep in the latest best seller, and another was working with several needles on a job that no mere man could fathom.

In the men's room the atmosphere was somewhat hazy with smoke. The amusements were different. They ran the entire course from teasing the cat to reading system magazines and back to a war argument. But it was a jolly bunch, more like a family or a college frat house than a business house full of employes.

But hold on—not so fast—Remembr the Maine! There is one part and parcel of the movie house that is all important. That is the advertising desk. This throne is occupied by a fellow with a gift of gab, who makes it a point to see to it that the public is kept fully aware of each and every incident in the career of the establishment. And it is he who publishes the house organ, for the Orpheum, like many eastern theatres, has established one.

In the accompanying pictures, all made at the Orpheum theatre, are scenes in the men's and women's rest rooms and in the film workshop. But it was impossible for all the employes to get into the pictures, for its seemed absolutely necessary for some of the employes to continue running the show even while the pictures were taken. In the rear of the men's room are seen Mr. Brentling and Mr. Mason, partners in the Orpheum company.

But it gives no idea of the number of people required to handle the business in the house. However, the management has prepared the following list of names of employes, which gives some suggestion of the work there is to be done and the number of men and women required in doing it:

GERMAN PLAY TUESDAY.

Well Known German Company Coming to Present Great Success.

"Our Hussars" is the title of a military drama to be produced by the Irving Place Theatrical troupe, from New York, at the Majestic on Tuesday evening. The plot of this play is laid in Lodz, made generally known through the present world war; various wounded soldiers are returning from the front to be sent to their homes for cure. The German soldier with his many characteristic attributes is drawn in a masterful way. All three acts abound with witty sayings to keep the audience in the best of humor and the patriotic scenes and many couplets of war songs will do much to amuse everybody. Germans, to the front! Rally here! Have a look at this piece, considered one of the best written by Carl Norini. It will show you the German soldier as he is today—in sorrow and joy. This play is bound to open the eyes of many, especially of such Americans who have been unduly predjudiced by a one-sided press.

BIG MUSICAL SUCCESS.

"The Only Girl," With Big Company and Augmented Orchestra.

Admirers of Victor Herbert, the noted composer, who believe he put his best efforts into "The Red Mill," "Mlle. Modiste," will no doubt revise their opinion after they have heard "The Only Girl," which Joe Weber will present here for the first time at the Majestic on Wednesday, matinee and night. At least that was the case with the lovers of light opera and musical comedy in New York last season, when this dainty musical play was running at the Lyric theater. "The Only Girl" equals, if not excels, anything "the big man with a smile" has ever done, which includes a list of over forty musical productions that have been successes. There is the old familiar Herbert lilt and swing in all of the sixteen numbers, yet none of them are reminiscent of former scores. It is very evident the noted composer has found new inspiration in "The Only Girl." Probably the most popular number is "When You're Away," one of those dreamy waltz movements, which is the theme of the play. Other numbers which will no doubt be whistled and sung here after "The Only Girl" has been heard, are "The More I See of Others, Dear, the Better I Love You," "Personality," "Tell It All Over Again," "You Have to Have a Part to Make a Hit," and "You're the Only One for Me."

Henry Blossom has written a pleasing book and libretto from Frank Mandel's comedy, "Our Wives," and Joe Weber, the producer, has carefully selected a cast of musical comedy artists, with Broadway reputations. The chorus, while not large, is a feature of the performance and is said to include some stunning young women. An augmented orchestra is also a feature.

MARIE TEMPEST,

Majestic Next Friday in a Double Bill, "Rosalind" and "The Duke of Killiecrankie," Direct from New York City en route to Blackstone Theater, Chicago.

FORT WAYNE'S GREATEST FAVORITE.

FRANK JONES.

Mr. Jones, whom all Fort Wayne will remember as the funniest little man on the stage, will be with the New York success, Broadway Jones, which will open at the Empress theater for the week of November 1. Frank will play Broadway, the part made famous by Geo. M. Cohan himself, who wrote and played this, his greatest success for over two years in New York. There will be many favorites with this company including McClain Gates and Harry Manners.

MARIE TEMPEST ON FRIDAY.

Charles Frohman Presents Noted Star in Double Comedy Bill.

An announcement of more than ordinary interest is that of the coming to the Majestic theater on Friday evening, October 29, of Miss Marie Tempest, a delightful comedienne, always assured of a warm welcome in a double bill made up of J. M. Barrie's one-act comedy "Rosalind" and Robert Marshall's "The Duke of Killiecrankie." The production of the Barrie play has been most eagerly looked forward to by admirers of the dramatist and it is the first short comedy to reach the stage since "The Twelve Pound Look." Barrie followers declare "Rosalind" to be Barrie at his best and this means that one can be certain of fifty minutes of whimsical humor and delightful sentiment. In it Miss Tempest is seen as a popular London actress who becomes weary of the constant effort to be youthful, vivacious and conventional and thinking to escape temporarily, hies herself to an English village far from her theater. Here she revels in the ease of middle age, "letting herself go" as she describes it, until by chance she encounters one of her youthful admirers. She hits upon the plan of posing as her own mother and the ensuing situation contrived by Barrie may be imagined. In the end she undeceives the lad, and at a call from her managers hurries back to London, with a sigh for her lost middle age, to again take up her role of Rosalind. The boy's devotion withstands the discovery that his idol is not as youthful as he and he gaily accompanies her back to the city.

"The Duke of Killiecrankie," it will be recalled, had its original production in London some seasons ago, with Miss Tempest in the role she now essays. It is a three-act comedy of London social life, and is replete with smart dialogue, amusing situations, and light comedy of the kind in which Miss Tempest excels. In this play, Graham Browne also plays the role he originated in its first production and Ferdinand Gottschalk does the same as Henry Pitt-Walby. Surrounding roles are entrusted to Mary Forbes, Kate Sergeantson and Reginald Denny.

H. ZODER,

With Irving Place German Theater Company—Majestic Tuesday evening.

"TWIN BEDS" COMING.

Funny Farce Will Be Seen at Majestic Next Saturday.

As the attraction at the Majestic theater next Saturday matinee and night, Selwyn and Company, the firm that gave the stage such notable successes as "Within the Law" and "Under Cover," will offer their latest production "Twin Beds." Salisbury Field and Margaret Mayo's screamingly funny farce of life among the apartment dwellers, which has proved the laughing sensation of the season in New York, where it recently concluded a run of one whole year.

AT THE TEMPLE.

ROSARY CLOSES TONIGHT.

Temple Players Will Next Be Seen in The Man From Mexico.

The Temple Players will give their final performance of the quasi-sacred drama, The Rosary, this evening and all next week they will be seen in the immense laugh, The Man From Mexico, the big comedy hit said to be funnier even than Hello Bill. The plot although very similar to that of Hello Bill, is more convincing since it is more reasonable, and fun is even more furious, especially in the prison scene in the second act, when Fitzhugh is disclosed breaking stone while his wife and a party of society friends visit the institution and remark upon the terrible iniquities of the class of people that society is forced to protect itself against by incarceration. The explanations in the third act by which Fitzhugh tries to convince his wife that his absence from home was an on-the-level proposition are ludicrously amusing. Maurice Jenkins again is cast for the principal comedy character, a role much similar to that of Bill in Hello Bill, where the Temple Players' director made himself such a reputation as a farce comedy comedian.

The Rosary a Success.

The Rosary has been one of the big successes of the season. The appeal of this delightful drama with its engaging comedy lines and its thrilling intense scenes built round the personality of Brian Kelly, the Irish divine, has found a lodging place in the hearts of Fort Wayne people. The drama has been produced here by several road companies but never has it been given any more adequate depiction than by the Temple Players. Mr. Blesser Jennings is thoroughly at home in the role of Father Kelly, since he played that character for two seasons with a big road company that experienced flattering success with the drama.

AT KEITH PALACE

VAUDEVILLE'S VENUS.

Miss Robbie Gordone Heads Coming Bill at the New Palace.

"The Venus of Vaudeville" Miss Robbie Gordone, whose divine form and exquisite grace have been raved over by sculptors since her first professional appearance, is to headline the new Keith bill at the New Palace opening Monday afternoon. Miss Gordone will be seen in the same classic reproductions of famous statutes that have made her the talk of New York. Milo, the mystery, the living question mark, is a novelty that will make the coming bill the center of conjecture, as the vaudeville addicts attempt to decide whether he is a she or she is a he or whether in reality it is human. This season Harry Holman is playing a bit of frenzied business called "Adam Killjoy" in which Mr. Holman is seen as the testy business man whose son falls in love with the firm' stenographer and finally secures the parental consent to the wedding. Hoey and Lee, a team of character parodists; the Four Sultanas, a mixed quartet, and the vivacious Elida Morris, complete this bill.

Miss Virginia Olds, Fort Wayne's delightful danseuse, will do a group of three interpretive dances as a special added attraction on this bill. There will be no increase in prices during the week, however.

The current bill includes some real vaudeville favorites, Bob Matthews and Al Shayne in "Dreamland;" Patricola and Mayers, "The Dancing Fool;" Ethel Hopkins, the daughter of vaudeville; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Phillips in the skit "Sweets to the Sweet;" LaFrance and Bruce, black face comedians; Paul LaVarr and Brothers, acrobats, and William Ferry, the sensational contortionist.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

IT WAS SOME BOUDOIR.

Striking Background for Valeska Suratt in "Soul of Broadway," at Orpheum.

Nothing that equals the novelty and lavish expensiveness of many of the scenes in "The Soul of Broadway," starring Valeska Suratt at the Orpheum theater has ever been seen since the inception of the photodramatic art. Ultra-modernism marks them and the furniture and draperies all correspond to their general key of futuristic art.

For instance, the scenes showing the boudoir of Laura Hamilton, (Miss Suratt), where she receives her infatuated old millionaire admirer, is a revelation in the use of black and white for decoration. This is an immense "set" containing hundreds of furniture and properties, yet everything harmonizes, which is not surprising when it is considered that everything in the room was especially designed and constructed with this end in view.

Alice Brady, the brilliantly talented daughter of the noted theatrical magnate, William Brady, and a famous Broadway actress, will be the attraction at the Orpheum Monday, appearing in a superb picturization of Paul Armstrong's celebrated drama of military life, "The Lure of Woman." On Tuesday and Wednesday Francis X. Bushman and Marguerite Snow will be seen in "The Silent Voice."

S. F. Green, sales manager for the G. E. Bursley company, was the principal speaker Friday at the regular weekly meeting of the Quest club. He spoke on "Courtesy and Enthusiasm and How to Get It.'

SOME OF THE KEITH FEATURES AT NEW PALACE MONDAY.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

"THE HOUSE OF SCANDALS."

Dashing Harold Lockwood, Fascinating May Allison at Jefferson.

Harold Lockwood and May Allison, talented young stars of the silent drama, who hold so firm a place in the hearts of the motion picture fans, are featured in "The House of Scandals," a four-reel Mutual masterpiece, presented at the Jefferson theater today. "The House of Scandals" is a truly interesting story, fairly alive with heart interest, replete with action, unusual climaxes and plentifully interspersed with humor. It is real play for real, red-blooded people and while in no sense of the word a preachment, nevertheless it contains one of the most humanly interesting stories ever screened. The scenes, particularly those of the Greek dances, are exceedingly pretentious.

"Neal of the Navy" an Additional Attraction.

"Neal of the Navy" appears in another installment which is equally as thrilling, if not more so, than any of the preceding series. From the youngest member of the family to the oldest, this great serial has appeal.

A one-reel comedy is also featured and completes the bill for Saturday.

MAY ASK PERSONAL PRORERTY LOAN LAW

Wider Credit Legislation Probable Request to Congress.

Washington, Oct. 23.—Legislation in aid of loans on personal property in addition to that for loans on real estate may be included in the rural credit program of congressional leaders for consideration during the coming session.

The federal rural credits commission, in making its report about a year ago recommended long time or real estate loan legislation but advised that short time loans or loans with personal property as security might well be left for consideration by the various communities with their different conditions. There is a strong feeling among members of the commission that the time is now ripe for legislation dealing with both forms of loans. The joint committee of the house and senate on rural credits is also to take up the subject of short time loan. A sub-committee is now being asked to prepare recommendations for submission to the full committee at its first meeting next month.

The situation which confronted cotton planters as a result of the European war when they were unable to obtain ready cash is said to have been partly responsible for the change in sentiment among some of the legislators dealing with the subject.

George Francisco, Wabash paymaster, will be here Monday to distribute the wage checks among the employes.

CHORUS WITH "THE ONLY GIRL"—MAJESTIC WEDNESDAY MATINEE AND NIGHT.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

WORKING FOR AN EIGHT HOUR DAY

O. R. C. and B. R. T. of the East Send Delegates to Discuss It.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer states that the eastern association of general chairmen of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors is holding a convention in Cleveland to consider a proposition for an eight hour working day and time and a half for overtime. If the convention approves the eight hour plan the matter will be referred to the brotherhoods for final action, and if a demand for eight hours is made it will not go to the railroads before January 1. All sessions are being held behind closed doors and the final action may not be made public. The 110 delegates present at the meeting were entertained Thursday by the chamber of commerce, after which they were taken over the city in automobiles. Friday night the Cleveland lodges of trainmen and conductors gave a smoker for the visitors.

WILL LECTURE ON EXPLOSIVES.

H. F. Estes will lecture at the Commercial club Monday night on the transportation of dangerous articles by express or freight, the lecture being for the benefit of freight and express men or others who are in any manner connected with the handling or shipping of explosives. Included among the list of "dangerous" articles are acid, automobile supplies, compressed gas, dental supplies, chemicals, drugs, extracts, fireworks, liquors, paint and varnishes, leather bindings, photo supplies, storage batteries, moving picture films and matches. The lecture will be free and invitations are extended to all express and railway men. Mr. Estes is the inspector for the bureau of explosives of the United States and Canada, with headquarters in New York.

WILL HAVE TWO TRAINS.

Frank P. Parnin, district passenger agent of the Nickel Plate, is feeling jubilant over the prospects for the biggest excursion to Cleveland Saturday, October 30, the company ever had. "We will have two special trains from this division on that occasion," said Mr. Parnin. One will leave Fort Wayne at 7 o'clock in the morning and take on passengers as far east as Leipsic. From that city only three stops will be made and the train will go into the Cleveland station at 12:30, a half hour earlier than did former similar trains. The other train will start from Leipsic and pick up passengers at all stations en route. No. 2, due here at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, will also carry excursionists and will do a big business. The special trains will have twelve cars each.

MANY OUT OF WORK.

While all of the Fort Wayne industries are apparently running with a normal force, there are still many seeking employment. This is particularly noticeable at the Fort Wayne Electric works, between the hours of 3 and 4 in the afternoons. Yesterday afternoon at least twenty-five men and women were waiting at the door of W. F. Melching, the employment agent, to make application for work. A good many are successful, but others are either turned down or told to report later. The company has taken on many new employes during the past six weeks.

WORKING ON RETAINING WALL.

Division Engineer W. S. Danes, of the Wabash, has twenty-two men engaged in building the long overdue retaining wall on the south side of the Wabash tracks from a point a short distance west of Fairfield avenue to Broadway. It is not expected to finish the work before the holidays and it will not be completed by that time unless the weather conditions are exceptionally favorable for concrete work.

DRESSED POULTRY MOVING EAST.

Poultry shipments to the east, which have been very heavy and up to date have gone in the live form, are now beginning to go in the dressed form, by cold storage. Agent H. M. Quicksell, of the Star Union line, says there is plenty of poultry in the country and that the traffic in it will be unusually heavy this fall. Much of the business at present is for the Thanksgiving trade in the eastern cities.

RETURNS TO WESTERN HOME.

A. A. Hilton, of Seattle, who has been spending two or three months in Fort Wayne and other cities in this neighborhood, went to Chicago today to join Mrs. Hilton and later accompany her to Seattle. Some years ago Mr. Hilton was associated with J. H. Bass in the foundry business in Chicago. When he retired from that business he went to Seattle and engaged in handling iron and steel for eastern mills.

STRUCK WITH SLEDGE HAMMER.

Machinist E. W. Zimmerman received a glancing blow at the base of the spine from a heavy sledge hammer, which glanced off the piece of metal at which it was aimed by the man at the handle this morning. Mr. Zimmerman was painfully hurt and had to quit work and go home. He was passing the man with the sledge when the accident happened.

TURNED OUT TEN ENGINES.

In the output of repaired engines at the Pennsylvania erecting shop during the week ending today was a G. R. & I. engine, No. 103, which was given general repairs. Other engines receiving repairs were Nos. 7148, 9251, 7503, 9034, 7411, 7517, 9041, 7427 and 7230.

CHARLES PALMER RECOVERING.

Charles Palmer, road supervisor of the Peru and Fort Wayne district of the Wabash, was in the city today for the first time in five weeks. He has been very sick and is still unable to work. During Mr. Palmer's illness, Frank Ehringer, section foreman at Huntington, is acting as road supervisor.

TWO ENGINEERS SICK.

Engineer Joseph H. Harber, of the Nickel Plate, who was taken ill a week ago, is slightly improved, though still bedfast. Mr. Harber has pneumonia. Bert Baughman, also a Nickel Plate engineer, is still quite sick, with little prospect of immediate improvement. He has been unable to work for four weeks.

Stationmaster Ed Brownsburger, of the Pennsylvania, has completed a vacation and James Lower, the usherer, is now out on a vacation.

M. F. Kramer, gang foreman in the Pennsy boiler shops, will go to Indianapolis tonight to join his wife for an over-Sunday's visit with relatives.

Mrs. J. W. Thompson, wife of Machinists' Helper Thompson, of the Wabash shops, will spend the week-end in Logansport.

After a lay-off to entertain a ten-pound baby boy, the first child in the family, Fireman L. R. Weigel resumed work on the Nickel Plate yesterday.

T. C. Mensing, an extra fireman on the Nickel Plate, has been assigned yard duty with Engineer G. W. Conklin at nights.

Don Rulo, clerk in the shipping department at the Fort Wayne Electric works, will spend the week-end in Etna Green, Ohio, with his grandmother.

Machinist Benjamin Kessman, of the Pennsy shops, and Mrs. Kessman will spend the week-end with relatives in Chicago.

Nickel Plate Brakeman J. A. Fox has been off duty two or three days looking after matters connected with the funeral of the late Captain Hazelet, the detective.

L. E. Rombke and Elmer Wiebke, clerks at the Pennsylvania shops, and Fred Reineke, of the signal department, left this afternoon for Chicago to spend Sunday with friends.

Nickel Plate Engineer D. H. Graybill has reported for duty after an absence of several days. He was with H. W. Frase at Lake James, when the latter was taken sick and died.

Brakeman D. H. Carey has resumed his run on Nickel Plate passenger trains between Bellevue and Chicago, after a month's absence. He will have headquarters in Bellevue.

During the present week the Cleveland division of the Nickel Plate advanced fifteen firemen and engineers. A number of the men on the Buffalo division were also promoted.

L. R. Anderson, boilermaker's helper at the Pennsylvania shops, is sick and off duty. E. Bell and W. Hilsmeier, of the same shop, are also off duty on account of sickness.

Conductor E. I. Grummonds and Conductor C. Conklin have resumed work on the Nickel Plate, after a few days' absence. Mr. Conklin had been attending the funeral of his aunt at Leipsic.

Fireman Emil Spire, for some time working at nights in the vocal yards, has been assigned to a local freight run with Engineer C. F. Durfee, between Fort Wayne and Leipsic, with headquarters in the latter city.

R. C. Chase, foreman of laborers at the machine shop and testing room of the Fort Wayne Electric works, was summoned home yesterday by a message stating that Mrs. Chase was quite sick.

John Young, a Wabash section hand at Welland, Ont., yesterday lost one of his arms under the wheels of a train. He was found by fellow employes at the side of the track, and no one has learned details of the accident.

Fred Muellenbruch has gone to Ohio for a visit, A. J. Johnson is laying off to move and Henry Toensing and W. C. Buehler are looking after private business. They are employes in the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop.

H. E. Crance, Nickel Plate conductor, has returned from Claypool, where he spent two or three days fishing and hunting. He bagged a number of fox squirrels; also some bass and bluegills.

John Stanford, assistant night foreman at the Pennsylvania round house, who is in the hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis, is doing well and will be able to leave the hospital the latter part of next week.

The Pennsylvania this morning sent out a special train to pick up a foot ball team at Ada and carry them to Delaware, where a game took place today. The Ada team and friends will be brought back on the special tonight.

Mrs. O. H. Farnan, wife of the Pennsylvania machinist, went to Chicago this morning to spend Sunday with friends. Next Saturday Mrs. Farnan will go to Pittsburg for a visit with friends. On the latter journey she will be accompanied by her husband.

John Sullivan, passenger conductor on the Wabash, running between Detroit and Danville, has removed his family from Detroit to Danville. Mr. Sullivan was yardmaster for the Wabash at Danville a number of years ago and the family made their home in that city.

J. J. Kelly, boilermaker, called at the Pennsylvania shops today to see his comrades. A month ago he received a bad wound in the head and a sprained wrist and has not been able to work since. He expects to be able to work soon, however.

Nickel Plate Fireman H. E. McLaughlin, who had been running with Engineer Pat McGushing on passenger trains 1 and 4, has been transferred at his own request to the short haul out of Bellevue. His place in the passenger service has been taken by Fireman C. E. Geary.

Howard Mansfield, Nickel Plate engineer, resumed work yesterday. He was off duty a week on account of the death of his brother, Robert, which occurred following an operation for appendicitis while he was in Minnesota. The funeral was held in Cleveland and several Nickel Plate employes from this city attended it.

R. K. ERWIN, JR., IS CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF

Richard K. Erwin, jr., today announces his candidacy for the democratic nomination for sheriff of Allen county. This will be hailed with satisfaction and enthusiasm by his many friends throughout the county and will command the good wishes of hosts of friends in adjoining counties. "Dick" Erwin was born and reared in Aboite township, this county, and the first twenty-five years of his life were spent on the farm. He is the son of Richard Kenny Erwin, who resided in Allen county three quarters of a century, of which sixty-five years were spent in Aboite. Richard K. Erwin, jr., is a married man with a family, is a property owner and has been a taxpayer for twenty-five years. Few men in the county are better known. For a time he was employed as bridge carpenter on the Nickel Plate railroad, later was engaged at Brookside farm in the services of Hon. J. H. Bass and is at the present time the capable and efficient bailiff in the superior court for Judge Carl Yaple. He is a democrat by birth, training and natural bent of mind and sentiment. He always has taken an active and helpful part in the affairs of the party in the county. He is a member of Sol D. Bayless lodge, No. 359, F. & A. M., of the Scottish Rite Masonic bodies, of Mizpah temple of the Mystic Shrine and of Harmony lodge, No. 19, I. O. O. F.

MANY LIVES SAVED BY WEATHER MAN

He Forecasted Recent Big Gulf Storm, Warning Folk to Flee.

Galveston, Tex., Oct. 23—When one sees the ruins left by the recent tornado at Galveston and realizes the force with which this water, flying in the face of the wind, struck the city and demolished hundreds of homes, he wonders how so few lives could have been lost.

There is an answer. There was no one in these homes, except in the Galvez hotel, which breasted the waves like a mountain of granite, yet did not come quite unscathed from the fray. The reason there was no one in these houses when the sea smashed them as so many eggshells is that three men had labored, and their labors had incited an army to deeds of bravery.

These three men were W. P. Stewart, local observer of the United States weather bureau, and his two assistants, L. A. Tannehill and J. W. Gieger.

For days the hurricane had been kept track of by the government from the time it left Dominica until it reached a position threateningly near the Texas coast. On Sunday morning warnings were sent out. By Sunday night the hurricane signals were sent up and the observers began working to warn all the coast of Texas. Up in their office at the top of the city, where the gods of stor smhrieked defiance at the ingenuity of man and threatened to tear the building in pieces and scatter it to the four winds of heaven, these three men labored fifty-six hours without sleep and with only the little food that some one thought to bring them from time to time. So great was the strain that they did not think how long they had been there and when the storm passed they collapsed from fatigue. Had it not been for the insistent warnings of these men and the heroic efforts of the strong men of the city under these warnings, the calamity of 1900 would have been repeated despite the sea wall.

Just when the mighty seas had broken into the doors of the city and finding the tenement empty and themselves despoiled of victory, another mighty cry went up. Far up at the top of the town the little needle of the anemometer was writing another message. It came on with a scream of rage, and blew at a velocity ranging from sixty to 120 miles for six hours. As soon as the little needle began to write its message of warning the warning was sent to the people on the bay side of the city and none too soon. As it was, many waded in water to their necks seeking safety in the great buildings in the heart of the city.

Neighbors of Fort Wayne camp, No. 4761, Modern Woodmen of America, and all Woodmen in good standing are invited to attend a class adoption and banquet Monday evening, October 25. All camps are invited to attend.

EXPECT ELEVATION PLANS ON MONDAY

Board Believes Wabash and Pennsylvania Roads to Be Prepared.

Mayor W. J. Hosey, the board of works and city engineer confidently expect the officials of the Wabash and Pennsylvania railroads to be present at Monday's scheduled meeting and submit plans for track elevation east of Calhoun street. The board has several times granted extensions at the request of the railroads, the last of them being a few days ago, when the Pennsylvania men asked for the sake of convenience the meeting be postponed from Saturday, October 23, until Monday. This request was granted. The board has been given reason to believe that the plans for grade separation at Lafayette, Hanna and Winter streets and Anthony boulevard will be submitted by both railroads. Whether or not these plans will be such as can be approved by the board can be determined only after they have been presented.

PREPARING TO FIGHT SUITS.

Park Board and City Attorney Getting Ready for Injunction Cases.

The park board and City Attorney Colerick have been holding some consultations respecting the injunction suits brought by Frederick Wiebke and others interested in the Wiebke property abutting on Rudisill boulevard, to restrain the park board and contractors from proceeding with the boulevard improvements, for which contracts have been made. It is sought to restrain the work of macadamizing the street and from performing the grading, sidewalk, curb and gutter work on the south side of the thoroughfare from Calhoun street to Broadway. The hearing is expected to be held in the superior court next week. The suit hinges on the assessed valuation of the property involved.

BOARD OF SAFETY MEETING.

At its regular meeting Friday night the board of safety gave a hearing on charges of intoxication against Patrolman Richard Cantwell, who was found under the influence of liquor while in uniform and on duty. The officer's defense was that he had been feeling unwell the morning of the occurrence and took a couple of drinks of whisky, which overcame him. He was suspended from duty for fifteen days without pay. The board appointed and commissioned Patrick E. Malone, of 2423 Calhoun street, to be a merchant policeman. He will serve the business houses in the district south of the railroad between Calhoun and Lafayette streets. Mr. Malone was a Pennsylvania engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad until he was injured in the wreck of the flyer at Swinney park four years ago last summer.

WILL GIVE FINAL HEARING.

The park board at Monday afternoon's meeting will give a final hearing on the assessment rolls for sidewalks, curb and gutter and grading the park strip on the north side of Rudisill avenue from Fairfield avenue to Broadway.

CITY BREVITIES.

Nearly 100 head of swine are infected with cholera on the farm of Elmer McCray. Dr. George W. Gillie declares that hog cholera is very prevalent in the western part of the county.

Thomas L. Line, of Larwill, Whitley county, a national organizer for the Farmers' Equity union in Indiana and Ohio, arrived in Fort Wayne Friday evening after a trip through Ohio. He reports that several new unions have been organized in Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jockel, of Piqua avenue, are the parents of a baby daughter born at St. Joseph hospital Friday, the second anniversary of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jockel, 1240 Hugh street, and Mrs. Emma Kennedy, East Williams street, are the grandparents. Mrs. Jockel will be remembered as a former school teacher.

ALIENISTS HAVE INNING.

Widely Divergent Opinions Come Out in Charlton's Trial.

Como, Italy, Oct. 23.—Today's session of the trial of Porter Charlton, the American, who is charged with having murdered his wife, was given over largely to the report of alienists. The expert for the prosecution read a lengthy report, which reached the conclusion that Charlton was entirely responsible mentally. The expert for the defense argued that the prisoner was irresponsible. Both desired to employ their written opinions by oral discourse, but the judge cut them short.

Representatives of the Crorey ten cent stores have been in the city for the past few days trying to negotiate a lease for a down town store building.

IN FIVE MINUTES NO SICK STOMACH INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" is the quickest and surest Stomach Relief.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why it relieves sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthly appetite; but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigestion in five minutes.—Advertisement.

OSSIAN NEWS.

Ossian, Ind., Oct. 23.—Mr. and Mrs. John S. Krewson have gone to Sharpsville to visit over Sunday with Mrs. Lindsey, a friend with whom they became acquainted during their sojourn in Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Rupright are the proud parents of a new little daughter.

Miss Lulu Summers, who is a student in Hope hospital training school for nurses, is home today visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Felix Summers.

Quite a number of Ossian people were in Fort Wayne Thursday attending a district convention of the W. F. M. S., held at the Trinity M. E. church. Among those attending were Mesdamea S. L. Gorrell, E. H. Roe, William Cotton, Frank Rector, A. S. Elzey, Joseph Henline and Misses May Quackenbush, Gay Bunn, Marie Hunter, Eva Cline, Mary and Martha Way, Thelma Spencer, Marjory Hunter, Lulu Prough, Ethel Hendry, Stella Quackenbush and Glen Quackenbush and Messrs. E. H. Roe, A. S. Elzey and Rev. J. O. Powell.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Norwalt, jr., motored to Huntington Thursday evening, to make the acquaintance of a new nephew, the sixth son, which arrived recently in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Nevins, the latter a sister of Mr. Nahrwalt.

The Whileaway club was most delightfully entertained last evening by Mrs. Clyde Wagner.

Miss Mary Harter spent Friday in Bluffton as a guest of Mrs. I. N. Hatfield.

Forest Wilson, who has been an operator at Michigan City, arrived in Ossian Thursday night to assume his duties in the hardware store of Wilson Bros., of which he is a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Lon Kreigh are spending a few days visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Kreigh, living south of Bluffton.

The members of the N. M. G. club are arranging for a masquerade party to be given next Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Lillian Spencer. Each member is to take one invited lady guest.

Mrs. William E. Hunter and son, William, jr., of Columbia City, came Wednesday and will visit until the first of next week with Mrs. Hunter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Roe.

Mrs. John Elzey entertained the U. B. Ladies' Aid society Thursday afternoon at which meeting the members made arrangements for a parcel post sale. This sale will be given Thursday evening, October 28th, in the picture show building.

John Melching, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Melching, continues quite ill and is suffering from a low grade of typhoid fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wilson have moved into the flat above the hardware store.

Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Shepherd, of Marion, left yesterday for their home after visiting a few days with their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hoover.

Otto Wilson and his fatherin-law, George Earl, of Sheldon, have gone on a western trip. They left Tuesday and are now visiting in Kansas City.

The new band organization met Thursday evening in the picture show room and had their first regular practice. The services of Mr. Boggs, of Fort Wayne, who conducts a musical studio in that city, have been secured to direct this new organization. L. E. Rose, a trombone, and Mr. Tannyhill, a baritone, also of Fort Wayne, were present to help in starting the work.

SPENCERVILLE NEWS.

Spencerville, Ind., Oct. 23.—Rev. A. K. Mumma, of this place, performed the ceremony which united Mr. Howard Hull, of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Miss Helen Patterson, of St. Joe, in marriage at the St. Joe Lutheran church on Wednesday morning at 10:30 a. m.

On Wednesday evening at the Lutheran parsonage Mr. George B. Hart and Miss Leila Horn were united in marriage by Rev. A. K. Mumma, of the Lutheran church. Mr. and Mrs. Klopfenstein, of Grabill, acted as brides matron and groomsman. Miss Horn is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Horn and the groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. McClellan Hart, two miles east of this place. Both young people are members of the Lutheran church and Sunday school and have the sincere wishes of their many friends for a happy life. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Harry Hilgemann, of Fort Wayne. The young people will reside at present with the groom's parents, east of town.

A truck load of 18 people from Hoagland visited their former pastor, Rev. A. K. Mumma, of the Lutheran church on Saturday. All were members of a Sunday school class, the Loyal Workers, of which Miss Anna Horrod is the teacher. The evening was spent with Misses Charlotte and Opal Miller of the county line.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hollabaugh, Mrs. George Hollabaugh and Mrs. Nora Hollabaugh and son, Albert, motored to Fort Wayne Thursday.

James Boots and sister, Mrs. Jane Buter, left Saturday to visit their brother and sister and other relatives residing in California.

Rev. J. C. Vallentine, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Farmer and grandson motored to Auburn on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duval spent Sunday the guests of the latter's sister, Mrs. Lawrence Pridley and family, of near Auburn.

Dr. Dean Metcalf and wife, of Fort Wayne, were Sunday evening visitors of the former's parents, D. D. Metcalf and family.

Mrs. Shutt, of Fort Wayne, came Sunday to spend several months with her daughter, Mrs. Jack Beams and family.

Mrs. E. W. Erick, wife of Rev. Erick, an aged lady, fell in such a way Sunday morning as to severely injure herself across the chest although no bones are broken.

William Fairfield, while building a chimney on his new residence Wednesday had the misfortune to step on a loose board and fall although he caught himself he was badly bruised and shaken up.

TWO CHILDREN HAD CROUP.

The two children of J. W. Nix, merchant of Cleveland, Ga., had croup last winter. One was a boy of 6, the other a girl of 8 years. Mr. Nix writes: "Both got so choked up they could hardly breathe and couldn't talk. I gave them Foley's Honey and Tar and nothing else and it entirely cured them." This reliable medicine should be in every home for it gives immediate relief from colds, coughs and croup, heals raw, inflamed throat and loosens phlegm. Dreier Drug Co.—Advertisement.

TAMER of MILLIONAIRES

WILLIAM MULDOON

W. J. WILLIAMSON, D. D.

DR. WILLIAMSON QUT FOR A HIKE

© BY A.P.A.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

HON. ELIHU ROOT

"You big, soft-headed dubs, you can set out here and settle the European war but you haven't enough sense to know how to wash your own feet."

It was big Bill Muldoon talking and his audience was a number of prominent business men, lawyers, clergymen and others who rank high in the world's affairs. And the millionaires, who might discharge the head clerk at home if he even blinked, sat by and took it all—this denunciation and upbraiding—without even one word in retaliation.

Bill Muldoon, former world's champion wrestler, is the man who keeps the country's great men in fit condition. He also is the man who doesn't think any more of a millionaire than he does of a tramp and tells the millionaire so. His farm is in Purchase, N. Y., and he gets $60 a week from each of these wealthy men for exercising and abusing them—chiefly abusing.

The wealthy cheerfully give up the $60 to be put through long hours of drilling in the gymnasium, running cross country, being compelled to take a shower bath just the way Bill Muldoon wants them to take it and occasionally to work on Bill Muldoon's roads.

Anyone who has an idea that the former wrestler has any respect for any human being should listen to the following story told about him and Chauncey Depew. The latter was engaged in training on the farm and at the particular moment was bathing.

"Depew, wash your feet," shouted Bill Muldoon.

"I'm a gentleman, Mr. Muldoon, and I am accustomed to being spoken to like a gentleman."

"I know you are a gentleman. Gentlemen wash their feet. Wash your feet."

And Depew did.

FRIEND OF FROHMAN.

Muldoon's estate adjoins that of the late Charles Frohman and it is said that he was the only man who took liberties with the trainer. Although Muldoon says Frohman was the laziest man he ever knew, they were warm friends and had great fun together. Frohman never walked farther than from his house to his barn—a distance of two blocks.

One morning, however, he came to Muldoon and said he had decided to take his treatment. Muldoon was pleased to have won him over and directed him immediately on a six-mile walk. Frohman listened with interest to the conditions of the walk and started out. Five minutes later he telephoned Muldoon.

"Say, Muldoon, your treatment's fine. I walked as far as my house and felt so good I decided to go in and take a nap."

The formula of Muldoon's dope, as it usually is termed, is about like this:

Get up at 6 a. m. Light calisthenics with a march of half a mile and back open the proceedings. This is followed by a shower bath and then breakfast of fruit, toast, poached eggs and one cup of coffee. Later there is a horseback ride, another shower and then dinner. Then is an hour of rest and then a long stroll over the meadows. After this comes supper and then the "guests" are allowed to talk until about 8:30 when they are compelled to "hit the hay," as they call it at Bill Muldoon's. And every man of them plunges eagerly into bed when a gong gives the signal to retire for each is almost exhausted from his efforts of the day.

DISTINGUISHED PUPILS.

Theodore Roosevelt and Elihu Root are among the notables who have gone through the paces at Bill Muldoon's.

It is said that when Roosevelt was there he held Muldoon in awe and respect. In return he was treated with just the same lack of respect that the trainer shows to the other men. His language is not always the choicest but the rough talk which he uses is simply a part of his philosophy—that of subjugating the will of the man under him.

While at Muldoon's Roosevelt told Taft that he would be the next presidential nominee. Root had come up for a course of training and Taft and Roosevelt came to frame a campaign. They had been trying for weeks to persuade Root to run for the office. One afternoon after a heated discussion Root declared he had no intention of being a candidate and would hear no more about it. Roosevelt rose in his impetuous way, slapped Taft on the back and said, "Well, Bill, it's you."

One of the most recent visitors to the Muldoon farm was a minister—Rev. Dr. William J. Williamson, friend of John D. Rockefeller, and who is known as the friendliest man in St. Louis. He took the course with a lieutenant of the United States coast artillery, a son of the late E. H. Harriman, a patent attorney for the Bethlehem Steel Co., and many other prominent men.

Here is how Bill Muldoon greeted the clergyman: "Why, you big hunk of flesh. You call yourself a smart man and you don't know enough to keep yourself in condition. You're all below the chin. There's nobody at home upstairs."

Muldoon makes it perfectly clear to his "guests" that he is absolutely boss and the men who are paying him $60 a week for their board and training are not supposed to speak to him unless he first speaks to them.

IMPRESSIONS OF PREACHER.

Rev. Williamson describes Muldoon as a classic "cusser." He says he heard more profane language in his six weeks at the farm than he ever expects to hear again. It would take more dashes than the allies are making at the Dardanelles to indicate Muldoon's caustic remarks to his clients while they are going through the training exercises. The burden of his remarks is "they are all fat mutts who are beneath the contempt of a man who knows how to keep himself in condition."

One of the minister's vivid recollections is of one of the early days of his stay when he and several others were taking shower baths. Muldoon thundered this at them:

"You big, soft-headed dubs you can sit out there and settle the European war, but you don't know how to wash your feet."

Dr. Williamson soon learned that Muldoon's guests did not have their breakfast served in bed. Rising at 6 a. m., they were required to go into the gymnasium.

Then they were paired off and required to toss a three-pound medicine ball until they almost were exhausted. After a short period of rest they were made to run around an indoor track until they were on the verge of collapse, while Muldoon looked on and berated them in his classic manner. After this came a generous breakfast.

Except at meals the entire day must be spent out of doors. There were benches on which "the soft-headed dubs" might take a nap in the afternoon, but they all were out in the full glare of the sun.

NO SOFT SPOTS.

Woe to the man found seeking a shady place for a nap. He would hear several yards of Muldoon's classiest classic "language."

One of Muldoon's little jokes on his new arrivals was to tell them he would take them out for a picnic on Sunday. They would be taken ten or twelve miles into the hills in a big wagon. When they arrived Muldoon would leave them there and tell them they would have to walk back. "I hope you mutts will get back in time for dinner for it's going to be a good one."

"There was a leather importer from New York in our crowd," Dr. Williamson said, "who thought for a while that Muldoon was the meanest man who ever lived. The first morning he was there he was given a colt ride. Muldoon has a fine stable of blooded horses and he assigned this man to a rather spirited animal. The man was not accustomed to riding. His face turned white after the first mile's ride and of the men who was riding beside him turned to Muldoon and pointing to the man and said he was about to give out.

"Tell him to go home," was Muldoon's reply.

The saddle was not properly adjusted and by the time the party reached the turn in the road near Whitelaw Reid's home, the leather dealer was barely hanging on. But the riders did not slacken their pace and again the companion appealed to the reader.

"Mr. Muldoon, that man's saddle is on wrong and he is so weak he is going to fall off in a minute.

"Let him fall," replied Muldoon. "Anyone who hasn't sense enough to fix his own saddle before he starts ought to fall off."

But the rider got home safely.

"One day we were ordered to go on a 12-mile walk—17 minutes to the mile—was the rate set. Now Muldoon never lets you know what you are going to do next—that's part of his philosophy. A judge of the supreme court of Pennsylvania was wearing a pair of house slippers when the order came but he joined the ranks without a question.

As soon as he was out of Muldoon's hearing he began to upbraid him for his manner of treating decent, self-respecting men. He intended to tell him what he thought of him when we returned.

ONE ON THE JUDGE.

Each mile in house slippers added to the insults that were in store for Muldoon—and each mile gladdened the heart of the judge's fellow sufferers. We helped an almost slipperless judge over the last mile and into the grounds.

Muldoon met us at the door and jumped all over us for being 15 minutes late. Then he started in on the judge for his condition. We waited breathlesly.

"Oh Mr. Muldoon," exclaimed the judge proudly, "I didn't dream I could do it."

No one is allowed to talk for an hour after meals. Every fellow is assigned a separte bench on which he is to rest. After the hour was over we used to get together in the sunshine. But even then conversation was limited. It is a time for repose of body and mind.

"I'll tell you what it reminds me of when Muldoon comes along. A crowd of school boys when the teacher comes into the room. Everyone stops talking and the silence is painful." Dr. Williamson continued.

And that is just how Muldoon exercise his power over his guests and makes them keep in training—by treating them just as though they were school boys.

OPEN ER SHUT WINTER EDDYTORIAL—WHICHT?

We take our editorial pen in hand and dash off a editorial on whether or not we be agoing to have a hard winter this winter. While we realize that this editorial will not make the winter any harder nor any more of a open winter, it won't do no harm to give the views and perdictions of various Bingville citizens on the subject.

Old Dad Henderson who is one of the oldest inhabitants having been born and raised in Bingville, where he has sinst lived for nigh on to 88 years, perdicts that we will have a hard winter. This perdiction coming from Dad, however, does not amount to much. About this same time a year ago, Dad perdicted that we would have a mild open winter(whereas everybody in Bingville knows that last winter was enough to freeze the horns offen a muley cow. We calkilate that being as Dad missed it so bad in his perdiction a year ago by saying it would be a mild winter, he thinks he will hit it this time if he says it will be a hard winter. If Dad keeps on perdicting he's bound to hit it right sometime or other.

Dad bases his perdiction on a hard winter on several different signs. He says he never seen the bark stick so close to the tree as it does this fall, that corn in the field is covered with heavier husks, that rabbits has begin to fuz out and grow their winter coats sooner than ushual, that the feathers is thicker on chickens than common and that the goosebone isn't as porous as it would be if it was going to be a mild winter. As Editor of the Bingville Bugle we calkilate that the only way we will be able to know whether we are agoing to have a hard winter or not, will be to wait until next spring and then decide about whether this winter is mild or severe and whether the snow lays 4 ft. deep or not, and whether the thermometer is 50 degrees above freezing or 50 below.

Subscribe for the Bugle, it is a awful good thing to while away the long winter ev'gs with.

Lafe Packard is talking of building a addition to his barn. If talk would of did it, Lafe would have several additions built to it by this time.

Israel Goodwin perdicts that we will have a open winter this winter. Is perdicted this same thing about a year ago, and last winter Bingville like to of froze to deth.

Don't forgit that the Bugle office does job printing while you wait—if you wait long enough.

Mrs. Martha Tucker while canning peaches last week, upset the kittle and spilled a whole mess of peaches all over the kitchen floor. She ain't spoke to Jim Tucker, her husband, sinct, whereas Jim says it ain't his fault, bein as he wasn't within a mile of the house when it happened.

Bill Sims is making a new yoke for his pair of oxes. Bill has been working on this yoke now going on three years, and it ought to be a good job when he gets it finished.

We ain't seen a copy of the Hardscrabble Banner for nearly three weeks. We persume the Banner has went up the spout as we expect to do soon unless our subscribers pays up their back subscripshions.

Lokels

While driving home from Snake Bend last Tuesday during a thunder shower, Joe Hines was nearly struck by lightening. Joe was considerable surprised at this, and run his horse clean into Bingville, where he arrived with his hair standing on end, and his eyes bugged out as big as saucers. He also lost his hat.

Bill Hepburn our artistic blacksmith, says business is very dull in his line, and he wishes more horses would cast their shoes than have been doing so recent.

Miss Tabitha Jones celebrated her 22d birthday last Satterday Miss Tabitha has been 22 years old for the past 7 years. How time does fly!

Mrs. Samantha Deevers was very indignant because we failed to say in last Bugle that she was on the sick list as usual. This was a oversight on our part—we always aim to say every week that Samantha is on the sick list, and have done so faithfully for the last 12 or 13 years, but okashionally we forgit it.

Jaspar Hawkins visited the Bugle office recent and threatened to pay us $2. on his back subscripshion, but he went away without doing so. We would be obliged to Jaspar and a few more like him if they would carry out their threts onct in a while.

Beef for Sale by Abe

Abe Witherow had a very painful axident to happen to his cow one day last wk we forget whitch day.

Abes old cow "Spot" who is praps 18 or 19 yrs old & blind in one eye got a fool noshion into her head that she would jump outen the barnyard where Abe had turned her out to be milkt so she tuk a run and tride to do so but without results.

In other words when she tride to jump over the fenct she tripped and fell on tother side with a dull sikkening thud and jest layd there bellerin.

Abe heerd her and rusht outen the house and soon as he seen her he seen she was injurd but he diddent know whether it was internal or external so he sent for Doc Livermore our expert human speshialist & veternary and Doc he examind Spot and found that she had went and broke her leg. Doc said the only thing to do was to shoot her so Abe went into the house and got his rifle and did so.

Abe drest her off and now desires us to inform you all that he has choice beef roasts, sirloins, tenderloins, cows livver, cows heart, flank steaks, et cettery to sell at reasonable prices as long as this deceased cow lasts.

We make this a nouncement for Abe with great cheer, but as for us personal we dont calkilate we care for enny of ole Spots remains speshially sinst she is nearly 20 yrs old. We persoom she would be tuffern tripe.

Wood Took In Ecchange

This is to notify our dead beet subscribers who we have hounded and dunned and pesterd for yrs & yrs without results and from who we never expeckt to git enny hard cash that until further notis we will except stove and fire wood in exchange for their back subscripshions giving them due credit on our books for same as soon as said wood is deliverd.

We diddent know we was so neer outen stove and fire wood until our wife happend to call our eddytoriul attenshion to our wood pile tother day and we was most flabbergasted to discuvver that we diddent have moren enuff wood to last only a wk or two.

Therefore bring on your wood in exchange for back subscripshions and we will except it with great cheer until our wood pile gits what we consider big enuff to last us until next spring—then we'll haft to shut down on excepting wood on this basis.

When we comt to think it over it will be a good eal better for us to except wood and thus keep from freezin to deth during the cold blasts of winter than to git nothink a tall outen our unprincipeld, good for nothink, low down mean, dead beet subscribers.

SPESHIAL NOTIS—The above offer dont apply to new subscribers. In other words we wouldnt except fire or stove wood from folks who is subscribing for the Bugle for the first time—from sutch we must have cash.

EDDITOR BUGLE.

Poor Bill Disappinted

Bill Hepburn our artistick blacksmith had a pathetick axident to happen to him last Satterday whitch we persoom was most enuff to make him jest break down and sob like a child, even strong man that he is.

Last Saturday brite & erly Bill hitchd up his old gray mare to his buckboard and set out for the co seat where he makes a speshial trip every Satterday to git full and allus does so returning ushually late at nite and disturbing the quiet village of Bingville from end to tother as he drives down Main st hollering and singing ribald songs.

Well, when Bill started out to see the co seat last Satterday morning he had two silver dollers in his pocket whitch he figgered would he suffishent to pay for his dinner and supper at the co seat and git a full qt of old Demun Rum.

But there was one thing whitch Bill diddent figger on and that was a hole whitch he had in his pants pocket all unbeknownst to him and it was into this pocket that he put the two silver dollars afore he started for the co seat.

When he arrove at his destinashion and made a bee line for the saloon and askt for a qt of red licker and went to pay for same all poor Bill found was the hole in his pocket so he diddent git no licker although he coaxed and pleaded and said he would send the money over to the saloon keeper the 1st of the wk he wouldnt trust Bill who got rite into his buckboard and driv all the way back to Bingville in deep disgust and very slow lookin all over the road ahead to see if he could find em and arrove in Bingville jest about dark and a madder or more disagreeable person you never seen. When ennyone spoke to him Bill nearly bit their heads off—all except his wife of who Bill is mortally afeard. It was Mrs. Hepburn who told about Bill losink the two dollers, but nobuddy has joked Bill about it enny—in fakt theyre afeard to less he'd wipe up the ground with em.

It must be a turrible thing to have sitch a appytite for whiskey as that.

FALL Sale of Winter Goods

I desire to announce to my many patrons that I have received a large amount of goods which is now on sale in my store at cash prices reasonable to all. These new goods which is arriving daily, and must be sold out in order to make room for new goods, which will arrive next spring, consists of one box of prunes, CAPS with ear lugs on same, red wool undershirts, gloves, mitts, boots, shoes, cigars, tobacker, nails, bolts, one barrel of crackers, one box of salt herring (you ort to taste some of these salt herring—they are fit to eat), one box of peppermint losenges, one cake of salt makerel, one bolt of gingham, for shirting, overalls too numerous to menshion, and everything else which is found in a first-class business emporium. Come in and see these new goods, and when you come bring your pocket-book with you because I wont give credit to nobody. Terms stricktly cash. The reason I won't give credit to nobody is because nobody in town deserves it. No trouble to show these goods as long as you buy something but it makes us mad to have to tear the store all up from one end to tother showing a customer what I have in stock, and then have him to out and say he guesses he don't want nothing today. Don't do that with me. If you don't see what you want, ask for it, and if I ain't got it, you can't get it in Bingville, being as I have the largest and only store in this town and therefore have no competishion. Some folks says that competishion is the life of trade. That ain't so, competishion is the deth of trade and I am glad I ain't got any. Come early and avoid the rush.

Yours for Fall Bargains in Winter Goods,

FASHIONS
Many New Ideas for This Season.

BY MRS. KINGSLEY.

IN many ways the dress designers are coming to the aid of those who during autumn and winter may wish to readapt their furs, and among the best means they suggest of using peltry is as a coat border, a jacket collar and dress cuffs.

The fur cuffs comes under the category of the detachable cuff, which is another branch of the adaptation hints the cleverest ingenuities are producing for our benefit.

A specimen of the thrifty notion is an early autumn frock of beige cloth with sleeves of Georgette crepe and a sash of beige-colored charmeuse. The touch of fur upon the sleeves is seasonable already, for in minor details of this kind peltry is used to indicate the passing of one season and the advance of another, and it coincides appropriately with the fur-banded charmeuse muff. But by making the fur detachable when the muff is not in use another effect can be gained, just as was the case in a silk-knitted coat seen recently, which had lynx gauntlet cuffs to match the collar, all easily removed at will.

The new basqued jackets with their fluted "skirts," hemmed up the front with fur and edged upon the collar and sleeves to match is shown. Old world tippets, pointed at the back and shaped to rest upon the shoulders, range among the small furs, but are extended so greatly in other designs that they approach the fur cape of years and years ago and will exert a very broadening effect upon the figure of all excepting the slenderest girls, when worn with the full skirt.

An impressive display of high-collar coats is made now. The collar is Russian in character, especially when upon a dark coat a rich green or a vivid red collar is seen, with bold soutache embroideries in black picked out with gold. Another way of displaying a bold touch of color upon a sombre jacket is that of securing the high collar in front by means of a tab of vivid brightness. A black jacket, for example, has a tab of sapphire blue silk with many tinted silk embroideries upon it.

The detachable cuff, the tabbed collar and yet a third method of diversifying the appearance of a frock, namely, by means of flower knots here and there, will be welcomed as excellent dress economy hints. Quite the prettiest evening frock is the simple black silk one, which forty years ago was the standby of every woman and which now seems to be the nearest acceptable approach to the much-discussed uniform.

One such frock had pink roses, stalkless and leafless, arranged singly in a diagonal line upon the satin skirt, and the whole was then draped with black net which subdued yet did not obliterate the color of the flowers.

All the new designs for tailor-mades show most commendable simplicity, and if only those all-powerful authorities who are responsible for the changes in fashion can be persuaded to avoid all exaggeration in the length of the coats and the width of the skirts, the new modes for the autumn ought to show a happy combination of common sense, practical utility and an outline of considerable elegance and grace. Covert coating in various shades and in a more substantial weight than that which was worn during the summer will be very much in evidence during the next few months, and of the two costumes which were seen the other day one was made in fawn-colored covert coating, and will be found most useful for wearing with furs. Although the full skirt is pleated all the way around, it will not be found unduly heavy.

Quite a new style is shown in the coat, which is drawn down closely at the waist under a belt of dark brown patent leather fastened with a dull gold buckle. The long basques are adorned on either side with pleats of the same material cut with mitre points, and secured with gold buttons about the waist belt. Gold ball buttons suspended from silk cords fasten the coat in front, where the severe effect of the high military collars is somewhat softened by the introduction of a small vest of cream silk bengaline embroidered with gold thread.

From the flat low-crowned hat to the high draped toque is a change that many women have been anticipating for some little time. It may be that the Russian influence has been unconsciously at work and we are recalling our fondness for the one-time high Cossack hat which was found so becoming to many faces.

HOMEMADE CEMENT

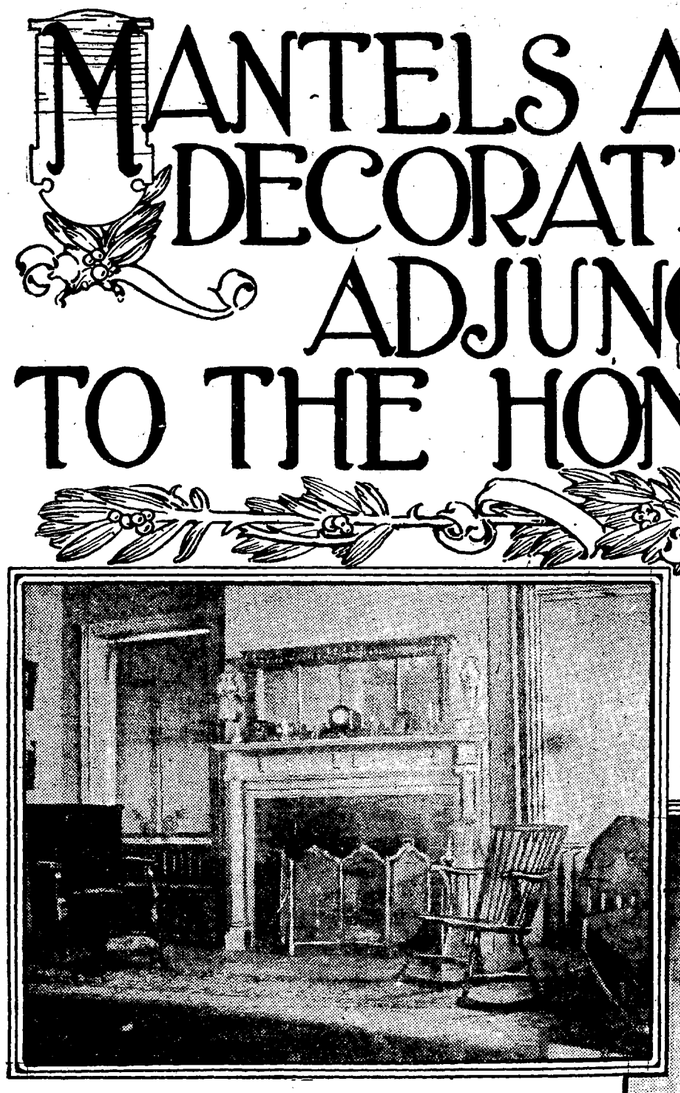
ONE of the finest and most delicate of cements made is a mixture of one ounce of isinglass and one-half ounce of gum arabic covered with a good alcohol. This should be put into a bottle, loosely corked, and set into a kettle of hot water until thoroughly dissolved. This cement can be used for mending the finest woods, as a piano chipped, or to set pieces that may have broken loose from an inset table top or other piece of furniture. Jewelry is also sometimes repaired with this cement, and so is polished steel.

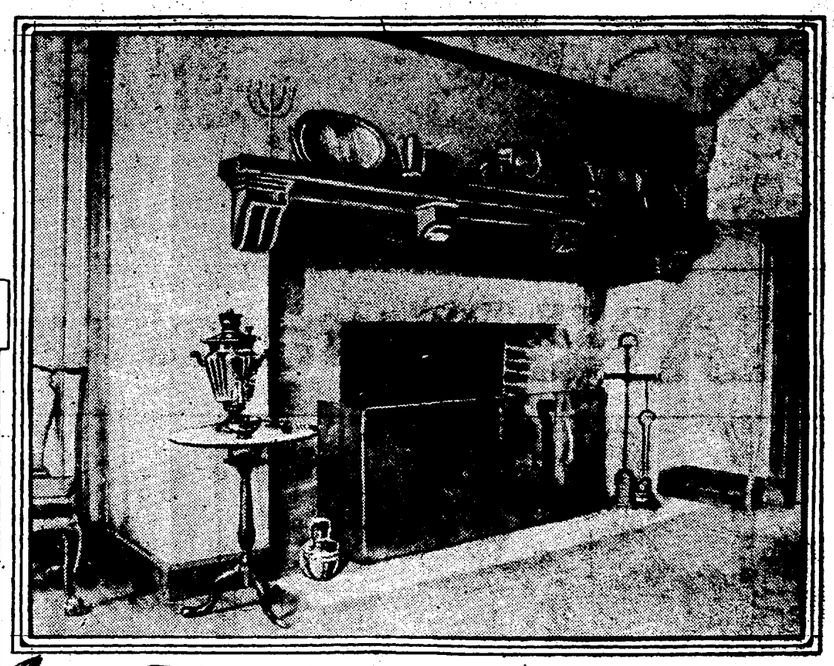
Another simple home-made cement calls for materials always on hand in the home. It is just the white of an egg mixed into a paste with flour. This is good for common earthenware.

If iron filings are added to the mixture a cement for mending broken parts of iron is the result.

A good cement which will hold labels to metal is made by dissolving one part of borax to five of gum shellac in one quart of boiling water. Boil until the whole is clear. Before applying wash the metal in hot water containing common washing soda and warm the cement before using it on the labels.

MANTELS AS DECORATIVE ADJUNCTS TO THE HOME





ODDS AND ENDS

A GOOD paint that looks and wears well, is made as follows: Whiting 5 pounds; skimmed milk, 2 quarts; fresh slacked lime, 2 ounces. Put the lme in a stoneware vessel, pour on enough milk to make like cream; then add the balance of the milk, stir and then crumble the whiting on the surface, after which it must be well stirred in or ground as you would other paint. Use same as lead and oil paint. Above quantity will cover 57 yards.

A NUMBER of charming gowns have been carried out for evening wear in the rich golden yellow so much favored this season. In satin, with or without pleated flounces of chiffon or overdress of lace, this color is particularly becoming to the young woman. Apple blossoms or other delicate blooms will relieve the shade if it proves a little trying, but the glowing brunette can wear it unrelieved or deepened with velvet nasturtiums or other flowers of the darker harmonizing tones.

FOR ants, saturate rags with kerosene and hang or lay these near their runs and they will quickly disappear. Kerosene is a household necessity at cleaning time. For cleaning painted and varnished woodwork, painted walls, varnished floors, bathtubs and marble washstands it is unsurpassed. For tubs and marble, apply with a woolen cloth, then wash with soap and water. For woodwork and walls use clean cloths, changing as soon as soiled. A few drops in the water when washing windows and mirrors will give them a beautiful polish.

TO make a dainty powder bag get a piece of thin flowered ribbon three-quarters of a yard long and about six inches wide. Cover a round disk about the size of the top of a tumbler with pink silk for the bottom of the bag and gather the ribbon to it and put a drawstring at the top. Place it in the powder puff. Next comes the clever idea of gluing to the bottom of the bag on the outside a small round mirror of exact size as the bottom of the bag, then cover the edge of the bag with a double ruffle of narrow ribbon—a narrow piece gathered through the center and the lower ruffle will cover the edge of the glass, making a pretty finish.

THE handbag is now the inseparable companion of woman. A beauty is made of sealskin with a gold top, the owner's initials in gold adorning the side that is generally presented to the gaze of the public. Oxidized silver is sometimes seen, but gold is more favored. No longer is a handle of modest length allowed. Long cords of leather or silk are supplied, occasionally several are plaited together, and finished where they join the bag with tassels. The black suede and the velvet bag also have their devotees, while leather worked in the Venetian manner is much in evidence. In Paris, and on the continent generally, great liking is evidenced for the bag of fairly modest proportions with long cords that are slung across the shoulder—in the same way as one carries field glasses—perhaps because this method displays its beauty to the greatest advantage.

DO not throw away kid glove ends when the fingers become worn out. They make novel and stylish button covers for trimming gowns. They may also be used for binding the rims of hats or coat collars and cuffs. Kid is, in fact, exceedingly fashionable for these purposes. Pompons and fringes are made from just such seemingly useless articles by girls who are clever with their fingers. Belts may be formed from the same source also. And, finally, there is the old-fashioned penwiper, so soft that it never blunts or scratches the most delicate pen.

MANY good housewives do not care to risk the laundering of their fine woolen blankets to their servants and a word might help at this season from a good housewife who always takes this task upon herself. She first shaves a half bar of yellow soap and pours this into a pint of boiling water; she stirs this until it becomes like a thick jelly and pours it into three buckets of lukewarm water. Into this she puts the blankets and washes thoroughly. She does not rub soap on the blankets. She puts them through a wringer and in another tub of clear luke warm water. Then keeps on rinsing in clear water until every particle of soap is removed and hangs on line in hot sun, taking care to hang them perfectly straight. She leaves them in the sun for several hours until perfectly dry, then puts them out the next day if necessary.

IF a man's attentions have justified you in deciding that his intentions are matrimonial, this is no excuse for sending him an expensive present. Such a step may ruin your matrimonial chances. He may decide that you are angling for him, or, worse still, that you have no idea of his value of money and would squander his earnings. The man's Christmas privileges are broader. To a girl he likes he can send almost any impersonal gift, flowers, candy, music, books, pictures. To the girl he hopes to marry he may send something more personal, a cardcase, purse or umbrella; but not until he is her acknowledged suitor does he select jewelry. And even with our lax social relations today, no girl will accept presents of clothing from either suitor or mere friend.

WITH proper care table ferns should last two months. Many people are even more successful with them. They must be kept moist, not soaking wet. Do not allow them to become chilled. A temperature of from 60 to 70 degrees is best. The plants should be placed in a window, where they will receive light and sun for at least a part of the day. They should be watered every day, but not too much. Be sure that the water is cold, as warm water is injurious to ferns. As soon as any of the leaves get yellow down near the root cut them away. A good way to prolong the life of the plant is to repot it, placing about two inches of crushed leaves at the bottom of the pot.

JENNIE'S GREAT PROBLEM
Yet Probably It Was Her Parents Who Suffered More From the Same Cause.

BY EDNA EGAN.

MY folks never want to let me go out and have a good time," said Jennie. "They seem to think that a girl can go to business all day, then come home and help get supper and go to bed at 9 o'clock, perfectly contented, without having any fun or going out with any young folks. I can't stand it, so I think I'll leave home."

Of course, if Jennie is a sensible girl, she hardly needs me to tell her that she must not leave home—but a little review of the conditions of the whys and wherefores of the conditions she meets at home may help all the little Jennies to a happier understanding of and with the older generation.

Jennie's parents are, in all probability, hard-working people, who either come from a country where freedom is practically unknown or who still hold to the ideas of forebears who came from such an environment.

Suppose Jennie's parents came to America when she was a little girl. In whatever land they dwelt, freedom for girls was an unknown thing.

The twenty-year-old German or French or Italian or Russian girl who chances not to be married is shut in and protected and guarded just as she was when she was fifteen and approaching the marriageable age of her land. Her marriage was an arranged affair in which the parents selected her husband for her. She was supposed to have no experience or knowledge of the world on which to base any judgment of her own in regard to the arrangement of her life.

Under these circumstances it is scarcely amazing that Jennie's parents should fail to assimilate the standards of liberty and independence for young womanhood prevalent in our own country.

Suppose Jennie's parents are American born and come from hard-working stock to which pleasure was hardly known, and through whose thrift and frugality Jennie is able to enjoy a good home and some of its comforts. They live in their own youth, and cannot understand the pleasure-loving, butterfly living standards of today.

Perhaps Jennie's mother and father are country folk, to whom city ways are new; perhaps they are poverty stricken souls, who want Jennie to devote herself to work so that she may rise out of the tenement environment where they have to keep her. Any of these suppositions is far more likely to be true than the one that lurks in the back of Jennie's mind.

What does Jennie think? She imagines that she is cursed with tyrannical elders who hate to see her have a good time and who enjoy bossing her around and showing their authority. Or she imagines they are stupid old fogies who can't understand the world of today.

Perhaps they cannot quite understand today's thirst for pleasure and excitement—but they understand all too well today's dangerous longing for pleasure at any cost. They see Jennie's friend Rose sacrificing all her youth and innocent sweetness for a little brief gaiety, and they long to protect Jennie and assure her of lasting happiness instead of momentary joy. Their love makes them inarticulate. They hardly know how to explain themselves to Jennie. They take it for granted that the fifth commandment must mean something to her.

And Jennie, with her superior education and with the better chance than had the older generation, judges them impatiently and thinks they begrudge her youth and joy.

Trust your parents, Jennie. Try to convince yourself that it is just as important for you to understand them as for them to understand you. Have a little faith in the love that brought you into the world and protected your youth.

Respect the experience of your parents rather than the worldly wisdom of tawdry little Rosie. Don't toss your head and take the dangerous "youth will have its fling—I am only going to be young once" attitude toward life.

The older generation has the wisdom of its age and suffering and experience. Convince it that the joys you seek are innocent joys. Make it realize that you do take life with a certain amount of seriousness. And live at home where the conservatism of the older generation may guide you rather than the dangerous flightiness of the untried new generation.

PAPER drinking cup and crepe paper can be made into dainty favor baskets for parties. First take the drinking cup and cut it off from the top as deep as you want your basket. Next make your handle by covering a thin wire with crepe paper. Sew this onto the cup. Then take a piece of crepe paper large enough to gather around the cup and allow for a heading at the top of the cup. Gather this paper at the bottom and sew onto the bottom of the cup. Next sew the paper onto the top of the cup and you have a very pretty basket. These baskets are filled with salted nuts or little candies.

BUSINESS ISSUES

IF you are up against any serious problem in your work don't try to sidestep it, to jolly yourself along with the idea that if you let the thing drift it will somehow settle itself.

You can't evade a business issue and expect to come out safe. "And women," said a human being who wasn't one the other day, "women often seem to think that business is only another sort of social game, and that their personal charm is going to see them through difficulties in the one as in the other. Well, it won't! A business difficulty, a slump in trade, a necessity to put the office force on a more efficient basis, a rival who threatens danger, a new machine that is going to alter production—things like that have to be faced squarely and understood. They're definite as a stone wall, and even a woman won't try to get through a stone wall by simply smiling at the obstacle."

As far as I can see, what this man said is true enough, only it applies to both sexes. Men are given to evasion as well as women, and many a good business has gone to smash, many a clever employe been dismissed, whether man or woman, because of this lack of ability to meet a definite situation squarely and clearly.

Being honest in your business life means a lot more than just not cheating a customer. It means being honest with your own worth. You can't dodge issues and be entirely honest.

If you have the least reason to think you aren't making good in any direction, don't shut your eyes to the unpleasant impression, but get right down to the facts in the case.

THE KITCHEN

Delicious Duck Dressing.

Pare, core, and slice thin five good sized apples; sprinkle each with cracker dust to keep them white. Pour boiling water over one pound of French prunes and when they are swollen remove the seed. Seed half a cup of cracker crumbs mixed with a teaspoonful of sugar. Then last add a saltspoonful of salt and a beaten egg. This will fill four good sized ducks, but do not pack too closely, as it swells.

Crust for One Pie.

Inexperienced housekeepers often find it annoying to stop and divide up, or reduce recipes where the proportions are given in large quantities. So for these folks I present my recipe, with exact quantities of materials to make the crust for one pie.

Take three-quarters of a pint of pastry flour, half a teaspoonful of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt; sift these twice; then rub in three large tablespoonfuls of sweet lard; when well blended, moisten with ice water, only sufficient to roll out. Do not make pie crust soft or wet; if you do it will be hard and tough, and not flaky, as it should be. This must be rolled thin, and is ample for an under and upper crust.

Pimento Saudwich.

Use one can of pimentoes chopped coarse and eight eggs boiled twenty minutes. Let the eggs get perfectly cold, then chop quite fine and salt plentifully. There should be as much again of the egg as pimento. Put together and moisten with salad dressing made with but little sugar. Cut the bread thin, butter one side of it, and spread the mixture on the other half. This amount will make about thirty sandwiches.

If you do not use all of the pimento, take what remains from the can, cover and set in a cool place, when you can have an attractive salad for dinner. Shave cabbage fine, place on a lettuce leaf. Then cut the pimento in small pieces and strew over the cabbage. The green, white, and red make a pretty combination. A delicious dressing for it is made of oyster cocktail sauce, vinegar, and oil, seasoned to taste, or a plain salad dressing.

Cheap Cake.

One cup granulated sugar, one cup cold water, one-third cup shortening (cotosuet), two cups flour, two rounded teaspoons baking powder, one level teaspoon salt, flavor to taste. Dissolve sugar in the water; beat the cotosuet and salt together, adding sifted flour little by little until one cupful is used, beating all the time. Then beat in alternately the dissolved sugar and rest of flour, adding baking powder to last quarter cup of flour. Bake in layers or gem pans. Best with cocoanut, chocolate, maple, or caramel filling or boiled frosting.

To make a colored cake: Boil one cup brown sugar in one and a third cups water for about five minutes and let cool. Then proceed as above, using the boiled liquid in place of dissolved granulated sugar.

A delicious frosting: Boil one cup brown sugar until it spins a thread; take from fire; beat white of an egg and pour liquid into it and beat.

Schnecken.

One pint of sweet milk put over the fire in a granite pan and when scalding (not boiling) hot add a pinch of soda size of a pea, and one teaspoonful of salt. Take from the fire and when lukewarm add one cake of compressed yeast dissolved in a tablespoonful of water and enough flour to make a sponge, then beat well with an upward stroke and set out of draft until light. Have one-half cup of butter and one cupful of sugar creamed, two eggs beaten light together, and add to the light sponge, beating until all ingredients are well mixed; add sifted flour and knead. Do not get too stiff—three pints may be enough. However, use enough, to make a nice soft dough, and knead for twenty minutes, or until the dough is soft, smooth and even. Let it get light again and roll out to one inch thickness, spread thinly with soft butter, grated chocolate, and sugar. Roll up and cut into slices two inches thick. Have ready a dripping pan with this mixture melted in it, then cooled. Butter the size of an egg; three-fourths cup brown sugar and one square of grated chocolate. Lay the rolls or "snails" on this mixture; let it get very light and bake until done. It takes three-quarters of an hour, as they must not burn. They are spoiled if they are burned. This makes about forty rolls. They are delicious.

GENERAL ATTACK ON ENTIRE FRONT RAGES

Italians and Austrians in Gigantic Clash on Battle Line from Switzerland to the Adriatic Sea.

Today's War News Given in Summary

A great battle is in progress on the Italian front. Advices from Rome and Vienna indicate that the offensive movement of the Italians, presumably to relieve pressure on the Serbian front, is under full headway. An official communication from Rome states that this move is in progress on the Tyrol and Trentino frontiers along the whole front to the sea.

The latest reports from Vienna state that the Italians were repulsed with heavy losses, although they succeeded in reaching the Austrian positions in some places. The Italian staff, however, announces a series of important successes. It is stated the Austrian line was pierced in several sectors and that many Austrian positions were captured.

German troops are following up their recent offensive movements on the French front, but apparently no fighting of great importance has developed. The official report from Paris today mentions three German attacks, and says that in each instance the attacking parties were dispersed in Lorraine, French forces occupying a German trench.

German, Austro-Hungarian and Bulgarian armies invading Serbia over the northern and eastern frontiers continue to push back the defenders, according to today's Berlin official statement. German troops have forced a passage over the Drina river and have driven the Serbians from the heights south of Visegrad. On the eastern section the Bulgarians have captured the towns of Negotin and Roglyevo.

Udine, Italy, Oct. 23.—The Italian army is making a general attack along the whole line from Switzerland to the Adriatic. In the preceding five months of the Austro-Italian war the efforts of the Italians have been directed at the penetration of Austrian territory and capture of strategic points for the securing of Italy against the possibility of Austrian invasion. In the opinion of the Italian general staff this has been accomplished and the war is now entering its second phase.

It is estimated here that the Italians have taken 25,000 prisoners during the war and have put out of action upward of 100,000 men in all. Italian losses, including killed and wounded and prisoners, amount to about 45,000 according to official figures, which is the lowest percentage of any of the belligerent nations.

GERMANS CROSS DRINA.

Serbians Driven Southward on Heights Near Vizgrad.

Berlin, Oct. 23.—German troops have crossed the Drina river in northwestern Serbia near Vizgrad, driving southward the Serbians on the heights according to the official statement issued today by German army headquarters. It is also announced that Bulgarian troops have captured the Serbian towns of Negotin and Roglyevo.

"Competent German authorities deny the official announcement made in London on October 20 that only 183 British merchant vessels and 175 British fishing vessels had been sunk by submarines up to October 14," says the Overseas News agency. "These authorities state that up to the middle of October, 289 British trading ships had been sunk and that up to September 14, 275 fishing vessels had been destroyed, as shown by statements published from time to time in English newspapers. These reports do not disclose all the facts, and the

SPEAKS VERY HIGHLY OF LOCAL Y. W. C. A.

E. Gertrude Gogin, Field Extension Secretary Tells of Her Work.

Miss E. Gertrude Gogin, industrial extension secretary of the central field of the Young Women's Christian association, who has been at the local association for the past few days, speaks very highly of the local association. She stated that she finds it to be one of the most active associations in the field and very well equipped in many ways. Its biggest need, she says, is the increase in industrial extension work for which there is such a large field in this city.

The extension work is a new proposition to the local association, only being one year old. Although young it has one large organization known as the Kymknit club with 104 members, second in size to Detroit, which has a membership of 300, the largest in the field.

The idea of Miss Gogin's work is the forming of self-governing clubs for girls. The activities of these clubs are along social lines, having as good a time as possible but at the same time not neglecting the educational lines. Some of the work along the educational line includes dressmaking, millinery, manicuring, hair dressing, hygiene work and many other things, or anything the club decided to do.

Miss Gogin states that the industrial extension work in the Y. W. C. A. of the United States is only four or five years old and is only one year old in the states of the middle west. However, in the Central field there are 3,000 girls in these clubs which are self-governing, who have as their adviser the extension secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

PATMONT IS QUICKLY ACQUITTED BY JURY

Pastor Recently Heard in Ft. Wayne Not Guilty of Arson Charge.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 23.—Rev. Louis R. Patmont, indicted jointly with Macar Lubich, for arson, in connection with a fire in the Christian Polish church here April 10, 1913, was acquitted in the quarter sessions court here today. Lubich was never apprehended and Patmont surrendered himself to stand trial. The jury was out only ten minutes.

Attorneys for Patmont told the jury it would be shown that anti-prohibition interests in the middle west were responsible for the present charges and also were responsiblue for the kidnaping of the defendant in Illinois two years ago.

Rev. Mr. Patmont was heard in several addresses in Fort Wayne a few weeks ago.

WILL CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY.

At the regular meeting of Sion S. Bass post, G. A. R., Friday evening, it was decided to observe the anniversary of the organization with a patriotic celebration and program on the evening of November 26.

TWO ARE HURT IN ACCIDENT

Mrs. Alice F. Meigs Badly Injured When Autos Collide.

C. E. PRANGE IS CUT ABOUT HEAD

Charles Striebig, Aged 12, Hurt in Auto Smash Saturday Morning.

Mrs. Alice F. Meigs, 58 years old, mother of Optician Charles A. Meigs, was seriously injured and Charles E. Prange, 56 years old, living on Kinnaird avenue, suffered painful cuts about the head, when a jitney bus belonging to H. A. Banks, 1139 Sinclair street, and a car belonging to George Lew, a local contractor, living at 3435 Piqua avenue, came together in a collision at about 5 o'clock Friday evening at DeWald and Calhoun streets.

Mrs. Meigs was rendered unconscious and was injured internally, besides innumerable bruises over her body. Her condition is regarded as extremely serious and it is feared that she may be permanently paralyzed.

Prange, who is employed at the Indiana Electrical Appliance company, was thrown through the wind shield, a deep gash from which the blood flowed profusely being cut in his ear, besides other cuts about the face. Prange was taken into the Miller drug store, nearby, where he was given medical attention, and Mrs. Meigs was hurried to the home of her son, with whom she resides at 1020 Kinniard avenue.

Banks was driving south on Calhoun and Lew was going east on DeWald street, when the two cars came together. Both machines were badly damaged.

Small Boy Hurt.

Charles Striebig, aged twelve years, is suffering from a slight concussion of the brain and severe cuts and bruises as the result of a collision between an Overland car driven by his brother, and a Maxwell car driven by George Roche, of West Wayne street, at Calhoun and Holman streets, at ten o'clock Saturday morning.

The boy was thrown from the car, his head hitting the windshield, and he then landed in the street. He was picked up unconscious by Patrolman Krueckenberg, and was hurried to the office of Dr. Daniel R. Benninghoff near by, where his wounds were dressed and he rapidly regained consciousness.

Striebig admits he was on the wrong side of the street when he turned over into the Roche car, but states that a street car was driven directly in front of him as he reached Calhoun street and that he had to swing in a hurry to keep from mixing it with the car. He then swung into the other machine.

TRADE INVASION IS FEAR OF FAIRBANKS

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 23.—Warning that the United States should be prepared for a commercial invasion as well as for a military invasion was voiced by Charles Warren Fairbanks, former vice president, in an address delivered at a political meeting here last night.

"The present prosperity of certain industries, based upon war orders, is inherently temporary," he said. "Within the period of the next administration our own national life and markets of the world are going to be profoundly affected by the great conflict now raging abroad. We must meet that with a constructive pro-American program which consists of: First, the restoration of the protective tariff; second, adequate preparedness for national defense; third, the restoration of the American flag to the ocean; fourth, organization to market our wares in the world markets."

PLAN SPECIAL TRAIN TO MICHIGAN GAME

Alumni of the University of Michigan are preparing to take a special train crowd out of this city to Ann Arbor Saturday(November 6, to attend the Michigan-Cornell game. It is the plan to carry a hundred or more on the trip, and a diner will be attached to accommodate the local people. The whole cost of the trip, including fafe, diner and admission fee, will amount to about $10. Dr. J. H. Gilpin, Dr. Fred Schultz and E. A. Barnes are the committee and would like to get the names of all persons who wish to attend by Monday night, to allow them to make reservations by wire Tuesday.

Wants an Independent Naval Aviation Corps

Washington, Oct. 23.—A naval aviation corps independent of the navy proper with the same status as the marine corps will be recommended to congress by Secretary Daniels as one step toward the improvement of the aviation service at sea.

The present requirement of law that a man to enter the aviation service must be a graduate of the naval academy or to have served something like two years in the line would be abolished and men would be enlisted in the aviation corps from civil life with the opportunity of becoming full fledged officers of the navy. Secretary Daniels has been led to adopt the plans because of the remarkable aeronautic service of men in Europe without military training who had become expert in handling motors through their daily occupations.

Secretary Daniels is still uncertain as to the value of the motors furnished with the aeroplanes now available and will continue consultation with motor experts with a view to remedying recognized defects. He will confer next week with Director Walcott, of the Smithsonian institution who as chairman of the government board of aeronautics may be able to carry on some experiments looking to the perfection of a motor for the navy.

MAY BE ABOARD BIG LINERS AT HOBOKEN

Suspicion Regarding German Warrant Officers Who Broke Parole.

Washington, Oct. 23.—As the result of conferences over the parole-breaking of six warrant officers who vanished from the German cruiser Kron Prinz Wilhelm a week ago Monday, a government official who participated in the conferences said today he was sure the men now at Hoboken, N. J., aboard one of the big German liners there.

The facts that have come to his attention he said, warranted the conclusion that there was a general effort to get as many of the men as possible away from the interned cruisers. He added that the precautions that have been taken by the government since the parole breaking by the six men would in all probability prevent any further escapes.

GIRL COMITTED TO THE STATE SCHOOL

In the juvenile court Saturday, Judge Eggeman ordered Harriett Hardesty, aged 16, committed to the Indiana school for girls until she is of age. The young woman was found to be without moral sense. With her two married sisters, Mrs. Clara Golliver, and Mrs. Felbia Burkshire, were arrested last week for gross immoralities. The two married sisters are now serving jail sentences. The testimony relating to the three women has shown them to be inconceivably depraved. Susie Calhoun, the 16-year-old miss who was taken from a street car last Monday night after she had been the passenger-guest of an admiring conductor, was also in juvenile court. She will be detained here until Judge Eggeman can hear from her father at Anderson, and will probably be sent there to be given into the custody of the Madison county juvenile court. Jack Lewis, the street car conductor, was brought before Judge Eggeman and solemnly warned to keep away from the girl. He is said to have been trying to get her out of town.

EXPERT TO ADDRESS REAL ESTATE MEN

A telegram was received Saturday by Secretary Frank Hilgeman, of the Fort Wayne Real Estate exchange, from Lee J. Ninde, who is attending a meeting of real estate men in St. Louis, announcing that he had secured John Lathrop, of New York, representative of the city planning exhibition now being carried on in St. Louis, as a speaker at the next meeting of the exchange Tuesday evening at the Commercial club. Col. D. N. Foster, who witnessed the exhibition in New York, will also be one of the speakers at the meeting.

The local exchange is boosting the city planning scheme and the meeting Tuesday evening promises to be helpful to the members in the movement here.

ART SMITH STAR AT TEXAS STATE FAIR

Art Smith is dazzling Dallas, Texas, by his aerial work this week according to information received here Friday afternoon. He has a two weeks engagement at the Texas state fair, and goes from there to the west and will show again at the San Francisco exposition, remaining at the fair throughout the last month of its existence.

The young birdboy and his wife, Aimee Cour-Smith, are making the trip together, and the southerners have welcomed them with the typical hospitality of the south. The Texas newspapers are throwing a variety of contortions at each new stunt attempted by the daring Fort Wayne air king.

IS EAGER TO BE FRIENDLY

Carranza Seeking Cordial Relations With All Countries.

VOICE PLEASURE AT RECOGNITION

Rumor That Diaz and Zapata Troops Menace Capital Not Credited.

Washington, Oct. 23.—General Carranza, through his representative here, Eliseo Arrendondo, addressed a note today to the United States and the other American republics which recognized his government, expressing his appreciation of their action and announcing that diplomatic representatives soon would be accredited to the various countries. Gen. Carranza declared it was the purpose of his government to establish cordial relations with all countries.

State department officials today admitted hearing a rumor from Juarez, attributed to Villa officials, that Felix Diaz and forty thousand Zapata troops were menacing Mexico City. It was said at the department that no such number of Zapata troops had ever been reported before as in the field and it was not credited. The Carranza agency received a telegram from one of its agents in New York saying he had seen Felix Diaz in New York three days ago.

Messages also were received from Mexico City by the Carranza agency stating that the Zapata forces had been disintegrated into small bands, many of them had asked Gen. Gonzales for amnesty, and that appeals have been received from the people of Morelos for more troops to combat the small guerilla bands as the Zapata troops had abandoned all pretense of organization.

FATALLY STRICKEN IN HARDWARE STORE

Antwerp, O., Oct. 23.—Arthur Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smith, of this place, aged about 29 years, succumbed to heart failure Friday evening. He was standing in the hardware store owned by his father and brother, Carl, when the death messenger claimed him. He fell to the floor with a moan and was immediately surrounded by sympathizing friends who endeavored to lend aid for his relief. Physicians were hurriedly telephoned for and Dr. Murphy arrived on the scene, shortly followed by Drs. Monts and Bratton, who gave all the medical aid possible without avail. He never rallied from the stroke. He had been ailing for some length of time, and doctors had prescribed a term of rest from active farm work, and he had but just moved here from Defiance, and expected to work in the hardware store, where he would have had but light work to do. He leaves a wife, mother and father and several sisters and one brother.

SHRINERS LEAVE ON A SPECIAL CAR

The band and patrol of Mizpah temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, accompanied by a number of other local Shriners, left at 3 o'clock this afternoon on a special interurban car, with Butler as their ultimate destination.

Brief stops are to be made for concerts and exhibition drills at Auburn and Waterloo, and at the latter town the Shriners will be met by autos and transported to Butler for similar exhibitions. The Shriners return at 11 o'clock tonight over the Wabash.

WARREN OPERATED IN COLUMBIA CITY

Identified There as One Simon P. Thompson, Found Insane.

Chief of Police Charles Lenz has received from Columbia City, in answer to inquiries, word that Charles L. Warren, the radiant groom of Beulah Yousee-Warren and now in jail here for fraudulent check operations, is identified there as one Simon P. Thompson, who rigged banks in that town six years ago after the same formula he employed here and in other cities of Indiana, Ohio and Michigan. A South Whitley man who was in the Whitley county jail with Thompson in 1909, declares he recognizes in newspaper pictures of Warren the man who was his jail mate.

Thompson Went to Insane Asylum.

Simon P. Thompson was charged in Columbia City with defrauding a bank there after he had deposited a check for $5,000 and received a certificate for the amount. The deposited paper was found to be worthless and Thompson was arrested. His case was heard in the Whitley circuit court and on March 30, 1909, he was committed to the Northern Indiana Asylum for the Insane at Longcliff, Logansport, Attorneys Gates & Whiteleather, who appeared for him, having kept him out of the penitentiary on a plea of insanity. Thompson was released from Longcliff July 2, 1909.

To Chief Lenz a confession was made by Warren that he had once been arrested in Whitley county, but claimed that nothing was done with him on the charge for which he was taken. The man Thompson was arrested after his Columbia City exploit by officers along the Nickel Plate railway tracks near Dunfee, nine miles west of Fort Wayne.

Warren is making good progress in convincing the police and the jail officials here that his stories of being a voracious dope fiend are adroit bunk with clever method in it and that he is laying the foundation of a defense on the ground of insanity or mental irresponsibility due to the use of narcotic drugs.

CREDIT LOAN FAILS TO CHECK DECLINE

Foreign Exchange is Once More on Downward Path.

New York, Oct. 23.—In the face of the $500,000,000 credit established by the Anglo-French loan and of further private credits established or being negotiated for the account of English, French, Russian and Italian bankers, foreign exchange is again on the downward path. Today demand sterling dropped a cent from yesterday's quotation to 4.63, which represents a loss of ten points from the high mark reached on the recovery of the market shortly after the Anglo-French loan commissioners reached this country. The quotation is now thirteen points above the low point reached during the sensational decline of early September. The weakness is attributed to the recent enormous exports of munitions of war, which have been responsible for a flood of bills on London and Paris within the last two weeks.

More than $25,000,000 of gold for English account has been received from Canada this week and further importations of the metal are looked for, but in these days of hundred million dollar debits such amounts, the bankers say, are scarcely drops in the bucket.

CULVER MILITARY CONFERENCE IS OFF

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 23.—Because of the advocacy of President Wilson, the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy of measures that will add to the country's preparedness the Indiana conference to be held at Culver Oct. 29 and 30 to consider national defenses, has been postponed according to the announcement of Claude Nicely, secretary of the provisional organization. The headquarters of the organization are in this city.

MOTHER'S MANSION BURNS WHILE SON IS BEING WED

Peru, Ind., Oct. 23.—Mrs. Louise Cole's handsome Fairview home three miles east of Peru, valued at $25,000, was destroyed by fire today while her son, Louis Cole, and Miss Ella McCaffrey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McCaffrey, were being married at St. Charles Catholic church by Rev. Lawrence Monahan. The Coles were not notified of the fire until after the wedding.

EXPECT 25,000 WOMEN IN LINE

New York City is Scene of Greatest Suffrage Parade Today.

FULLY 10,000 MEN ALSO IN PAGEANT

Mother and Child Division Answer to Charges Made by the Antis.

New York, Oct. 23.—Suffrage leaders were busy today mobilizing thousands of women and several thousand men for the march up Fifth avenue in what the leaders say will be the greatest demonstration ever made in favor of woman suffrage. The enthusiastic leaders predicted that fully 25,000 women would be in line at 3 o'clock, the hour scheduled for the start from Washington square. In addition to the women more than 10,000 men have registered for the parade.

The chief feature of the march, aside from the numerical strength, was the mother and child division. Scores of children in baby carriages, decorated with yellow and white, or purple, white and green ribbons, were included in this division, as well as many others between the ages of eight and sixteen years.

A Formidable Answer.

The mothers believed that the large representation of children would be a formidable answer to the antis who charged that suffrage workers had neglected their children to march.

The children wore small white felt hats, identical with those worn by the women marchers.

Before starting in the main march a delegation from the Women's Political union paraded along the east side. A majority of the marchers were provided with torches, as it was thought the parade would not be completed until after dark.

Miss Albert A. Hill, as grand marshal, is to lead the parade. Miss Hill and her staff will be on horseback and will wear the convention black riding habit, black derbies and broad sashes of purple, white and green.

The "Victory" Float.

Ten women, representing "Victory," "Liberty," "Equality," "Justice" and the six continents are to ride on a "Victory" float in the maid body of the parade. Delegations from the various suffrage organizations of the state will be in line. Other divisions will represent the states where women now have the franchise, countries having equal suffrage, professional women and business women, colleges, teachers, nurses, actresses, artists and various nationalities.

POLICE ARE SEEKING WOMAN, "SIZE FORTY"

Indianapolis, Oct. 23.—Burglars forced a side door of the Hargrove suit and cloak house, of this city, some time during the night, and took furs, cloaks and suits valued at approximately $2,000. The estimate was made today by C. M. Hargrove, son of W. V. Hargrove, proprietor of the store. A woman "size forty" is being sought by the police in connection with the robbery. A woman who tried on numerous size forty suits and cloaks and showed a preference for the highest priced furs in the establishment paid a long visit to the store less than a week ago.

The suits and cloaks were taken from the size 40 case.

HASTEN OUT TO SEE WILSON AND FIANCEE

Washington, Oct. 23.—President Wilson went for a long automobile ride today accompanied by Mrs. Galt, his fiancee, and Miss Margaret Wilson, his daughter. The president went to Emmittsburg, Md., seventy-five miles from Washington, and took lunch with a brother-in-law of Mrs. Galts. People along the country roads hurried out to catch a glimpse of the president and Mrs. Galt.

ITALIAN STEAMSHIP SUNK BY AUSTRIAN SUBMARINE

Paris, Oct. 22.—The Temps publishes a dispatch from Geneva, giving an Athens report that an Austrian submarine has sunk an Italian steamship. The name of the vessel is not given.

Check Swindler Coffey Continues Sham to Last

A. P. Coffey, a check swindler arrested by Sheriff A. C. Gladieux several weeks ago after Coffey had executed a check swindling operation in New Haven, and who since his apprehension has feigned a highly ornate brand of insanity, was arraigned in the circuit court Saturday and received a sentence of one to five years in the penitentiary at Michigan City.

When brought into court and arraigned Coffey continued his refusal to talk that he had persisted in since his arrest, but on a slip of paper wrote that he wished to change his plea from not guilty to guilty. When presented for sentence he indicted another chirographic message to the judge, and then the blow fell.

Up to the day of his arrest Coffey had been talking voluminously around New Haven. He gives his age as 30, his residence as Indianapolis and his occupation as a salesman. He victimized the New Haven bank with a worthless check for $5.

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR CROSS, SICK FEVERISH CHILD

If little stomach is sour, liver torpid or bowels clogged.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it can not cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoe, stomach-ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Advertisement.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

DREAM TRUE BEFORE HE DREAMED IT

Adams County Farmer Has Vision of Loss of Papers By Fire—Wife Had Already Burned Them.

Decatur, Ind., Oct. 23.—Through an oversight and because she had been told by the husband that a bundle of papers, lying on a table where he had been going over his notes and bank certificates, were worthless, Mrs. Adam Pease, wife of one of the best known retired farmers of Wells county, cast into the fire notes and mortgages of the value of between six and seven thousand dollars, a few days ago, and all were burned to ashes.

Mr. Pease had been going over the papers sorting them out and after doing this had put some of them away, however, leaving a bundle on the table. Soon afterwards Mrs. Pease was cleaning up about the house and when she saw the papers asked the husband if they were of any value and being told that they were not, she threw them into the fire.

Nothing more was thought about the matter for several days, Mr. Pease thinking that his securities were safe, rested in perfect ease, but recently he dreamed about his notes being burned and in a few nights the dream was repeated. This weighed upon his mind to the extent that he made an investigation of his papers, when he found they were gone, and then the incident of burning the bundle of papers came back to his mind and he knew what had become of them. As nearly as it could be done an inventory of the last notes was made and today a son-in-law, C. M. Andrews, is traveling over the country in an effort to get matters straightened out again.

Many of the notes are secured by mortgage, and there is no difficulty in getting a line on these, but others are not and are the source of more difficulty. So far little difficulty has been experienced and in every instance where the parties have been located the promise of new notes was secured.

For years Mr. Pease resided in Adams county, until he retired from farming and moved to Craigville.

MONROE TOWNSHIP PIONEER DIES.

Monroe, Ind., Oct. 23.—Funeral services were held in the M. E. church here this morning over the remains of Mrs. Malinda Martin, wife of David Martin. She was one of the pioneer residents of Monroe township. She was born in Champaign county, Ohio, March 4th, 1833, and came with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Clem, to this vicinity when quite young. On January 1st, 1853, she was united in marriage to David Martin, at her parents' home in Monroe township, a few miles east of Monroeville. Surviving her are husband and the following children: Burt and David Martin, Jr., of this vicinity; William Martin, of Jackson township; Joseph and Alvin Martin, Mrs. Floretta Bowers and Mrs. Nannie Stuck, of Fort Wayne; Samuel Martin, of Spokane, Washington, and Mary Ellen Stephenson, of Michigan.

FARMER HAS DELUSIONS.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 23.—James K. Beaty, aged about 65, a prominent farmer of Jefferson township, living east of Ossian, was taken into custody shortly after noon today by Sheriff J. A. Johnston and Deputy Sheriff George Albright and was brought to the Bluffton jail, pending further developments in the case. The relatives of Mr. Beaty have reported that his talk and actions recently have indicated that he is demented. Mr. Beaty imagines during his attacks of dementia that he is the victim of intrigues, and his delusions have led him to make threats, it is reported, against members of his own family. It it said he also imagines there were trespassers on his place last night and that on occasions he has grabbed a gun to give pursuit to imaginary prowlers, even going so far as to discharge the weapon.

GETS ANOTHER WAR ORDER.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 23.—The Columbia Woolen mill was much flattered Friday morning when the request came to them from New York, from the agents of the French government, asking them to make all the cloth they could make for them till Nov. 1st, and the mill immediately accepted 4,000 yards more. This is a green-grey cloth, very heavy, and will be used in making overcoats. The additional order will amount to over $5,000 and the men in charge of the mill think that they can turn it out in a week. The shipments of cloth from the mill have averaged over $1,000 per day every day this month with the exception of Sundays. The mill will soon complete an order for 10,000 yards for the French government.

PIONEER OF LAGRANGE DIES.

Lagrange, Ind., Oct. 23.—William S. Olney, aged 81 years, who has been very poorly all summer passed away at his home in VanBuren township. He was born on the farm where he died, September 16, 1834, and has spent his entire life there. His parents located in VanBuren township in 1830. He has been one of the prominent and well-to-do citizens of that part of the county, owning over 400 acres of land. He is survived by his aged wife, to whom he was married June 10, 1858, one son, Edward A. Olney, and one grandchild. Funeral services will be conducted at the M. E. church in Scott this afternoon.

SAVES LIFE OF BLIND COLT.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 23.—A blind colt recently purchased by George Hardesty, was saved from a watery grave Friday by Earl Wornock. Mr. Wornock is being highly complimented for his rescue but he modestly seeks to disparage his heroism. The colt was pastured on Paxson's island and in some way got into the river and made its way down stream until it fell into the quarry, just west of the interurban bridge. It was swimming around in a circle when Mr. Wornock discovered it and whistled to it. The colt swam to him and was easily led out on the bank.

GOVERNOR TO VISIT HUNTINGTON.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 23.—Assurances have been given the Rev. Elmer Ward Cole, pastor of the Central Christian church, by Governor S. M. Ralston, that he will appear at a banquet to be given by the members of the Huntington Commercial club, some time during the first two weeks in November. The Rev. Cole, who, with I. B. Potts, had been appointed a special committee to obtain speakers for the banquet, went to Indianapolis with the express purpose of obtaining the chief executive's consent to feature the event here.

MONTPELIER MAN TO TAKE BRIDE.

Montpelier, Ind., Oct. 23.—An announcement has been made of the coming marriage of Miss Anna Reel, of Gas City, to Harry Krepts, of this city. The announcement will come as a surprise to the many friends of the young couple. Miss Reel has been visiting at the home of Fred Coons of this city and while not generally known here, she has made friends of all who have come in contact with her. The young man is well known in this city. He is the son of William Krepts, and has a wide circle of friends in the city.

PAYS FINE FOR BITING SON.

Van Wert, Ohio, Oct. 23.—In the hearing of the case against James Oddo, charged with whipping and biting his eight-year-old child, Joe, in mayor's court, the defendant was found guilty and was fined $10 and costs. Oddo was arrested on the testimony of several witnesses who complained of his cruelty to the boy. In his defense Oddo stated that he did not know he was acting contrary to the law and was merely following customs of punishment in Italy, his former home.

HAS THE CHAMP PEAR TREE.

Kendallville, Ind., Oct. 23.—C. S. Wert of this city, claims to have the champion winter pear tree of this section. He completed picking the fruit from the tree Thursday and had an even fourteen bushels. The tree is not very large but each limb was loaded very heavily. Last year the tree had five bushels. Another tree on Mr. Wert's lawn this year had about five bushels, so that he is well supplied with this luscious winter fruit.

PIONEER OF BRIMFIELD DIES.

Kendallville, Ind., Oct. 23.—Reuben Monroe, age about 62 years, a resident of Brimfield almost half a century, died at his home there of cancer of the stomach. Death followed a lingering illness. OFFICER IMPERSONATED.

Seeks Quinine Over Long Distance Phone, Saying He Is H. E. Barnard.

Columbus, Ind., Oct. 23.—During the recent effort said to have been made to corner the Indiana quinine market, some one impersonated H. E. Barnard, state food and drug commissioner, in an effort to buy up a supply of quinine here. A long distance telephone message came from Indianapolis to Theodore E. Otto, local pharmacist and formerly a member of the state board of pharmacy. The speaker represented himself as being Mr. Barnard. He wished to know how much quinine Mr. Otto could let him have. The local druggist knew how much quinine Mr. Otto could let him have. The local druggist knew there had been a rapid advance in price, so he told the man he could have only a little of the drug.

"So you're next, are you?" asked the voice at the other end of the wire.

Mr. Otto investigated, and found Mr. Barnard had not been talking to him at all.

How To Get Rid of a Bad Cough

A Home-Made Remedy that Will Do It Quickly. Cheap and Easily Made

If you have a bad cough or chest cold which refuses to yield to ordinary remedies, get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking a teaspoonful every hour or two. In 24 hours your cough will be conquered or very nearly so. Even whooping cough is greatly relieved in this way.

The above mixture makes a full pint—a family supply—of the finest cough syrup that money could buy—at a cost of only 54 cents. Easily prepared in 5 minutes. Full directions with Pinex.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup preparation takes right hold of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough in a way that is really remarkable. Also quickly heals the inflamed membranes which accompany a painful cough, and stops the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes, thus ending the persistent loose cough. Excellent for bronchitis, spasmodic croup and winter coughs. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children like it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, which is so healing to the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex,"—do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

ALL OVER BUT THE VOTE, SAYS DETROIT

City Certain to Have Municipal Street Cars by January 1.

By Dean Halliday.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 23.—It is all over but a final voting on Tuesday, Nov. 2 when Detroit will proceed to get busy and buy and then operate its present corporation-owned street railway system.

Already Detroit has voted for municipal ownership—they have been fighting for it 20 years—but Nov. 2 the citizens must vote on the plan by which the city can buy the Detroit United Railways system.

By Jan. 1, 1916, the city expects to have possession of the car lines, for there is little doubt but what the people will vote "yes" on the plan to purchase the system.

Under this plan judges of the circuit court will fix the price the city must pay. This is not expected to exceed $20,000,000.

Detroit's street railway commission—composed of three men, James Couzens, vice president of the Ford Motor Car company, John F. Dodge of the Dodge Motor Car company, and James Wilkie of the Parke-Davis Chemical company—is confident that under this plan the entire property can be paid from earnings, and the only city bonds that will ever need to be issued will be a portion of the million dollars that falls due in 1916.

Detroit wants real street car service—that is the vital issue. Since 1900 the street railway people growing fat from their profits, have refused to spend money for trackage that was adequate to the needs of the fast growing city.

From 1904 to 1913 revenue passengers carried on Detroit's railway system increased 180 per cent., from 78,349,220 to 219,606,056.

In the same period the company increased its trackage from 180 to 206 miles, approximately only 14 per cent.

The result of this failure to keep pace with the growth in population and traffic is that Detroit today has a traffic density of 1,062,000 revenue passengers per mile of track.

One gains a better idea of just what conditions are in Detroit, when one learns that the traffic density of this city today is only exceeded by Greater New York, which had a traffic density in 1914 of approximatel 1,190,000 per mile of track.

Those are the conditions that Detroit faces, and et as a result of a traffic survey the city has shown that $400,000 spent in re-routing downtown lines would increase the capacity of these lines 40 per cent.

In 1913 the city forced the company to a general 7-for-25-cent fare, with universal transfers. Eight for a quarter tickets are sold during the day on about 60 miles of lines and on all lines for an hour in the morning and evening.

So it is not a fight for cheap transportation as much as it is for service.

Terms of Proposition.

The terms of the proposition—to be voted on Nov. 2—by which the city of Detroit proposes to buy the street car system from the Detroit United Railways company, are briefly, as follows:

1. The city to buy the lines at a price to be fixed by judges of the Wayne county circuit court.

2. Within 60 days after approval of contract by the people the city to start suit for specific performance of the contract.

3. Within 30 days after this suit is started the company to deliver possession of the entire railway property within the one-fare zone.

4. Hearings to fix the price not to begin until city is in possession of the railway, the city to take all profits from the lines, pending fixing of price.

5. The city not to be personally obligated for a sum in excess of two per cent. of the assessed valuation, or $11,000,000. The remainder to be secured by the lines and their earnings.

6. The city is required to pay $1,000,000 on the purchase price in 1916. The balance will not fall due until 1932.

7. Pending fixing the price the city is required to set aside from earnings, in a sinking fund, $300,000 per year.

The price is not expected to exceed $20,000,000. The city expects to be in possession of the car lines by Jan. 1, 1916.

INVESTIGATES STAMP THEFT.

Secret Service Agent and Internal Revenue Officers at Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 23.—Captain Thomas E. Halls, of Indianapolis, secret service agent, is here investigating the theft of $14,601.06 worth of war emergency stamps from the internal revenue collector's office Monday night. The police believe the robbers escaped from the city in an automobile. A hot tamale dealer told the police he saw three men enter the federal building her about midnight Sunday. The officers here believe the stolen revenue stamps may be found easily. Herb Williams, a deputy in the revenue office, remained in the office Monday night and Tuesday night to guard $60,000 worth of stamps. There is no place to keep the stamps since the safe was cracked Sunday night.

DEER WITH GLASS EYE.

Hunter Kills Buck With Earmarks of Civilization.

Salinas, Cal., Oct. 23.—Abalardo Cooper, of Salinas, while hunting in the fastness of the San Lucia range, killed a four-point buck that had a glorious green glass eye in one of its sockets.

Besides, the ears had been swallow-tailed, a common practice in marking the ears of cattle, and its tail had been cut off in some manner so that only a stub an inch long stuck out.

It is thought possibly the deer was a pet of one of the ranches down in the Salinas valley, and when the "running" season started the deer answered the call of its mates and started for the wilds.

GOES TO PRISON FOR ASSAULTING A WOMAN

Elmer A. Jackson to Spend Two to Fourteen Years in Penitentiary.

Elmer C. Jackson, aged 35 years, pleaded guilty in the circuit court Saturday morning to assault and battery with intent to commit criminal assault and was sentenced to serve two to fourteen years in the state prison at Michigan City. The crime was committed near Sprankle station, on the Southwestern Interurban line, five miles southwest of the city. Jackson has been married, but is separated from his wife. He is believed to be a thorough degenerate.

Wife is Making Him Trouble.

In a complaint for divorce filed in the superior court by Hattie M. Driver against William Driver, the plaintiff among other things charges that her husband procured her signature to a deed transferring title to fifty-seven acres of land in Maumee township to his father for the purpose of contesting a suit to forclose a mortgage for $3,500 that is on the property. She says he has not delivered the deed and does not intend to, but she wants a restraining order to prevent him from doing so and from disposing of certain chattels on the farm. The wife charges that her husband is a habitual drunkard and unfit to have charge of five minor children of whom she asks custody. She also wants suitable alimony. Colerick & Hogan are attorneys.

Says Wife Heckles Him.

Martin D. Wright complains in the superior court of Verla Wright, and wants a divorce on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. He says that since their marriage in 1910 she has constantly nagged him, has refused to cook his meals and wash and mend his clothes and gets angry without cause because of her ungovernable temper. They separated last month and have no children. Emrick & Emrick appear for the plaintiff.

Notes of the Courts.

Jessie Tegtmeyer has brought suit in the superior court against Benjamin B. and Lillian A. Shaw to collect a note for $575. R. B. Dreibelbiss is attorney for the plaintiff.

Edwin S. Kleindinst has brought suit in the superior court against E. M. Smith, Guy Rager and the Automatic Baseball company to recover $500 alleged to be as rental for the building at 1232 Calhoun street. An attachment for the property of the defendants was issued. Hugh M. Olds appears for the plaintiff.

Clarence Schonell and Amelia Schonell have brought suit in the circuit court against Sarah Elizabeth Miner and others to quiet title to real estate. Barrett, Morris & Hoffman are attorneys for the plaintiff.

In the superior court the suit of A. L. Randall vs. J. Frank Dinnen has been dismissed.

Judge Yaple in the superior court has continued for thirty days the contempt proceedings against James Crowel for failure to make payments ordered for his divorced wife, Ollie Crowel.

The superior court has granted Inez Ransom a divorce from Andrew Ransom and a similar decree to Morgan Fortney from Ethel Fortney.

The superior court has given judgment for $2,177 to Jesse Orin Longsworth against Ralph W. Cramer, Eugene Pauley, Effie Cramer and the Freiburger Hardware company were given smaller judgments against the same defendant on intervening claims for which liens were taken and Effie Cramer was held to be the owner of one-third the property involved. Mortgages were foreclosed against all the defendants in the suit and the property was ordered sold.

The circuit court has given judgment for $275.30 to the plaintiff in the suit of the Woodburn Lumber company vs. Clinton Gustin on a note.

BOYS AT DETENTION HOME MAKE A BREAK

While Superintendent Charles A. Singrey, of the juvenile detention home on the new county farm, eight miles north of Fort Wayne, was in the city attending juvenile court, Saturday, five of his young male wards decided the time auspicious for a general delivery and ran away. Mrs. Singrey, the matron, learned of the break for liberty and by telephone notified Superintendent Singrey and he with Deputy Sheriffs Ed Courdevey and D. Mills started by automobile in pursuit. The boys were found about four miles northeast of the city. When they saw the car approaching they recognized Superintendent Singrey and all jumped the fence and started across the fields. Several shots into the air from Deputy Courdevey's revolver brought the boys to a standstill and all were brought into the juvenile court Saturday afternoon to face Judge Eggeman. The lads who ran away were Lester Snyder, 11; Willard Snelling, 13; Thomas Martin, 10; Gerald Martin, 11; Leo Schnitz, 13. Judge Eggeman ordered Snyder and Snelling committed to the boys' school at Plainfield.

BIG WORDS WERE BUGABOO.

Indianapolis, Oct. 21.—The difficulties which Harold Morris, aged thirteen, experienced in the study of orthography prompted him to run away from his home in Frankfort, Ind., Sunday afternoon. He was found in this city yesterday at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Lottie Butler, 136 North Belmont avenue.

"My teacher kept me after school and made me write two words seventy-five times because I couldn't spell them," the boy told the police, who had been asked to assist in the search for him. "I'd rather visit Aunt Lottie than go to school and spell all them big words," he continued.

Otto Morris, the boy's father, came to Indianapolis last night and took him home. There is no definite information concerning subsequent happenings.

LOS ANGELES GETS IT.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 23.—Los Angeles was chosen as the place of meeting of the national council of Congregational churches in 1917, after a contest between delegations from Illinois and California, which kept the council in a gale of laughter by reason of the repartee of those who were explaining the allurements of Chicago and Los Angeles, respectively, until the vote was ordered.

MISS CAVELL DIED LIKE TRUE HEROINE

English Nurse, Executed by Germans, Went to Her Death Bravely.

London, Oct. 23.—The British foreign office made public the report of Rev. H. S. T. Gahan, the British chaplain in Brussels, who visited Miss Edith Cavell just before her execution, and a letter from Brand Whitlock, the American minister to Belgium, to Walter Page, the American ambassador in London.

In his letter Mr. Whitlock says he requested that the body of Miss Cavell be delivered to the school for nurses, of which she was the directress, his request being referred to the ministry of war in Berlin.

Found Prisoner Calm.

The Rev. Mr. Gahan in his report said:

"Her first words to me were upon a matter concerning herself personally. She then added that she wished all her friends to know that she willingly gave her life for her country, and said:

"'I have no fear nor shrinking. I have seen death so often that it is not strange or fearful to me.'

"She further said: "'I thank God for this ten weeks of quiet before the end. My life has always been hurried and full of difficulties; this time the rest has been a great mercy. They have all been very kind to me here. But this I would say, standing as I do in view of God and eternity: I realize that patriotism is not enough. I must have no hatred or bitterness towards any one.'

"A German military chaplain was with her at the end and afterward gave her a christian burial. He told me:

"'She was brave and bright to the last. She professed her christian faith and said she was glad to die for her country. She died like a heroine.'"

NOTED SCULPTOR IS DEAD.

T. Waldo Story Passes Away at His Home in New York.

New York, Oct. 23.—Till Waldo Storey, the sculptor, died at his home here today. He had been seriously ill for some days, suffering from a brain clot.

The first sattue ever placed in the house of commons, the figure of Sir William Vernon Harcourt, installed there in 1906, was his work.

SHE'S ONLY 24, BUT SHE SMOKES AND WEARS TROUSERS AS SOCIETY REBEL.

Margaret Anderson.

By Honor Fanning.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 23—Trousers are merely a form of self-expression.

A cigaret is sometimes a smoke, but to Margaret Anderson, poet, musician, liberal thinker, and editor of the "magazine of revolt," the Little Review, a Philip Morris is a protest!

A combination of trousers, cigarets and liberal views is a rebellion—a revolt against social convention, and a system of false economies.

On these philosophic grounds the founder and editor of the Little Review explains Chicago's misapprehension about those awful "troudies" she's been wearing lately; about the cigaret and the "anarchistic" views credited to the former society favorite.

"Why shouldn't women wear trousers?" repeated the "society rebel." "Why shouldn't women do anything they want to do? And why should they be expected to do the things men, and other women, want them to do?

"We are all in bondage to social convention, and only by rebellion may we break those bonds. I have been in revolt since I was 8. (She's now only 24). My first revolt was against my family—against home bondage. It's the hardest of all to break, because the fetters are forged by love, and love and reason are not easily reconciled."

Although her "social revolt" began at eight, Margaret Anderson, now known the country over as a disciple of Emma Goldman, did not find her medium of "self-expression" until last November, when she founded the Little Review. She left a luxurious home in Dayton, O., to cast her lot with the social revolutionists—and incidentally she won the privilege of wearing trousers.

THREE CALIFORNIA GIRLS BROUGHT GOLD FOR MRS. GALT'S WEDDING RING.

C. G. V. BUCK

Three California girls and their chaperon, who came all the way from the Pacific coast to Washington with the precious yellow gold in its raw state, with the suggestion, happily accepted, that it be used in making the wedding ring for Mrs. Galt, bride-to-be of President Wilson. From left to right they are Mrs. Gaillard Stoney (chaperon,) Miss Dorothy Starr, Miss Altha McQueeney and Miss Esther Bull. Altha McQueeney, the youngest member, won the trip east because her invitation to President Wilson was the best composed one submitted by the girls of the grammar school grades in her city.

For Ohio: Fair tonight, slightly warmer west and south portions; Sunday fair.

For Lower Michigan: Generally fair tonight and Sunday; slightly warmer tonight.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

Low pressure overlies the extreme northeast and north Pacific region, while in the interior sections of the country the pressure is high. Except that there was rain in portions of the south Atlantic and north Pacific states, this distribution of pressure resulted in generally fair weather during the last 24 hours. The temperature is somewhat lower in the eastern portion of the lake region, New England and the south Atlantic states, but in the other portions of the country the temperature changes have been unimportant. Except in the northeast and portions of the southwest, the weather is generally warmer than the seasonal average.

MORE APPLE PICKING.

Society Girls Make Another Invasion of Farmers' Orchards.

Another invasion of apple orchards in Allen county was made Saturday by a number of Fort Wayne society girls. The automobiles were furnished through the efforts of Secretary Charles L. Biederwolf, of the Commercial club, and the pretty girls were supplied through Mrs. Mary G. Reed, chairman of the philanthropic department of the Woman's Club league.

The apples that were gathered last week have all been distributed among many needy and worthy families in Fort Wayne through the Associated Charities.

HORSE'S LEGS BROKEN.

A horse belonging to John Burch, of Milan township, frightened at an automobile Friday evening west of the city and whirling suddenly, jumped directly in front of the machine. The horse's hind legs were broken. The automobile belonged to Lloyd Hursh.

One of the novel features of the St. Peter's church fair soon to be held will be the Chinese laundry booth in charge of George J. Phillip, assisted by his three sons, dressed in Chinese costume.

Exodus 20:18-26.

18 And all the people saw the thunderings, and the lightnings, and the noise of the trumpet, and the mountain smoking: and when the people saw it, they removed, and stood afar off.

19 And they said unto Moses, Speak thou with us, and we will hear: but let not God speak with us, lest we die.

20 And Moses said unto the people, Fear not: for God is come to prove you, and that his fear may be before your faces, that ye sin not.

21 And the people stood afar off, and Moses drew near unto the thick darkness where God was.

22 And the Lord said unto Moses, Thus thou shalt say unto the children of Israel, Ye have seen that I have talked with you from heaven.

23 Ye shall not make with me gods of silver, neither shall ye make unto you gods of gold.

24 An altar of earth thou shalt make unto me, and shalt sacrifice thereon thy burnt offerings, and thy peace offerings, thy sheep, and thine oxen: in all places where I record my name I will come unto thee, and I will bless thee.

25 And if thou wilt make me an altar of stone, thou shalt not build it of hewn stone: for if thou lift up thy tool upon it, thou hast polluted it.

26 Neither shalt thou go up by steps unto mine altar, that thy nakedness be not discovered thereon.

The Reorganized Wabash.

Slowly but surely the Wabash railroad system is emerging from its latest cloud of financial difficulty, and under a new Indiana charter as the Wabash Railway company it will seek a fresh, and, it is to be hoped, more promising start toward financial rejuvenation. Headed by Edward F. Kearney, who was president of the old company and later one of the co-receivers of the system, the reorganization has taken on new promise and without the handicap of some of the conditions that have long been a millstone about the neck of the Wabash.

The Wabash crosses Indiana in running from Toledo to St. Louis, and from Chicago to Toledo. It also has a line from New Haven, through Detroit to Buffalo, and a short branch from Attica to Covington. It also has lines running from Chicago to St. Louis, St. Louis to Kansas City and other lines, including a line into Pittsburg, making it one of the important trunk line railroads of the central states. Despite the extent of its mileage and the rich and important territory which it traverses, the road has had a stormy financial career for many years, and it has been in the hands of receivers so often that it is doubtful if even the stockholders themselves have memories sufficiently exact to enumerate its vicissitudes in this direction. It has been hampered not so much by lessened earnings or lowered net profits as by the internal clashings and bickerings of the varied interests which have at one time and another managed to get a clutch upon its neck and used the organization as the football of their financial fights. What the Wabash has lacked most has been team work of the interests which controlled it. This has constituted its greatest misfortune.

Yet in the face of long years of these calamitous conditions, the Wabash has managed to remain a big figure in American railroading, and to preserve its entity instead of being dismembered or swallowed up by some of the other systems which must have regarded it with envious eye. It is so important an institution to the territory through which it passes that there will be hope of future smooth sailing for the Wabash. Such a condition might for one thing make the securing of track elevation and similar improvements in Fort Wayne a less laborious and less protracted task than we have experienced in the past.

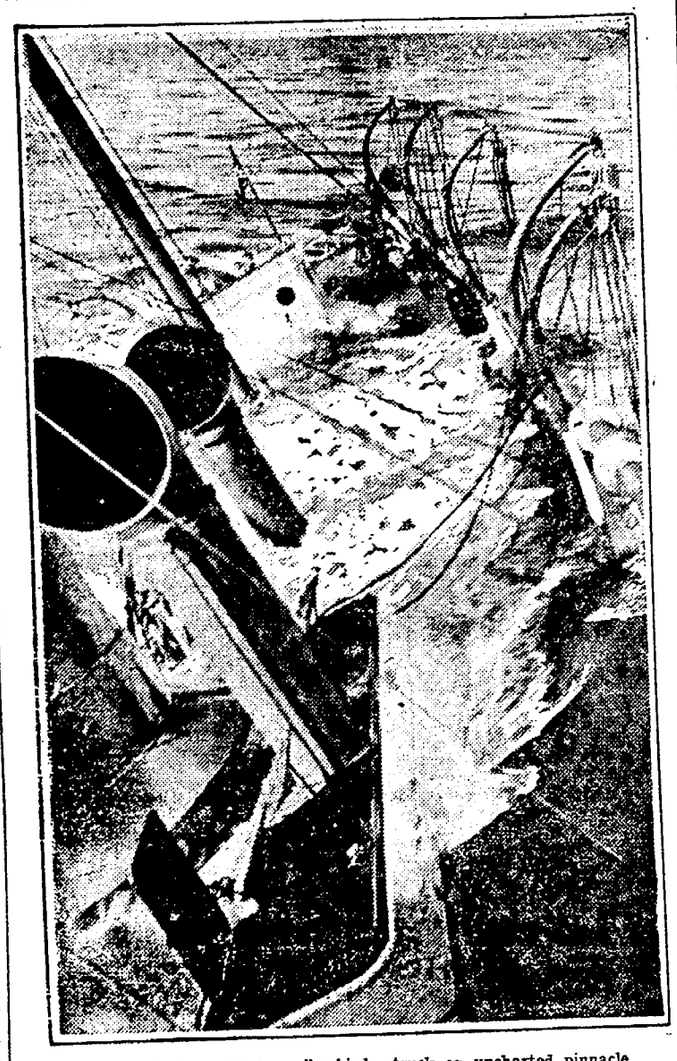
It is estimated that ten thousand Fort Wayne people embraced the opportunity to inspect the new Harmar school at the formal opening of that institution Friday. Not only did they see a thoroughly modern and magnificently equipped structure for educational purposes, but it was their privilege to see the pupils in the vocational departments at practical work which engages them from day to day in fitting them for the battle of life that is before them. It is a most happy state of affairs when mere pride in our educational institutions is supplemented by positive personal interest and a more closely-developed relationship between the parents and the schools in which their children are being trained. We believe it will be cheerfully agreed by the ten thousand people in attendance at the Harmar school opening that the visit was one well worth while.

Further illustration of the manner in which the new compensation act is working in Indiana is shown by the fact that the state industrial board has awarded $1,834 to Mrs. Mary Lichliter, of Randolph county, for the accidental death of her husband, John Lichliter, whose neck was broken in a fall from a gravel wagon September 14. The board also approved a settlement in the case of Charles Garriott, driver of a motor truck for Alonzo Ferguson, of South Bend. Garriott lost an arm and leg and he will receive $9.09 per week for 175 weeks. James McWhorter, of Seymour, will receive $5.50 a week for 150 weeks for the loss of a hand, severed by machinery.

Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, in the course of an address at Cleveland, amazed his hearers by taking the position that business needs more publicity. He condemned the practice of secrecy, and asserted the belief that the ...ing of the public into complete confidence and the establishing ...ser and franker relations between business and the people ... bring about an infinitely better state of affairs, removing ... of the disposition to assail business because of practices which ... been under suspicion. The general public and private individuals, said Judge Gary, have been in the past too far apart for the good of both.

Adjutnt General Frank L. Bridges, in his forthcoming report, will state that the Indiana national guard is now larger in membership and higher in efficiency than at any previous time in the history of the state militia, and he submits some rather convincing facts and figures to sustain his contention. This is the one effective way in which the adjutant general can "get back at" his foes who were declaring but a few months ago that the Indiana national guard had lapsed into little less than a monumental ruin and a military joke.

ALASKA WANTS MORE LIGHT; DARK COAST DANGEROUS TO GROWING COMMERCE.



The wreck of the "Tahoma," which struck an uncharted pinnacle.

Washington, Oct. 21.—The government faces the job of throwing more light on Alaskan waters. Chains of lighthouses must be built along the 26,000 miles of Alaska's coast to make navigation safer or the fullest development of our "far north" territory will never be realized.

On Sept. 20, 1914, the United States revenue cutter "Tahoma" struck an uncharted pinnacle rock of Agattu island in the western Aleutians, and went down. During the summer season last year two other vessels, the "Paramota" and the "Gayhead," struck submerged pinnacles and were wrecked. Others escaped almost by a miracle, some "scraping" or "touching" pinnacle rocks. The three ships that went down in 1914 were worth in the neighborhood of $500,000.

In recent years there have been lost more than 500 lives and property valued at more than $8,000,000 because of the lack of lighthouses and the fact that much of the coast is absolutely uncharted. Many wrecks strew the coast, landmarks of the failure to safeguard Alaskan waters.

With three exceptions there are no lighthouses at all from Icy strait, in southeastern Alaska, north to Nome, a distance of nearly 3,000 miles. Hinchbrook island at the entrance to Prince William sound has a lighthouse, and there are two at Unimak Pass, where vessels pass north through the Aleutian chain, but these are all in that stretch of coast.

The summer of 1916 will probably see the beginning of the shipment of coal from Alaska to the Pacific coast. The construction of the new $20,000,000 government railroad into the heart of the rich central valleys of Alaska will mean eventually an enormous development of commerce between the territory and the states. And Alaska's gateways are all coast terminals. Steamship lines will multiply between the Pacific coast ports and the ports of Alaska. It is time to face the pressing question which will arise because of these facts. To insure her development Alaska must have her waters safeguarded; they are the gateway to her vast riches.

NATIONAL DEFENSE AND "PORK."

(Indianapolis News).

Without condemning in the least the desire to better national preparedness it may be well to suggest that it is just as possible to find "pork" in national defense as it is in river and harbor appropriations, pension funds, Indian, water power, irrigation, reclamation or public land bills. It is no exaggeration to say that the people are very much in earnest, that they are willing to do what is necessary and that they really desire to strengthen the army and the navy and increase the coast defenses. Certain cities are beginning to point out the advantages of a fort here, a training camp or academy there, a munitions plant over the way, a new—or larger—navy yard at such-and-such a port.

A St. Louis paper recently explained that a munitions plant—several of them, perhaps—should be constructed in the interior. By the process of deduction it is found that the Mississippi valley is the region most adaptable, and of all the cities in the valley it is argued that St. Louis is the logical and necessary site for such an establishment. Similar hopes have been expressed in Chicago and elsewhere. Each offers some argument, such as central location, transportation, population and the like. St. Louis is proud of Jefferson barracks, and there was a time when this station was of much importance. During the civil war the city was a concentration point and from it many of the campaigns in the west started. All this glory of history, however, has nothing to do with the building of a munitions plant on the Mississippi river.

Indianapolis can not very well refer to the ambitious projects afloat elsewhere without frankly admitting its own. Only the other day Senator Kern was quoted as proposing the establishment of a permanent training school for officers in or near Indianapolis. Such a school was to be second only to West Point, so that the officers graduated would increase the number of trained reserves. We do not imagine that this proposal will please other cities with similar forts or government establishments. No one knows exactly how the term "pork" originated, but everyone understands what it means. It means the extravagant or corrupt padding of appropriations. It is a natural weakness, perhaps, and there are indications that it will appear before long in the movement for preparedness.

JUST MANNERS.

(Milwaukee Journal).

"Manners," someone says, "are the minor morals." Say rather they are the outside symptoms of good morals. For good manners rise from consideration for others; they are the testimony to our recognition of the principle that no man liveth to himself.

So little a thing as not interrupting another person is our acceptance of everyone's right to that same privilege we challenge for ourselves of being heard. A green youth overcome by his own sapience, making himself heard loudly and listening little, is set down not merely as deficient in training and etiquette, but as lacking in common sense. And anyone "whom the music of his own vain tongue doth ravish like enchanting harmony" exhibits a rarely poor judgment of the relative importance of things. Mayhap it doesn't seem closely allied to morality that a man rises when a lady enters the room, but it is. Among savages they don't do that sort of thing; force alone compels respect. The homage of civilized man to other qualities is the reflection of his truer sense of values.

The other day we saw a young girl 17 or 18, perhaps, listening quietly and attentively while her father told a story she had heard often. One sees so much of inattention and smirking deprecation of father's or mother's hobbies that it was a pleasant thing. We credit that little lady with far more than mere good training, with the right kind of heart. For truly good manners mean more than technique; they bespeak the true man—and the true woman, too.

WAYNE MORTGAGE LOAN CO.,

LINCOLN LIFE BUILDING.

A Word From Labor.

By P. H. Doty.

In recent years many of the silly and ungrounded prejudices against labor organizations have disappeared and those who entertained them, have in many instances, become enthusiastic supporters and advocates of the principles of modern unionism. It has been learned that instead of labor unions being fomentors of anarchy and lawlessness, they are in fact, among the strongest safeguards of law, order and morality. We need but take but a very few of the recent years for our restrospect to prove what the "organizations" have done for the railroad man in these particulars as well as for the stockholders, and what is true in this field is applicable in many others. Instead of being composed of reckless, dissolute and immoral persons, such characters are barred from membership in all labor organizations; and if an occasional exception to this rule is found, it is no more of a reflection upon the labor world than a defaulting teller on the banking system or a bribe-taking official upon popular government, or a carnal-minded minister of the gospel upon the christian religion. The more respectable persons employed in every handicraft are found among the members of the union of their craft and the higher the standard of intelligence becomes among such craftsmen, the higher becomes the safety of all institutions which are established for the public good, and the greater will be the security of the government of which they are in part auxiliaries. But if through public indifference or lethargy, laws are enacted that are detrimental to the people's welfare, the labor unions are the first to make the discovery and the last to let go their grasp for the repeal of such laws. Lust for private gain is the chief source of all such vicious penury-breeding legislation and it is the oppostion to this lust that has led to the establishment of craft organizations. The labor unions seek a better distribution of the wealth of the world among those whose labor creates it, and as the unions are multiplied, poverty is diminished and crime, which poverty propagates, is correspondingly decreased. When a man can earn a living by honest labor he is not apt to beg or steal, and the easier it is for him to find such employment the more certain is he to be engaged at it. Labor unions are doing more than any other agency to close up the avenues which lead to crime. As labor creates all wealth, it is but just that a more equitable distribution of it should be made, a condition aimed at by all organized bodies of wage earners.

Labor unions stand for high wages and improved conditions of life, physically, mentally, morally, and socially. The skilled mechanic who receives high wages and spends his earnings to maintain a well regulated home, assists and encourages every branch of legitimate business enterprise. He spends his surplus earnings for books that will instruct the members of his household, and for pictures and furniture and many luxuries that bring happiness and cheer to all that possess them. He patronizes the merchant and other tradesmen in proportion to his income, and his children are constant attendants at institutions of learning. He constitutes a potent factor for the well-being of humanity in general. He is a respected citizen, a credit and a benefit to his neighborhood and country. Being upright and honest he is indeed the noblest work of God.

But how about the other fellow, the man who is under-paid and half the time idle? The man who has not enough spirit to demand a legitimate compensation for the labor he performs, who lives more upon charity than the wages he receives? He is about as useful to society and about as much thought of as a strange dog that picks up his living from garbage cans down along the alleys and is kept busy dodging stones and clubs thrown by street loafers who enjoy about the same degree of home comforts as the object of their attack.

He is miserable himself, and tends strongly to make all others miserable who come in contact with him. Is the principle of organized effort right and legitiate? The progress of a nation is measured by the progress of its individual laborers, and each individual laborer's progress depends upon the development of labor unions.

Only a few years ago, when the labor unions took up the question of and brought about the shorter work day, we saw the dawning of a new era of inventions, and this came about because wage earners found opportunity during their increased hours of leisure to develop their latent inventive genius, thus adding to their own capabilities, increasing the commercial output of their employers and above all promoting the happiness of the world, and yet such men are alluded to as outlaws and anarchists by narrow-minded individuals because they are members of some labor union and that union is making a stand for justice.

I have already said that the persons of greatest intelligence employed in every handicraft are found among the members of the union of their craft. I wish to make the application broader by saying that the persons of greatest intelligence employed in every vocation in life have established unions for their mutual benefit, and although some of these unions are known by names that are less repulsive to the minds of the capitalistic class, which takes delight in robbing the laborer of his leigtimate earnings, they are unions nevertheless. The medical student passes his examination, pays his fee, gets his diploma, and is then permitted to practice his profession, and, furthermore, is protected by state and national law. He belongs to the "union." If he breaks any of the laws or rules he is known by his fellow craftsmen as a "quack," which is synonymous in the parlance of his profession with the word "scab" in the language of labor unionism. The lawyer is admitted to the bar, which is his union, and if he fails to gain admission he is not permitted to practice law in the courts of the country. The ministers of the gospel have their conferences. The merchants and bankers have their unions which are softened to suit the effect of the ear by calling them associations. The mining and manufacturing unions are called "Trusts." If a manufacturer refuses to be coerced into joining the particular trust which has assumed dictatorial power over his particular line of production, his inalienable rights as a citizen of this "great country," to be an independent manufacturer is knocked into a cocked hat by the manufacturers' union and in the end his business is either absorbed by the trust or sold by the sheriff.

The difference between a trust union and a labor union is that the former aims to concentrate the wealth of the country into the hands of the few by destroying competition in the various lines of industry, and by securing a monopoly of the market and curtailing the supply, so as to be able to fix absolutely, not only the price of the raw material and finished product, but everything that enters into the cost of the finished product, including rent, fuel, light, wages, etc., making the masses of the people absolutely dependent upon the trust and practically its slaves. The labor union aims to have an equitable distribution of the wealth which labor creates by giving a large portion to the laborers themselves, thus benefiting not only the millions of laborers but the hundreds of thousands of people who have their money invested in various enterprises which depend entirely upon the prosperity of the wage earning classes.

Were it not for labor unions the wealth of the country would be so rapidly concentrated that many now living would see conditions in America akin to those which have immediately preceded and hastened industrial and economic upheavels in the past history of the world that are too horrible even to contemplate.

Says World Peace Will Not Come

To the Editor: While the world is reeling at the spectacle of civilization going to pieces under the blow of a cataclysmic struggle, and while "the progress of maukind" is taking us toward destruction at an appalling rate, there are some religious leaders and statesmen who persist in talking world peace and predict the beginning of the millennium at the close of this war. This Utopian's dream will never be realized. Lasting, universal peace will never come between the nations of this world.

The word "millennium" signifies a thousand years, without any reference whatever to the character of the period, whether good or bad. It means simply and only a thousand years. In six verses in Rev. 20, this expression, "a thousand years" is used. It is a period in which Christ will reign with the just of all ages after they have been raised from the dead at the first resurrection.

Destruction, not conversion, awaits the world at the very time when many popular religious teachers cherish the delusive hope of the good time coming. They see no danger, and brand as fanatical alarmists those who obey the prophetic injunction, "Blow ye the trumpet in Zion, and sound an alarm in my holy mountain; let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: for the day of the Lord cometh, itis nigh at hand." "But," says the Apostle Paul, "when they shall say 'Peace and safety,' then sudden destruction cometh upon them."

The millennial reign with Christ brought to view in Rev. 20, is not on this earth, but in heaven, for when the righteous dead are raised at his second coming, (1 Cor. 15:22-24), at the last trump, (1 Cor. 15:51-54), they are caught up to meet the Lord in the air, (1 Thess. 4:15-17), and are taken to heaven, where Christ is (John 14:1-3). Thus, the saints shall live and reign with Christ in heaven during the thousand years after the first resurrection, or the resurrection of the just. But it should be remembered that when Christ comes the second time and gives life to the righteous, at the same time the brightness and glory of his presence consume all the wicked, so that the earth is depopulated and left desolate. This will be clearly seen by a comparison of 2 Thes. 1:7-9, with Rev. 6:14-17; Rev. 19:11-21; Isa. 13:6-9; Isa. 24:1-3; Jer. 25:31-33; Zeph. 1:14-18, and Jer. 4:19-27.

When the living wicked are consumed by the burning glory of the coming of Christ, and the "blessed and holy" are taken to heaven to reign with Christ a thousand years, the earth, left desolate and uninhabited, is called "the bottomless pit," into which satan is cast and confined. In this desolated earth he remains bound for a thousand years. In the beginning the earth was "without form and void"; that is, it was in a chaotic, empty, desolate condition; and this will be its condition again during the millennium. Satan, confined in this earth during the millennium, and having no one to tempt and deceive, is said to be bound with a chain. This chain is a chain of circumstances, circumstances which not only limit his operations, but absolutely take away his opportunities to deceive and destroy souls.

But when the wicked dead are raised at the end of the thousands years, as we are informed in the first clause of Rev. 20:5, satan is said to be "loosed out of his prison, and shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth," as in verses seven and eight.

After satan and all his rebel host meet their fate in the lake of fire which envelops the earth, a new earth appears, with the New Jerusalem as its capital city. Rev. 20:9-15; Rev. 21:1-5. This will fulfil Isaiah 65:17-19, to which Peter refers in 2 Peter 3:10-13. This in brief is the bible doctrine concerning the millennium.

Sincerely yours,
JNO. H. NIEHAUS,
of the local Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Chips from the Pine Block

I JUMPED ABOARD A JITNEY BUS —and fell upon my head. A lawyer picked my carcass up, and soothingly he said, "You should have waited till trap had stopped and let you in. We'll sue them for a million, but we'll have to work like sin." I jumped aboard the ambulance as it went dashing by. Another lawyer brought me to and pocketed my eye. The drive of the ambulance stopped not for cars nor trains. We spent the early afternoon in sorting out our brains.

For many years I went to court to hear the lawyers fight. I got judgment for one bone, another for my sight. Believe me, when I climb aboard the good old hearse at last, I'll see that care is taken that we do not go too fast. And to old Charon I will say, "If worse comes to the worst, don't let the hoboes rock the boat, for I'm for Safety First!"—Charles B. Driscoll. WAREHOUSE IS BURNED.

Evansville Concern Suffers Loss Estimated at $110,000.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 23.—Fire originating on the third floor of the Evansville Warehouse company late yesterday afternoon spread to all parts of the building before the fire department could get into action and two hours later the brick structure, which covered nearly a city block, was in ruins. The total loss is $110,000, with insurance estimated at $60,000. The heaviest losers are the Heilman estate, owners of the building, $50,000, and the Midland Mirror company, which occupied one floor, $35,000. A large number of firms had commodities stored in the building. The fire was so hot that firemen had difficulty in approaching to within 300 feet. To the fact that the wind was blowing toward the river, near which the building was located, is ascribed the escape of large saw mills and manufacturing plants in the vicinity. The cause of the blaze is unknown.

REMEDY FOR SUNDAY SICKNESS DISCOVERED

Rev. C. H. Snashall, pastor of the First Baptist church, has discovered a wonderful remedy for the very prevalent and contagious disease, Morbus Sabbaticus, more familiarly known as Sunday Sickness. The directions follow:

On Sunday morning rise at seven; use plenty of cold water on the face; eat a plain, hearty breakfast. Then mix up and take internally a dose composed of equal parts of the following ingredients, namely:

Will, Energy, Push.
Determination, Self-respect.
Respect for God's Day.
Respect for God's Book.
Respect for God's House.
A Desire to be Somebody.

Stir well; add a little sp. of love to insure sweetness. Repeat the dose every three minutes until church time, if relief does not come sooner. If the day is stormy, an external application of umbrellas, rubber coats and overshoes will be beneficial.

Christian Associations.

Young Women's.

Vesper services at 3:30 (note the change from 4:30).

FORT WAYNE PUBLIC SCHOOL ORCHESTRA TURNS OUT REAL MUSIC AT THE HARMAR DEDICATION.

The Fort Wayne public schools now are possessed of an orchestra that Fort Wayne may well be proud of. Under the able direction of Prof. George J. Thompson the orchestra has developed to a remarkable degree in its short existence, and at the Harmar school opening Friday it did itself and its parents and its schools proud. The youngsters are Doris Welker, Everett Woods, Jack Gillion, Floyd Gaskill, Harry Coudret, James Thompson, Bertha Werkman, Ray Bronson, Robert Stetson, Robert Rogers, Leona Page, Herman Lowry, Charles Winans, Loeta Bovine, Walter Purcell, Robert Christ, Ruby Allen, Wesley Stewart, Joe Horner, Joseph Rond.

Society

About thirty ladies were guests at a very lovely bridge party given this afternoon at the Anthony hotel by Mrs. Thomas E. Potter, jr. Mrs. Potter received her guests quite informally but she was assisted in distributing tallies and visiting with the guests by Mrs. William H. Noll and by Miss Phyllis Potter, Miss Virginia Vernon, Miss Alice Wilding and Miss Katherine Bannister. The card tables occupied the north end of the reception hall of the hotel and numerous baskets with tall handles were filled with yellow chrysanthemums and oak leaves and placed on the piano, tables and against the balcony rail with very good effect. The guests were served a luncheon after the game, and the party was one of the delightful ones of the season.

Miss Linda McKinnie is going to Indianapolis next week and will be the guest of Miss Blanche Foster, who writes for the Indianapolis News, and the Indiana Press club banquet.

Miss Mamie Heine, of Wallace street, entertained the members of a card club to which she belongs on Thursday evening at dinner. The decorations were carried out in pink and white and the nut holders were paper pink chrysanthemums. Miss Nellie Miller won the prize at cards after the dinner.

A few friends perpetrated a surprise on Miss Ellen Kohrman, of Superior street, on Thursday evening. Enjoying the pleasant time were Misses Alma Hulan, Josephine Wehrle, Clara Suelzer, Marie Stock, Johanna Lindmann and Messrs. Alphonse Shilling, Lewis Bell, Clarence Mensing, Tom Kohrman, Al Kramer and Robert Ehinger.

Miss Hilda Trebach was hostess on Thursday evening for a pre-nuptial party in honor of Miss Minnie Ernsting, of Gay street. Gifts in aluminum ware were presented to the bride-elect. Misses Florence Gerding and Clara Schroeder won prizes in a game and presented the souvenirs to the honor guest. Miss Bertha Busching entertained at a pretty affair on Friday evening in honor of Miss Ernsting.

One of the most agreeable evenings of the season was spent at the home of Miss Frances Brey, 1923 Oliver street, when she entertained a jolly bunch of girls at a kindergarten party in honor of Miss Ferne Kircher, who is soon to leave for her home at Wabash. Kindergarten games were played and at a late hour a very good lunch was served. The hostess was assisted by Miss Ellen and Miss June Miller. Those who enjoyed this delightful affair were Misses Ferne Kircher, Euda Ramsey, Elizabeth Marshall, Lola, June and Ellen Miller, Guinevere Stamets, Frances Brey and Winnie and Ethyl Astry.

Miss Gladys Young, who is living with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Greene, of West Berry street, at present, had a party this afternoon for a few school girls that was given for her by her aunt, Mrs. W. H. Noll. The company attended the New Palace performance and then went to the Anthony hotel for ice cream and other sweets. Mrs. Greene was the chaperon. The guests who enjoyed Miss Gladys' party were Virginia Vernon, Ruth Tepepr, Julia Bash, Margaret Ann Keegan, Inez Hartzler, Charlotte Auger, Mary Belle Jackson, Louise Metzger, Florence Grubber, Grace Hamlett, Helen Bittler, Angela and Katherine Gilmartin.

Mrs. Pauline Kuner of East Williams street, entertained the children of her Sunday school class. There were planned for the children's pleasure many games, a nice supper and pretty decorations of pumpkin lights, yellow flowers and pretty favors of the season. The children were Irene Noble, Irene Klotz, Cleo Schmitz, Lillian Pelton, Ruth Waltemath, Adaline Krudop, Vera Sheets, Mildred Sheets, Elizabeth Fisher, Evelin Fliger, Grace Blough, Ruth Ricketts, Alma Pressler, Meiwin Lew, Clara Neibel. Mrs. Kuner was assisted in entertaining the children by Rupert Kuner, George Lash, Mrs. W. G. Lew and Miss Alice Neibel.

A number of the young women employed in the small motor department of the Fort Wayne Electric works, gathered at the home of Miss Minnie Blee, 418 East Suttenfield street, on Thursday evening to perpetrate a surprise upon her. During Miss Blee's absence for a short time from the house the rooms were beautifully decorated in pink and white festoons and flowers. A birthday cake of appearance and taste to test the skill of a professional in culinary art, was the center of the table's attractions and was lit up with pink candles. There were games and music for entertainment but the hilarious fun resulted from the costuming of the company in made attire. Participants were Misses Lois Miller, Amelia Reese, Edna Moody, Flora and Clara Gilmore, Esther Young, Christina Vogelgesang, Esther Crummitt, Ocie Miner, Ethel Allen, Cora Blue, Lillian Droegemeyer, Esther Moody, Helen Gruber.

FOGARTY WILL OPERATE IT.

New Binder Twine Factory Proposed for Lafayette.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 23.—An agreement was reached here yesterday between J. Fogarty, present warden of the Indiana state prison at Michigan City, and the Lafayette Development company whereby the former and his associates are to erect and operate a binder twin factory in this city. The grounds and buildings are to cost more than $35,000 and more than $100,000 will be invested in the plant. Charles Murdock, of this city, and Samuel T. Murdock, of Indianapolis, will be interested with Mr. Fogarty to the extent of $25,000 each.

MUCH SUPPORT FOR FORT WAYNE WOMAN

Mrs. Fairbanks' Candidacy Given Endorsement by Club Women.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 23.—Muncie clubwomen have decided that their delegates to the annual convention of the state Federation of clubs shall be instructed to vote for Mrs. Clark Fairbank, of Ft. Wayne, for the presidency of the state federation. The delegates will be instructed to vote for her as long as there is an opportunity to win, according to members of local women's clubs.

Miss Vida Newsom, the retiring president, has indorsed the candidacy of Mrs. Fairbank, as has Mrs. Albion Fellows Bacon, of Evansville; Mrs. Felix T. McWhirter, the past president; Mrs. S. E. Perkins, of Indianapolis; Mrs. R. C. Bennett, of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Sara Messing Stern, of Terre Haute.

The clubwomen of the northern part of the state say that they feel that something is due them, as at the last election they gracefully acceded to the wishes of the southern part that a president be elected from its ranks. The northern clubwomen have not been represented by a president since Mrs. O. P. Kinsey, of Valparaiso, was elected in 1906.

WOMAN CAUGHT IN THE HIGH SCHOOL

Margaret Sweringer, aged 32, and believed to be a bit demented, was arraigned in the city court Saturday morning, on a loitering charge. She had been twice detected Friday, rummaging in the girls' cloakrooms in the Fort Wayne high school. The first time she was discovered Principal Ward sent her from the building. The second time the police were called and the woman was turned over to Matron Fannie M. Winch and Detective Sergeant Joseph P. Brennan. To the officer and the matron she confessed that she had lately stolen some miscellaneous plunder from various places. In court she wanted to be told what was going to be done about a woman who has defrauded her of $500. Instead, Judge Kerr continued her case and let her go on her own recognizance provided she would report to Mrs. A. C. Gladieux, matron at the jail, to be given a surely-needed bath and to be decently outfitted with underclotning. There has been a pestilence of petty stealing from the high school cloak rooms for several months.

THOUSANDS VISIT NEW HARMAR SCHOOL

Dedicatory Exercises Are Held in Auditorium Friday Evening.

The magnificent new Harmar school was officially dedicated Friday when it is estimated ten thousand people took advantage of the opportunity of inspecting Fort Wayne's finest graded school.

The program of addresses and music was given at 8:15 o'clock. Following several selections by the Elks' band Councilman Jacob Hartman made a few opening remarks in which he told of the work of the East Side Civic Improvement association and the efforts that had been made by its members to secure the new school. He then introduced Superintendent Justin N. Study, who expressed the hope that the occasion would not be the last for the patrons' visit, but that they would visit the school during study hours. He spoke on the subject of "Our School System."

William H. Shambaugh's remarks dwelt with the playgrounds in the city. William Baer, president of the city council, spoke in the absence of Mayor Hosey, who is out of the city. A history of the Harmar school was given by Ernest W. Cook, of the school board.

Harry H. Hilgemann spoke on the subject of "Education." "Show me the progressive city and I will show you the educational city," he said. "Show me the educational city and I will show you the progressive city. The schools mean a constant improvement of municipal government. All citizens should take part in civic progress."

WILL SPEAK AT COURT HOUSE MONDAY NIGHT

Dr. Frederick W. Hamilton, of Boston, director of the United Typothetae and Franklin Clubs of America, and W. C. Book, superintendent of the vocational schools of Indiana, will speak at the Allen county court house, Monday evening. The meeting is being given under the auspices of the Master Printer's association and Allied Printing Trades council. Although primarily for those in the printing trades and especially for the apprentices, the public is also asked to attend.

Both of the speakers are at the forefront in this field and their addresses are sure to be exceedingly interesting Dr. Hamilton is in charge of the North End Trades school at Boston and is one of the best known men in the country on vocational education. Mr. Book has become very prominent in the same line of work throughout Indiana in the past few years.

SAYS FRENCH WOMAN WAS ALSO EXECUTED

Amsterdam, Oct. 23.—The Telegraaf publishes an article from its Antwerp correspondent, under the title, "The Paternal Administration of Belgium," in which it is said that some weeks ago a French woman, Madame Louise Frenay, was executed at Liege.

The correspondent says that the aim of the German firing squad was not accurate, and that as in the case of Miss Edith Cavell, under similar circumstances, the commanding officer of the firing squad was obliged to put Madame Frenay to death by shooting her through the head with his revolver.

FRIENDS OPPOSE PREPAREDNESS.

Take Action at Richmond Against National Defense.

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 23.—The American Society of Friends, at the international conference of laymen here, adopted a resolution protesting against the adoption of any policy of preparedness for national defense. The 800 members of the conference pledged the members to do their utmost to "arouse and unite the membership of Friends and all other churches in the peace cause" and to solicit "every senator and congressman to vote against increase in armaments." The secretary was instructed to acquaint President Wilson with the views of the conference.

ITALIANS GOING HOME.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 23.—Railroads here today arranged to move some 4,000 Italian reservists from West Virginia and western Pennsylvania who have been ordered to join their regiments. Small bodies of 100 or less were sent to New York last week but it was planned to move the main body in four special trains not later than next Wednesday in order that they might immediately embark on the waiting ships.

TO GIVE MASQUERADE DANCE.

Arrangements were made Friday evening at the armory for a masquerade dance to be given under the auspices of Company E, I. N. G., at the armory, next Friday evening. Each member of the company has been given the privilege of inviting friends.

A hog cholera meeting will be held Tuesday evening at the Edgerton school house in Jackson township.

Empire in Control of Food Price and Supply

Berlin, Oct. 23.—The German federal government today decided to assume control of the price and supply of victuals throughout Germany. Up to the present time the state provincial authorities had been considered competent to handle the food situation.

The German government now considers it necessary, the Overseas news agency says, to equalize the position of the various sections of the empire as to the distribution and the price of victuals which are abundant but under different conditions in the various states and provinces of Germany.

New regulations will be made in order to avoid differences and to distribute in an equal manner food throughout Germany, thereby assuring for the coming months full supplies at reasonable prices in all districts.

Conferences are being held by the government authorities and it is expected the decisions regarding the measures to be taken will be announced in the near future.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETS.

Members Adopt the Report of Nominating Committee at Trinity Church.

At the closing session of the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Ladies' Foreign Missionary society of the Fort Wayne M. E. district the report of the nominating committee for the officers for the coming years was adopted without change. The officers for the coming year are: Mrs. W. H. Chandler, Pennville, president; Mrs. T. M. Hill, Fort Wayne, first vice president; Mrs. Quicksell, Fort Wayne, second vice president; Mrs. J. P. Horton, Mountpelier, third vice president; Mrs. E. H. Roe, Ossian, treasurer; Mrs. B. F. Geyer, Fort Wayne, recording secretary; Mrs. F. A. Thomas, Fort Wayne, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. S. Nickerson, Angola, superintendent of young people's work, and Mrs. J. A. Limle, Portland, secretary of tithing.

It was decided to leave the question of deciding the next year's meeting place in the hands of the newly elected officials. Clarence Elmer Long, grandson of Mrs. Nettie Hockaday, outgoing recording secretary, was made a life member. Mrs. J. A. Beaty, retiring president, was presented with a silver souvenir spoon from the society.

First Baptist B. Y. P. U.

Attorney David Hogg will be the leader at the regular Sunday evening devotional services at 6:30 o'clock and the subject for discussion will be, "Capturing Politics for God." The scripture lesson is found in Psalm 33, 8 to 22. Immediately after prayer meeting Wednesday evening, there will be an executive committee meeting. A hallowe'en party will be given Friday evening at the church.

Ministerial Association Meets.

The Fort Wayne Ministerial association will hold its regular meeting next Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, at the First M. E. church. Luncheon will be served following the meeting. Rev. M. C. Tunison will read a paper on "An Unified Educational Program for the Local Church." Rev. E. W. Averill opens the discussion. The hosts for the afternoon are A. J. Cash and Rev. A. J. Folsom.

Show Quilts of Ancient Make.

A quilt exhibit was given Friday afternoon at Trinity English Lutheran church under the auspices of the Dorcas society. Quilts, tablecloths and other similar articles, some of which were more than 200 years old, were shown. Some of them were made when calico sold for $1 a yard and linen was spun and woven at home. Another similar event will be given by the ladies after the holidays.

Meet to Reorganize.

Representatives of some of the Young Men's Bible classes which formerly were a part of the Young Men's Forward Congress, met Friday evening at the First Baptist church to talk reorganization. It was decided to appoint a committee which will visit the various classes in the city and discuss the matter with them. Rev. C. H. Snashall was present and gave a brief address.

JITNEY DRIVER IS FORCED TO RETIRE

Victor Nash, an alien, who conducts a grocery and meat market in the rolling mille district, conceived that the present traction situation in Fort Wayne opened a broad vista of easy money and broke into the transportation game with a jitney. That was four days ago. He has just retired honorably, but reluctantly from that business upon orders from Chief of Police Charles Lenz. He was arraigned in the city court Saturday morning on a charge of violating the traffic ordinances. Officer Erdman testified that Nash had repeatedly ignored the signals and run the blockade on him and he was finally compelled to send him in. On the witness stand the reasons for the alien's contempt of traffic rules and signals were made clear. He cannot read English, speaks it little better and understands it when spoken to him in a very crude way. He said he knew the traffic signals at the intersections and explained that one whistle meant to stop and two whistles to go ahead. He had been navigating his new jitney on this interpretation of the signals. Judge Kerr let him go on condition that he obeyed Chief Lenz's order to take his jitney off the streets and retire from business. The chief's action was based on Nash's palpable unfitness to be operating a car as a common carrier.

TURNING POINT IN FOOTBALL SEASON

Big Matches Chalked Up for This Afternoon in East.

New York, Oct. 23.—Today is considered the turning point of the football season. Virtually all of the leading elevens in the eastern section of the country were matched against opponents expected to make them prove their metal. Upsets are expected when the scores come in. The Harvard-Cornell game at Cambridge is of first imortance in the estimation of football men, as the Ithaca eleven is one of the best ever turned out. The annual Princeton-Dartmouth game at Princeton ranks as second in importance. The Washington and Jefferson team did not expect to repeat its victory of last year over Yale but hoped to give the blue eleven a hard battle at New Haven. Other games in the east were: Pittsburg vs. Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia; Syracuse vs. Brown, at Providence; Georgetown vs. the Army, at Westpoint; Virginia Polytechnic vs. Navy, at Annapolis; Wesleyan vs. Amherst, at Amherst; Columbia vs. St. Lawrence at New York; Carlisle vs. Bucknell, ta Carlisle; Colgate vs. Rensselaer, at Hamilton; Albright vs. Lafayette, at Easton; West Virginia vs. Penna at State college, Vermont vs. Springfield training school, at Springfield; Stevens vs. Union, at Schenectady; Trinity vs. Williams, at Williamstown; Hobart vs. Hamilton, at Clinton; Muehlenburg vs. Lehigh, at South Bethlehem; Fordham vs. Holy Cross, at New York; Haverford vs. New York university, at Haverford; Colby Bowdoin, at Waterville.

WESTERN ELEVENS FACE SUPREME TEST

This is a Big Day in Football World—Indiana Not Working.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Football teams of the west faced the supreme test today in games considered to have important bearings in deciding championship claims. All of the "big nine" elevens, with the exception of Indiana, were in action. Outside of the western conference the important contests brought together Notre Dame and Nebraska at Lincoln and the University of Michigan and the Michigan Aggies at Ann Arbor. Both Notre Dame and Nebraska claimed the western championship last season and the teams representing the two universities this season are regarded by experts as being every bit as powerful.

In the "big nine" the Wisconsin-Ohio state game attracted unusual interest as both teams are considered championship possibilities.

Among the football games in the west today were: Purdue vs. Chicago, at Chicago; Wisconsin vs. Ohio State, at Madison; Illinois vs. Northwestern, at Champaign; Minnesota vs. Iowa, at Minneapolis; Kansas vs Kansas Aggies, at Manhattan; Ames vs. Missouri, at Ames; Michigan vs. Michigan Aggies, at Ann Arbor; Notre Dame vs. Nebraska, at Lincoln; St. Louis vs. DePauw, at St. Louis; Wabash vs. Franklin, at Crawfordsville; Marquette vs. Carroll, at Milwaukee; Rose Poly vs. Butler, at Terre Haute; Oklahoma A. & M. vs. Arkansas, at Fort Smith; Haskell Indians vs. Creighton, at Omaha; Case vs. Oberlin, at Cleveland; Western Reserve vs. Akron, at Akron; Denison vs. Cincinnati, at Cincinnati.

ILLINOIS ELEVEN IS BADLY CRIPPLED

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 23.—Illinois sent a crippled team on the field to play the Northwestern eleven today. The team was without the support of Pogue, the veteran halfback; Petty, at tackle, and Potsey Clark, who sustained a broken jaw bone in the game with Rolla School of Mines. Coach Hupke plans to keep his injured players out of the game in the contest with Minnesota. Line-up:

Northwestern.	Pos.	Illinois.
Normal	R.E.	Mardwardt
Rudolph	R.T.	Graham
Stromberg	R.G.	Stewart
Smith	C.	Watson
Steinorenner	L.G.	Applegren

TY BEATEN ONLY IN DRAWING PASSES FROM HURLERS.

The only offensive play in which Ty Cobb failed to lead the American league this year was drawing bases on balls. He was beaten by Eddie Collins, of the White Sox. Ty led the league nearly all season and finished with 118 walks, but Collins at the last moment beat him out by two.

Four American leaguers drew more than 100 bases each this season, for the first time. Bush, Detroit, and Shotten, St. Louis, each walked 116 times. The previous record for a season was 112 passes, drawn by Bush in 1911.

PINCH KICKER TAKES PLACE OF THE DIAMOND'S PINCH CLOUTER.

Otis Guernsey, who will be in Yale game only long enough to try for field goal.

(By Brown Holmes).

The Yale football team is going to have a pinch kicker, just like baseball teams have pinch hitters, fellows who sit on the bench all afternoon, then step into the place of a weak hitter in the ninth inning and whale the old apple.

Otis Guernsey, of the Eli eleven, is a drop-kicker from Kickersville, and with LeGore disqualified, the Eli team needs him badly. But he has not recovered from a shoulder injury and will not be allowed in scrimmage.

So Guernsey will sit on the bench until the boys in blue get within 40 yards or so of the goal line. Then he'll step in, take a shot at a field goal and step out again. Field goals have decided most of the big battles of recent years.

POWERFUL TEAMS IN SUNDAY BATTLE HERE

Chicago Blues and Friars Play at Even Weight Tomorrow.

Outweighed less than a pound to the man, and heralded as one of the fastest squads that hails from the Windy city, the Chicago Blues come to League park Sunday for a go with the Friars. Now the Chicago boys are newcomers in Fort Wayne football, and the local fans simply don't know what to look for.

The Chicago papers boom the Blues as championship contenders, and their season so far has been one success after another, but whether they can keep it up when they run into the Friars is a matter which no one can decide.

Anyway it will be a rattling good game, and Sunday will see two of the heaviest organizations in independent football getting together. The Friars average 180 pounds against the 179½ pounders who wear the Chicago blue.

Eighty members and guests including veterans of the G. A. R., the W. R. C. and Captain James B. White camp, Sons of Veterans, attended the first public reception to be given by Wayne circle, No. 45, Ladies of the G. A. R., Friday evening. A delightful evening was enjoyed.

EXPECT HARD-FOUGHT BATTLE AT LINCOLN

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 23.—For the first time Nebraska university and Notre Dame university met on the football field here today. The teams were evenly matched in weight and speed and the field was fast. A hard fought battle was expected. The probable line-up:

Caley	Q.B.	Phelan
Rutherford	L.H.	Cofall
Gardiner	R.H.	Bergamn
Doyle	F.B.	Backman

MATCH IS POSPONED.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—The ten-round contest between Charlie White, of Chicago, and Matt Wells, the British lightweight, scheduled for Monday night at Milwaukee, has been postponed until next Thursday. White is suffering from ptomaine poisoning, but his condition, it was said today, is not serious.

KLENKE BEATS KEATS IN TOLEDO BOUT

Young Klenke got the newspaper decision over Joe Keats in a ten-round affair at Toledo, O., Friday night before a crowded house. Klenke pushed the fighting throughout, Keats holding back until the house stood up and yelled for him to quit his stalling. Klenke was not in the best of trim, being slightly over weight, and going through several rounds slowly and without much punch.

Women! It's Easy! Dry Clean With Gasoline—Save $5

Nothing shrinks, fades or wrinkles and a wash boiler will do nicely.

Women here who have tried dry cleaning find it very easy and inexpensive to clean and freshen all the ribbons, silks, satins, laces, yokes, furs, silk shirtwaists, kid gloves and shoes, neckties, children's clothes, suits, caps, Swiss, lawn, organdie and chiffon dresses, woolen garments, fancy vests, draperies, rugs, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline, where it instantly dissolves, then put in the goods to be cleaned, rub a little and out they come, looking as bright and fresh as new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.

You can do five dollars' worth of home dry cleaning in an hour at little cost. It is so easy and you can't make a mistake. Any grocery or garage will supply the gasoline and you can obtain two ounces of solvite at the drug store which is simply a gasoline soap, then a wash boiler or large dish pan completes your dry cleaning outfit.—Advertisement.

RUSS HALT GERMAN DRIVE AGAINST RIGA

London Press, Urging Recruiting, Calls Present Darkest Moment for England Since War Began.

London, Oct. 23.—The latest official news from Petrograd gives some indication that Field Marshal von Hindenburg's drive toward the Baltic port of Riga has again been checked and that, nearer the center of the German line, German counter attacks have been repulsed. Fighting on the left bank of the Styr continues and the Russians assert they have made further captures of large numbers of men. In the Caucasus lively actions, in which cavalry is taking an important part are reported. Vienna acknowledges Austrian troops have retired in Galicia under the pressure of superior Russian forces.

The status of political affairs in the Balkans is almost equal in interest to the military situation. The belief is growing here that neither Greece nor Roumania is likely to enter the war; at least, unless the entente allies gain some decisive success. Greece apparently regards this as more important than the offer of the island of Cyprus, and it is feared in Athens that the allied troops have come too late into the Balkan field.

Bombardment of the Bulgarian coast by an allied fleet raises hopes in England that the entente powers will feel content with landing troops in Saloniki, but may cause enough of a diversion elsewhere to engage a considerable body of Bulgarian troops. It is expected here that the arrival at the Dardanelles of General Sir Charles Monroe, the new commander of the expeditionary force, will be accompanied with renewed military activity on the Gallipoli.

Darkest Since War Began.

The appeal issued yesterday by King George to aid the Earl of Derby's recruiting campaign as a final effort to obtain the required men for military service without recourse to compulsion, is framed in a tone bringing to the nation the extreme gravity of its military position and the frankness of the appeal in this respect is emphasized in the editorial columns of the newspapers today.

The Telegraph says that the king's words are charged with "dignity and earnestness of the purpose. Let there be no illusions; the present is the darkest moment since the war began."

The Times in an editorial on what it calls "the king's stern, stirring appeal," says it is estimated that between 5,000 and 350,000 men per week are required and demands that the government would put an end to this uncertainty by definitely providing some test number where the earl of Derby's scheme must eventually be held to have succeeded or failed.

Most of the other London morning papers comment on the strikingly frank character of the king's appeal and the urgency of the situation which produced it. Baron Winburne has placed himself at the head of the movement in Ireland by assuming the position of director general for recruiting and by appointing and organizing committees.

PUTT DISPLAYS TOO MANY INFIRMITIES

Man Tried for Carrying an Overdone Tinge is Shooed Away.

When Charles Putt was called in the city court, Saturday morning, to answer to a drunk charge, he smiled blandly and blinked amiably, the while wagging his head with good-natured deprecation. To the court and prosecuting attorney Officer Erdman, who had made the arrest, interpreted these signs and tokens as meaning that the prisoner was hard of hearing.

"Putt, you're charged with being drunk. Guilty or not guilty?" Prosecutor Callahan roared at him.

Putt wig-wagged both yes and no with his head.

"Were you drunk?" the prosecutor bellowed at him with a voice like a train-caller.

Putt continued to blink and smile and wag.

"Not guilty let that be the plea your honor," said the prosecutor to Judge Kerr.

The officer gave his testimony and Putt came to the stand. Both prosecutor and judge joined in a vocal duet trying to make Putt hear, but it was a futile effort. Then Judge Kerr wrote it down on a scrap of paper and thrust the visible query under Putt's nose. The prisoner blinked twice at the writing and then yanked his spectacles from a pocket, poised them with nicety astride his nose and studied the court's penmanship with deep application and seriousness. His bad eyes could make nothing of it and he wig-wagged the result.

Then Judge Kerr began to talk with his hands and shooed Putt off the dock and out of the court room, entering an indefinite continuance. That was evidently the only way out of the difficulty.

Jitney Driver is Fined.

Willard F. Nantz, driver of a jitney bus, was fined $5 and costs for obstructing traffic and appealed his case to the circuit court. Nantz's automobile became stalled on the north-bound Calhoun street track at Montgomery street, Friday morning, and instead of pushing it off the track he let it remain there twenty minutes causing a blockade of half a score of street cars and other traffic. He said he was afraid to move his car for fear of breaking it and that, moreover, nobody in the crowd would help him because of pleasure in the tying up of street car traffic.

Other City Court Cases.

John Schier, who said he was employed as a watchman by the Traction company, pleaded guilty to being drunk and was turned loose. He was found down and out Friday afternoon at Calhoun and Brackenridge streets by Officer Paul. He wore the badge of a special officer and carried a bottle of gin.

Fred Rosselot and Charles Dull were arraigned for keeping a gambling house and Daniel Lung for gambling. The trio were arrested at the Rosselot saloon were arrested Friday evening, after William Ormsby had complained of having been trimmed for $8 in a pool game. Rosselot operates the saloon, Dull is his bartender and Lung takes care of the poolroom. The three entered pleas of not guilty and the cases were continued until October 25. Bond of $100 each was required of Dull and Rosselot, $50 of Lung and $25 of Ormsby for his appearance as a witness.

Ben Ditton, a drunk, paid $11. for being drunk and Harry Johnson, another drunk was continued until Monday.

SWINDLED BY SALESMAN.

A man giving the name of Alfredo Verglialno and representing himself as a traveling salesman for the Eureka Supply company, of Chicago, is reported by Michael Dagan, grocer at 1702 Hoagland avenue, to have swindled him out of $30 and by Joe Colone, grocer at 416 Bass street, to have swindled him out of $50 on orders for groceries for which collections were made in advance.

LAFAYETTE LABOR UNIONS WILL ACT

Members to Be Advised to Stay Off of the Street Cars.

A special meeting of the Lafayette Central Labor Union has been called for Monday night when action regarding the carmen's strike here will be taken up. Members of the Lafayette Federation will be advised to stay off of the street cars in that city until after the trouble in this city is over and it is also probable that financial aid will be voted the former employes of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company in this city.

Drag Crew From Car.

Four men boarded a Lakeside car at the end of the line on Crescent avenue about 11 o'clock Friday night and pulled both Motorman T. S. Thompson and Conductor H. F. Anderson from the car and doubtless would have done them serious bodily harm had they not succeeded in breaking away. Motorman T. C. Thompson was the first to break away and ran back to the car and started it for the transfer corner when Sergeant Blum and Patrolman Amos met them on the Columbia street bridge. The officers went back on the car with the motorman and within two blocks from the end of the car line met Conductor Anderson running. He had been struck a blow on the side of the head from which the blood flowed profusely, but otherwise he was not hurt. The officers were unable to get any trace of the offenders.

Committee Meets.

A meeting of the committee of fifteen from the Federation of Labor met Friday evening to discuss the proposition for the establishment of a complete jitney bus system in Fort Wayne. Representatives from several large motor truck companies attended the meeting.

THE MARKETS

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Oct. 23.—Fresh declines took place in the wheat market today owing to good weather northwest and big receipts. Opening prices, which ranged from ⅛c to ⅜c lower, with December at 99⅝c to $1.00, and May at $1.02 to $1.02⅛, were followed by a moderate further loss and then something of a reaction.

The close was steady, 1⅝@1⅞c net lower, with December at 97⅞c and May at $1.00½.

Hope of European business lifted corn. After opening unchanged to ⅛c higher, the market scored a slight general advance.

The close was weak at ⅛c decline.

Oats were steadied by the firmness of corn.

Higher prices for hogs lieped provisions up grade.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 23.—Today's short session of the stock exchange gave promise of higher prices and increased activity, the opening showing general advances, with more high records in the specialties. Chief among these were the motor shares and Baldwin Locomotive, the latter adding over five points to yesterday's maximum at 154½. Some of the representative rails were higher, notably Canadian Pacific and U. S. also manifested a tendency toward betterment. In the second hour, however, heavy realizing, together with increased weakness in foreign exchange soon obliterated most gains, some specialties falling well under yesterday's final prices. The close was irregular. Bonds were firm.

Special stocks governed trading, with additions to recent high records, while rails and other former favorites were relatively dull but firm. Baldwin Locomotive rose 5½ to the new quotation of 154½, after some slight wavering at the outset. Maxwell Motors was 2½ higher at 72½ and United States industrial Alcohol made a new maximum on its two points' advance to 128. Bethlehem Steel rose ten above yesterday's close at 585, and General Motors 11 at 381. Other issues of this group were higher by one or two points. United States Steel rose only a fraction and Canadian Pacific led the railroads with a rise of 1½ to 172½.

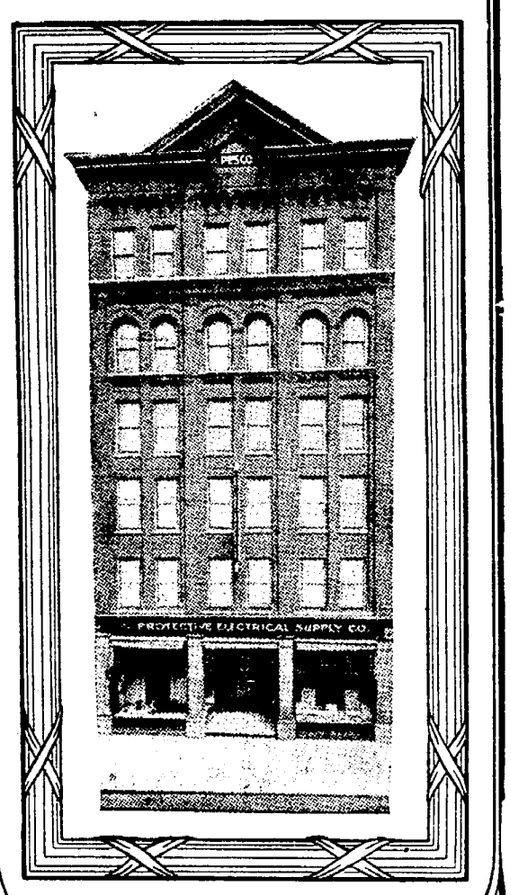
AN INVITATION TO YOU

A Short Story Which Will Interest You



THE PESCO LINE
130-132 W. COLUMBIA ST FT. WAYNE, INDIANA

THE VIEW on the left of this advertisement shows our new home, 130-132 West Columbia Street, where we shall be glad, always, to have you visit us when you come to Fort Wayne.

We occupy this entire building—seven floors, including the basement—each floor 40 by 110 feet in size, providing a total floor area of 30,800 square feet.

On these seven floors are displayed and stored the thousands of items that make up the famous "PESCO" line of Electrical, Telephone and Automobile Supplies, which have brought the Protective Electrical Supply Company into high favor throughout the middle west.

The First Floor

A suggestion of the lines carried by us on these various floors follows:

The first floor, in addition to the space devoted to two large display windows, the General Offices and the Broken Package Department in the front, is devoted to the Shipping and Receiving Departments and the stock of Fans, Condulets, Unilets, Metal Moulding, Fittings and G-V Pipe Caps.

The Second Floor

The second floor is subdivided into five modern, complete Fixture Rooms, showing all the up-to-date Electrical Fixtures for residence, store and factory lighting. An expert is in charge of this department and his services are yours at any time.

The Third Floor

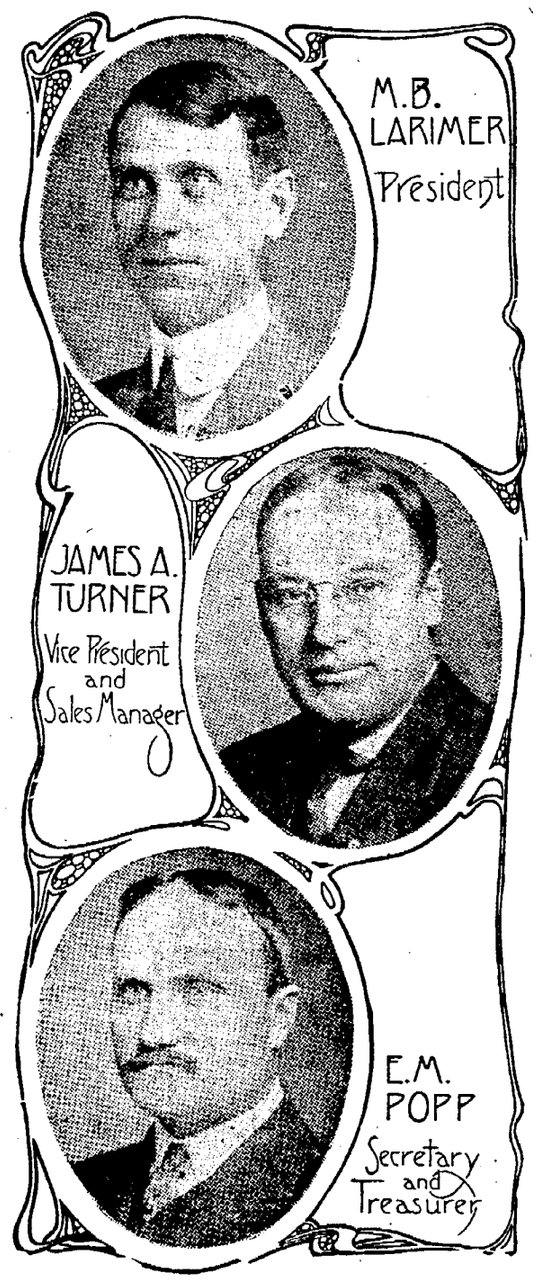
Here is to be found a varied line of Steel Cabinet Boxes, Round and Square Outlet Boxes and Switch Boxes, all Schedule Material, including a complete stock of Arrow E Material. On this floor are Hotpoint Irons and Heating Appliances and Ever Ready Flash Lights and Batteries, as well as the Pyrene Fire Extinguishers. Here, also, is the assembling room for all orders to be shipped the same day they are received.

The Fourth Floor

The fourth floor is devoted entirely to Wire, Rubber Covered and Weatherproof, Magnet, Telephone, Duplex, Interior and Distributing; also Lead-Covered Electric Light and Telephone Cable—all standard.

The Fifth Floor

This floor contains Fir Cross Arms, both Electric Light and Telephone, all sizes, Pins, Brackets, Sparkwell, 1900, Acme Rapid Fire and Cleveland Dry Cells or Batteries, Porcelain Tubes, Knobs and Cleats in standard packages. All of the above are bought in carload lots and we are the price-makers.



A Bit Of History

In 1907, the Protective Electrical Supply Company commenced business with the manufacture of its now celebrated Protective Can Top Cable Terminal, in a room 20 by 40 feet. In 1909, we moved to a four-story, 20 by 140 foot building, and in 1915 located in our present splendid new home where nearly 31,000 square feet of space is needed to care for our expanding business.

It will pay you to consult us always before you buy anything in the line of Electrical, Telephone or Automobile Supplies.

GETTING BEHIND THE FILMS IN A FT. WAYNE PHOTO-DRAMA HOUSE

If you took the lid off a movie playhouse, and looked right down into the guts of its inner workings, what would you see? Did you ever think about it, that mechanism within a mechanism, that system within a system, that thing that is there in a movie house, yet which you can neither see nor hear?

A Sentinel representative this week went out in quest of something to photograph. And as he wandered from end to end and from side to side of the town, he saw always the same hurrying sights and the same hurrying people in the same hurrying way. There wasn't enough there to make it worth while to unlimber his camera. Then he came at last, tired of mind and body, to a picture playhouse, and went in and sat down.

There was a picture on the screen and music in the atmosphere, and the picture had a plot and a star and a setting. But the photographer in search of news-pictures had little time for plot or star or settings, he gazed idly at the picture and saw only light effects, and composition, and depth of focus.

And he wondered at the efficiency of the photo-playhouse, and at the real art of the photography that wound on in a never-ending grind before him. He began to wonder how the pictures were made to project so far and so perfectly, and why they didn't fade out toward the corners, and a host of other things.

Then he went to find out.

The picture house which he had dropped into was the Orpheum, and he saw there the lights that greet anyone who is fortunate enough to go on a trip of adventure behind the movie scenes in any of the higher type of playhouses throughout the country. And he became so thoroughly interested that he saw at last the pictures he had been hunting, for here in the deep and seldom visited heart of the movie house was a "story" with a wide appeal and a bushel of that much sought quality in all news matter, "human interest."

The Operating Room.

The operating room is the hub of the photoplay house. It is as the alarm desk in a fire department or the dispatcher's office on a railway system. All the machinery of the theatre revolves about it, and nearly all of it, in it.

In the Orpheum you reach the operating room by a storway and a balcony and an office and a work room. Then you come to a place of flaring white lights and fireproof walls and incessant ticking. The odor of hot metal, almost a dark-lantern smell, intermingles with the whiffs of celluloid and collodion.

And the manager who acts as guide, introduces you to an operator who is busy as a traffic copper, but who takes pity on your ignorance regarding things movieatrical, and explains to the minutest detail the processes of the photo-play-projection.

The two big machines stand abreast, opposite the door and a real of film is clicking off at sixteen clicks a second in front of one of them. A long shaft of light so thick and smooth you feel that you could slide down it in perfect safety starts at a tiny square hole in the wall and terminates in the picture on the screen.

A tiny motor operates the film, pulling it through the camera with a surprising regularity and superhuman precision. And when the film on one of the machine gets wound close to the end, the lively operator is seen jumping about, regulating the other, and before you realize it, the shaft of light has changed course, and the film is clicking through the other machine.

Then in one corner, and opposite another hole in the wall, stands a long and villianous looking impiement of torture that looks like the cross between a spy glass and a forty-two centimeter gun (see Berlin reports).

But the kindly operator again takes you under his wing, and explains that that is the spot under which the beautiful lady and the handsome man vocalize once an hour. But the wonders of the operating room are many and varied and of such character that mere printer's ink could not describe them.

The Work Room.

But right back of the operating room there is another all-important apartment that few novices ever heard of. It is in this room that the films are cared for. A long table stands beside the window, with a couple of reels and many minor implements that look like the tools of a spiteful dentist scattered over it. Here it is that the operators go over the films each day before the show opens, examining every foot and every inch for flaws. In one of the accompanying photographs the film is seen in this process. Objectionable parts are cut out and discarded, rough spots are repaired and the whole film is given the once over before it touches the machine.

But a playhouse of the character of the Orpheum has so large a number of employes that it would be really distressing to have them hanging around the lobby or shaking dice in the barber shop all the time they were not in actual work. So there are rest rooms for men and women. The musicians and all the other employes meet here "between the acts," and the rest rooms are on the order of the green rooms in old fashioned theatres.

As the reporter walked into the rooms set aside for the ladies he found three of them passing a half hour waiting for their turn at bat. One of them was operating a sewing machine with all the vim with which she plied her trade at piano and violin, another was knee deep in the latest best seller, and another was working with several needles on a job that no mere man could fathom.

In the men's room the atmosphere was somewhat hazy with smoke. The amusements were different. They ran the entire course from teasing the cat to reading system magazines and back to a war argument. But it was a jolly bunch, more like a family or a college frat house than a business house full of employes.

But hold on—not so fast—Remembr the Maine! There is one part and parcel of the movie house that is all important. That is the advertising desk. This throne is occupied by a fellow with a gift of gab, who makes it a point to see to it that the public is kept fully aware of each and every incident in the career of the establishment. And it is he who publishes the house organ, for the Orpheum, like many eastern theatres, has estabiished one.

In the accompanying pictures, all made at the Orpheum theatre, are scenes in the men's and women's rest rooms and in the film workshop. But it was impossible for all the employes to get into the pictures, for its seemed absolutely necessary for some of the employes to continue running the show even while the pictures were taken. In the rear of the men's room are seen Mr. Brentling and Mr. Mason, partners in the Orpheum company.

But it gives no idea of the number of people required to handle the business in the house. However, the management has prepared the following list of names of employes, which gives some suggestion of the work there is to be done and the number of men and women required in doing it:

Executive.

Albert F. Brentlinger .....Manager
Al McCabe .....Advertising Manager
Miss Rhea Thomas....Orchestra Leader

Mechanical.

Earnest J. Kirk .....Chief Operator
Charles Hall.....Assistant Operator
Ellis Karns .....Assistant Operator

Musical.

Vocal.

Frederick Hughes .....Tenor Soloist
Miss Anna Lyons ....Soprano Soloist

Some Pretty New Fort Wayne Houses Nearing Completion

Here are some of Fort Wayne's pretty new houses, now under construction or just completed. Upper left, the beautiful Freiburger residence on South Fairfield avenue, and upper right, the William Vesey, jr., house on Thompson avenue; the lower left is the new home of H. E. Metzner, on Wildwood avenue and the lower center pictures the house just completed by George Haffner, at Madison and Lafayette streets. The small picture in the lower right corner shows the front of the J. B. Franke home, on Forest Park boulevard. Fred H. Kohlmeyer designed the Haffner, Metzner and Vesey houses.

IN THE THEATERS

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Tuesday Evening—German Irving Place Theatrical troupe, New York, in "Unsere Husaren."
Wednesday Matinee and Night—"The Only Girl."
Friday Evening—Marie Tempest in double bill, "Rosalind" and "Duke of Killiechankie."
Saturday Matinee and Night—"Twin Beds."

GERMAN PLAY TUESDAY.

Well Known German Company Coming to Present Great Success.

"Our Hussars" is the title of a military drama to be produced by the Irving Place Theatrical troupe, from New York, at the Majestic on Tuesday evening. The plot of this play is laid in Lodz, made generally known through the present world war; various wounded soldiers are returning from the front to be sent to their homes for cure. The German soldier with his many characteristic attributes is drawn in a masterful way. All three acts abound with witty sayings to keep the audience in the best of humor and the patriotic scenes and many couplets of war songs will do much to amuse everybody. Germans, to the front! Rally here! Have a look at this piece, considered one of the best written by Carl Norini. It will show you the German soldier as he is today —in sorrow and joy. This play is bound to open the eyes of many, especially of such Americans who have been unduly prejudiced by a one-sided press.

BIG MUSICAL SUCCESS.

"The Only Girl," With Big Company and Augmented Orchestra.

Admirers of Victor Herbert, the noted composer, who believe he put his best efforts into "The Red Mill," "Mlle. Modiste," will no doubt revise their opinion after they have heard "The Only Girl," which Joe Weber will present here for the first time at the Majestic on Wednesday, matinee and night. At least that was the case with the lovers of light opera and musical comedy in New York last season, when this dainty musical play was running at the Lyric theater. "The Only Girl" equals, if not excels, anything "the big man with a smile" has ever done, which includes a list of over forty musical productions that have been successes. There is the old familiar Herbert lilt and swing in all of the sixteen numbers, yet none of them are reminiscent of former scores. It is very evident the noted composer has found new inspiration in "The Only Girl." Probably the most popular number is "When You're Away," one of those dreamy waltz movements, which is the theme of the play. Other numbers which will no doubt be whistled and sung here after "The Only Girl" has been heard, are "The More I See of Others, Dear, the Better I Love You," "Personality," "Tell It All Over Again," "You Have to Have a Part to Make a Hit," and "You're ane Only One for Me."

Henry Blossom has written a pleasing book and libretto from Frank Mandel's comedy, "Our Wives," and Joe Weber, the producer, has carefully selected a cast of musical comedy artists, with Broadway reputations. The chorus, while not large, is a feature of the performance and is said to include some stunning young women. An augmented orchestra is also a feature.

MARIE TEMPEST.

Majestic Next Friday in a Double Bill, "Rosalind" and "The Duke of Killiecrankie," Direct from New York City en route to Blackstone Theater, Chicago.

MARIE TEMPEST ON FRIDAY.

Charles Frohman Presents Noted Star in Double Comedy Bill.

An announcement of more than ordinary interest is that of the coming to the Majestic theater on Friday evening, October 29, of Miss Marie Tempest, a delightful comedienne, always assured of a warm welcome in a double bill made up of J. M. Barrie's one-act comedy "Rosalind" and Robert Marshall's "The Duke of Killiecrankie." The production of the Barrie play has been most eagerly looked forward to by admirers of the dramatist and it is the first short comedy to reach the stage since "The Twelve Pound Look." Barrie followers declare "Rosalind" to be Barrie at his best and this means that one can be certain of fifty minutes of whimsical humor and delightful sentiment. In it Miss Tempest is seen as a popular London actress who becomes weary of the constant effort to be youthful, vivacious and conventional and thinking to escape temporarily, hies herself to an English village far from her theater. Here she revels in the ease of middle age, "letting herself go" as she describes it, until by chance she encounters one of her youthful admirers. She hits upon the plan of posing as her own mother and the ensuing situation contrived by Barrie may be imagined. In the end she undeceives the lad, and at a call from her managers hurries back to London, with a sigh for her lost middle age, to again take up her role of Rosalind. The boy's devotion withstands the discovery that his idol is not as youthful as he and he gaily accompanies her back to the city.

"The Duke of Killiecrankie," it will be recalled, had its original production in London some seasons ago, with Miss Tempest in the role she now essays. It is a three-act comedy of London social life, and is replete with smart dialogue, amusing situations, and light comedy of the kind in which Miss Tempest excels. In this play, Graham Browne also plays the role he originated in its first production and Ferdinand Gottschalk does the same as Henry Pitt-Walby. Surrounding roles are entrusted to Mary Forbes, Kate Sergeantson and Reginald Denny.

FORT WAYNE'S GREATEST FAVORITE.

FRANK JONES.

Mr. Jones, whom all Fort Wayne will remember as the funniest little man on the stage, will be with the New York success, Broadway Jones, which will open at the Empress theater for the week of November 1. Frank will play Broadway, the part made famous by Geo. M. Cohan himself, who wrote and played this, his greatest success for over two years in New York. There will be many favorites with this company including McClain Gates and Harry Manners.

H. ZODER,

With Irving Place German Theater Company—Majestic Tuesday evening.

"TWIN BEDS" COMING.

Funny Farce Will Be Seen at Majestic Next Saturday.

As the attraction at the Majestic theater next Saturday matinee and night, Selwyn and Company, the firm that gave the stage such notable successes as "Within the Law" and "Under Cover," will offer their latest production "Twin Beds," Salisbury Field and Margaret Mayo's, screamingly funny farce of life among the apartment dwellers, which has proved the laughing sensation of the season in New York, where it recently concluded a run of one whole year.

AT THE TEMPLE.

ROSARY CLOSES TONIGHT.

Temple Players Will Next Be Seen in The Man From Mexico.

The Temple Players will give their final performance of the quasi-sacred drama, The Rosary, this evening and all next week they will be seen in the immense laugh, The Man From Mexico, the big comedy hit said to be funnier even than Hello Bill. The plot although very similar to that of Hello Bill, is more convincing since it is more reasonable, and fun is even more furious, especially in the prison scene in the second act, when Fitzhugh is disclosed breaking stone while his wife and a party of society friends visit the institution and remark upon the terrible iniquities of the class of people that society is forced to protect itself against by incarceration. The explanations in the third act by which Fitzhugh tries to convince his wife that his absence from home was an on-the-level proposition are ludicrously amusing. Maurice Jenkins again is cast for the principal comedy character, a role much similar to that of Bill in Hello Bill, where the Temple Players' director made himself such a reputation as a farce comedy comedian.

The Rosary a Success.

The Rosary has been one of the big successes of the season. The appeal of this delightful drama with its engaging comedy lines and its thrilling intense scenes built round the personality of Brian Kelly, the Irish divine, has found a lodging place in the hearts of Fort Wayne people. The drama has been produced here by several road companies but never has it been given any more adequate depiction than by the Temple Players. Mr. Blesser Jennings is thoroughly at home in the role of Father Kelly, since he played that character for two seasons with a big road company that experienced flattering success with the drama.

AT KEITH PALACE

VAUDEVILLE'S VENUS.

Miss Robbie Gordone Heads Coming Bill at the New Palace.

"The Venus of Vaudeville" Miss Robbie Gordone, whose divine form and exquisite grace have been raved over by sculptors since her first professional appearance, is to headline the new Keith bill at the New Palace opening Monday afternoon. Miss Gordone will be seen in the same classic reproductions of famous statutes that have made her the talk of New York. Milo, the mystery, the living question mark, is a novelty that will make the coming bill the center of conjecture, as the vaudeville addicts attempt to decide whether he is a she or she is a he or whether in reality it is human. This season Harry Holman is playing a bit of frenzied business called "Adam Killjoy" in which Mr. Holman is seen as the testy business man whose son falls in love with the firm' stenographer and finally secures the parental consent to the wedding. Hoey and Lee, a team of character parodists; the Four Sultanas, a mixed quartet, and the vivacious Elida Morris, complete this bill.

Miss Virginia Olds, Fort Wayne's delightful danseuse, will do a group of three interpretive dances as a special added attraction on this bill. There will be no increase in prices during the week, however.

The current bill includes some real vaudeville favorites, Bob Matthews and Al Shayne in "Dreamland;" Patricola and Mayers, "The Dancing Fool;" Ethel Hopkins, the daughter of vaudeville; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Phillips in the skit "Sweets to the Sweet;" LaFrance and Bruce, black face comedians; Paul LaVarr and Brothers, acrobats, and William Ferry, the sensational contortionist.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

IT WAS SOME BOUDOIR.

Striking Background for Valeska Suratt in "Soul of Broadway," at Orpheum.

Nothing that equals the novelty and lavish expensiveness of many of the scenes in "The Soul of Broadway," starring Valeska Suratt at the Orpheum theater has ever been seen since the inception of the photodramatic art. Ultra-modernism marks them and the furniture and draperies all correspond to their general key of futuristic art.

For instance, the scenes showing the boudoir of Laura Hamilton, (Miss Suratt), where she receives her infatuated old millionaire admirer, is a revelation in the use of black and white for decoration. This is an immense "set" containing hundreds of furniture and properties, yet everything harmonizes, which is not surprising when it is considered that everything in the room was especially designed and constructed with this end in view.

Alice Brady, the brilliantly talented daughter of the noted theatrical magnate, William Brady, and a famous Broadway actress, will be the attraction at the Orpheum Monday, appearing in a superb picturization of Paul Armstrong's celebrated drama of military life, "The Lure of Woman." On Tuesday and Wednesday Francis X. Bushman and Marguerite Snow will be seen in "The Silent Voice."

S. F. Green, sales manager for the G. E. Bursley company, was the principal speaker Friday at the regular weekly meeting of the Quest club. He spoke on "Courtesy and Enthusiasm and How to Get It.'

SOME OF THE KEITH FEATURES AT NEW PALACE MONDAY.

AT THE JEFFERSON.

"THE HOUSE OF SCANDALS."

Dashing Harold Lockwood, Fascinating May Allison at Jefferson.

Harold Lockwood and May Allison, talented young stars of the silent drama, who hold so firm a place in the hearts of the motion picture fans, are featured in "The House of Scandals," a four-reel Mutual masterpiece, presented at the Jefferson theater today. "The House of Scandals" is a truly interesting story, fairly alive with heart interest, replete with action, unusual climaxes and plentifully interspersed with humor. It is real play for real, red-blooded people and while in no sense of the word a preachment, nevertheless it contains one of the most humanly interesting stories ever screened. The scenes, particularly those of the Greek dances, are exceedingly pretentious.

"Neal of the Navy" an Additional Attraction.

"Neal of the Navy" appears in another installment which is equally as thrilling, if not more so, than any of the preceding series. From the youngest member of the family to the oldest, this great serial has appeal.

A one-reel comedy is also featured and completes the bill for Saturday.

MAY ASK PERSONAL PRORERTY LOAN LAW

Wider Credit Legislation Probable Request to Congress.

Washington, Oct. 23.—Legislation in aid of loans on personal property in addition to that for loans on real estate may be included in the rural credit program of congressional leaders for consideration during the coming session.

The federal rural credits commission, in making its report about a year ago recommended long time or real estate loan legislation but advised that short time loans or loans with personal property as security might well be left for consideration by the various communities with their different conditions. There is a strong feeling among members of the commission that the time is now ripe for legislation dealing with both forms of loans. The joint committee of the house and senate on rural credits is also to take up the subject of short time loan. A sub-committee is now being asked to prepare recommendations for submission to the full committee at its first meeting next month.

The situation which confronted cotton planters as a result of the European war when they were unable to obtain ready cash is said to have been partly responsible for the change in sentiment among some of the legislators dealing with the subject.

George Francisco, Wabash paymaster, will be here Monday to distribute the wage checks among the employes.

CHORUS WITH "THE ONLY GIRL"— MAJESTIC WEDNESDAY MATINEE AND NIGHT.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

WORKING FOR AN EIGHT HOUR DAY

O. R. C. and B. R. T. of the East Send Delegates to Discuss It.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer states that the eastern association of general chairmen of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors is holding a convention in Cleveland to consider a proposition for an eight hour working day and time and a half for overtime. If the convention approves the eight hour plan the matter will be referred to the brotherhoods for final action, and if a demand for eight hours is made it will not go to the railroads before January 1. All sessions are being held behind closed doors and the final action may not be made public. The 110 delegates present at the meeting were entertained Thursday by the chamber of commerce, after which they were taken over the city in automobiles. Friday night the Cleveland lodges of trainmen and conductors gave a smoker for the visitors.

WILL LECTURE ON EXPLOSIVES.

H. F. Estes will lecture at the Commercial club Monday night on the transportation of dangerous articles by express or freight, the lecture being for the benefit of freight and express men or others who are in any manner connected with the handling or shipping of explosives. Included among the list of "dangerous" articles are acid, automobile supplies, compressed gas, dental supplies, chemicals, drugs, extracts, fireworks, liquors, paint and varnishes, leather bindings, photo supplies, storage batteries, moving picture films and matches. The lecture will be free and invitations are extended to all express and railway men. Mr. Estes is the inspector for the bureau of explosives of the United States and Canada, with headquarters in New York.

WILL HAVE TWO TRAINS.

Frank P. Parnin, district passenger agent of the Nickel Plate, is feeling jubilant over the prospects for the biggest excursion to Cleveland Saturday, October 30, the company ever had. "We will have two special trains from this division on that occasion," said Mr. Parnin. One will leave Fort Wayne at 7 o'clock in the morning and take on passengers as far east as Leipsic. From that city only three stops will be made and the train will go into the Cleveland station at 12:30, a half hour earlier than did former similar trains. The other train will start from Leipsic and pick up passengers at all stations en route. No. 2, due here at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, will also carry excursionists and will do a big business. The special trains will have twelve cars each.

MANY OUT OF WORK.

While all of the Fort Wayne industries are apparently running with a normal force, there are still many seeking employment. This is particularly noticeable at the Fort Wayne Electric works, between the hours of 3 and 4 in the afternoons. Yesterday afternoon at least twenty-five men and women were waiting at the door of W. F. Melching, the employment agent, to make application for work. A good many are successful, but others are either turned down or told to report later. The company has taken on many new employes during the past six weeks.

WORKING ON RETAINING WALL.

Division Engineer W. S. Danes, of the Wabash, has twenty-two men engaged in building the long overdue retaining wall on the south side of the Wabash tracks from a point a short distance west of Fairfield avenue to Broadway. It is not expected to finish the work before the holidays and it will not be completed by that time unless the weather conditions are exceptionally favorable for concrete work.

DRESSED POULTRY MOVING EAST.

Poultry shipments to the east, which have been very heavy and up to date have gone in the live form, are now beginning to go in the dressed form, by cold storage. Agent H. M. Quicksell, of the Star Union line, says there is plenty of poultry in the country and that the traffic in it will be unusually heavy this fall. Much of the business at present is for the Thanksgiving trade in the eastern cities.

RETURNS TO WESTERN HOME.

A. A. Hilton, of Seattle, who has been spending two or three months in Fort Wayne and other cities in this neighborhood, went to Chicago today to join Mrs. Hilton and later accompany her to Seattle. Some years ago Mr. Hilton was associated with J. H. Bass in the foundry business in Chicago. When he retired from that business he went to Seattle and engaged in handling iron and steel for eastern mills.

STRUCK WITH SLEDGE HAMMER.

Machinist E. W. Zimmerman received a glancing blow at the base of the spine from a heavy sledge hammer, which glanced off the piece of metal at which it was aimed by the man at the handle this morning. Mr. Zimmerman was painfully hurt and had to quit work and go home. He was passing the man with the sledge when the accident happened.

TURNED OUT TEN ENGINES.

In the output of repaired engines at the Pennsylvania erecting shop during the week ending today was a G. R. & I. engine, No. 103, which was given general repairs. Other engines receiving repairs were Nos. 7148, 9251, 7503, 9034, 7411, 7517, 9041, 7427 and 7280.

CHARLES PALMER RECOVERING.

Charles Palmer, road supervisor of the Peru and Fort Wayne district of the Wabash, was in the city today for the first time in five weeks. He has been very sick and is still unable to work. During Mr. Palmer's illness, Frank Ehringer, section foreman at Huntington, is acting as road supervisor.

TWO ENGINEERS SICK.

Engineer Joseph H. Harber, of the Nickel Plate, who was taken ill a week ago, is slightly improved, though still bedfast. Mr. Harber has pneumonia. Bert Baughman, also a Nickel Plate engineer, is still quite sick, with little prospect of immediate improvement. He has been unable to work for four weeks.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES

Nickel Plate Fireman Ed Hunsaker, who had been off duty a trip or two, reported for work yesterday.

Nickel Plate Engineer J. B. Maurer is taking a lay-off on account of the sickness of a relative.

Isaac Sorg, of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, is taking a lay off to do some work at his home.

George Tait, a fluewelder's helper at the Pennsylvania shops, is sick and off duty.

B. J. Kessman, machinist in the Pennsylvania vise shops, has gone to Chicago for a Sunday visit.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Moering went to Dunfee, Ind., this morning, to spend a few days with relatives. Mr. Moering is employed in the Pennsylvania shops.

Ora Opatz and William F. Meyers, of the Pennsylvania machine shop, left this morning for Gunn Lake, Mich., where they will fish a few days.

Stationmaster Ed Brownsburger, of the Pennsyvania, has completed a vacation and James Lower, the usherer, is now out on a vacation.

M. F. Kramer, gang foreman in the Pennsy boiler shops, will go to Indianapolis tonight to join his wife for an over-Sunday's visit with relatives.

Mrs. J. W. Thompson, wife of Machinists' Helper Thompson, of the Wabash shops, will spend the week-end in Logansport.

After a lay-off to entertain a ten-pound baby boy, the first child in the family, Fireman L. R. Weigel resumed work on the Nickel Plate yesterday.

T. C. Mensing, an extra fireman on the Nickel Plate, has been assigned yard duty with Engineer G. W. Conklin at nights.

Don Rulo, clerk in the shipping department at the Fort Wayne Electric works, will spend the week-end in Etna Green, Ohio, with his grandmother.

Machinist Benjamin Kessman, of the Pennsy shops, and Mrs. Kessman will spend the week-end with relatives in Chicago.

Nickel Plate Brakeman J. A. Fox has been off duty two or three days looking after matters connected with the funeral of the late Captain Hazelet, the detective.

L. E. Rombke and Elmer Wiebke, clerks at the Pennsylvania shops, and Fred Reincke, of the signal department, left this afternoon for Chicago to spend Sunday with friends.

Nickel Plate Engineer D. H. Graybill has reported for duty after an absence of several days. He was with H. W. Frase at Lake James, when the latter was taken sick and died.

Brakeman D. H. Carey has resumed his run on Nickel Plate passenger trains between Bellevue and Chicago, after a month's absence. He will have headquarters in Bellevue.

During the present week the Cleveland division of the Nickel Plate advanced fifteen firemen and engineers. A number of the men on the Buffalo division were also promoted.

L. R. Anderson, boilermaker's helper at the Pennsylvania shops, is sick and off duty. E. Bell and W. Hilsmeier, of the same shop, are also off duty on account of sickness.

Conductor E. I. Grummonds and Conductor C. Conklin have resumed work on the Nickel Plate, after a few days' absence. Mr. Conklin had been attending the funeral of his aunt at Leipsic.

Fireman Emil Spire, for some time working at nights in the yocal yards, has been assigned to a local freight run with Engineer C. F. Durfee, between Fort Wayne and Leipsic, with headquarters in the latter city.

R. C. Chase, foreman of laborers at the machine shop and testing room of the Fort Wayne Electric works, was summoned home yesterday by a message stating that Mrs. Chase was quite sick.

John Young, a Wabash section hand at Welland, Ont., yesterday lost one of his arms under the wheels of a train. He was found by fellow employes at the side of the track, and no one has learned details of the accident.

Fred Muellenbruch has gone to Ohio for a visit, A. J. Johnson is laying off to move and Henry Toensing and W. C. Buehler are looking after private business. They are employes in the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop.

H. E. Crance, Nickel Plate conductor, has returned from Claypool, where he spent two or three days fishing and hunting. He bagged a number of fox squirrels; also some bass and bluegills.

John Stanford, assistant night foreman at the Pennsylvania round house, who is in the hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis, is doing well and will be able to leave the hospital the latter part of next week.

The Pennsylvania this morning sent out a special train to pick up a foot ball team at Ada and carry them to Delaware, where a game took place today. The Ada team and friends will be brought back on the special tonight.

Mrs. O. H. Farnan, wife of the Pennsylvania machinist, went to Chicago this morning to spend Sunday with friends. Next Saturday Mrs. Farnan will go to Pittsburg for a visit with friends. On the latter journey she will be accompanied by her husband.

John Sullivan, passenger conductor on the Wabash, running between Detroit and Danville, has removed his family from Detroit to Danville. Mr. Sullivan was yardmaster for the Wabash at Danville a number of years ago and the family made their home in that city.

J. J. Kelly, boilermaker, called at the Pennsylvania shops today to see his comrades. A month ago he received a bad wound in the head and a sprained wrist and has not been able to work since. He expects to be able to work soon, however.

Nickel Plate Fireman H. E. McLaughlin, who had been running with Engineer Pat McGushing on passenger trains 1 and 4, has been transferred at his own request to the short haul out of Bellevue. His place in the passenger service has been taken by Fireman C. E. Geary.

Howard Mansfield, Nickel Plate engineer, resumed work yesterday. He was off duty a week on account of the death of his brother, Robert, which occurred following an operation for appendicitis while he was in Minnesota. The funeral was held in Cleveland and several Nickel Plate employes from this city attended it.

R. K. ERWIN, JR., IS CANDIDATE FOR SHERIFF

Richard K. Erwin, jr., today announces his candidacy for the democratic nomination for sheriff of Allen county. This will be hailed with satisfaction and enthusiasm by his many friends throughout the county and will command the good wishes of hosts of friends in adjoining counties. "Dick" Erwin was born and reared in Aboite township, this county, and the first twenty-five years of his life were spent on the farm. He is the son of Richard Kenny Erwin, who resided in Allen county three quarters of a century, of which sixty-five years were spent in Aboite. Richard K. Erwin, jr., is a married man with a family, is a property owner and has been a taxpayer for twenty-five years. Few men in the county are better known. For a time he was employed as bridge carpenter on the Nickel Plate railroad, later was engaged at Brookside farm in the services of Hon. J. H. Bass and is at the present time the capable and efficient bailiff in the superior court for Judge Carl Yaple. He is a democrat by birth, training and natural bent of mind and sentiment. He always has taken an active and helpful part in the affairs of the party in the county. He is a member of Sol D. Bayless lodge, No. 359, F. & A. M., of the Scottish Rite Masonic bodies, of Mizpah temple of the Mystic Shrine and of Harmony lodge, No. 19, I. O. O. F.

RICHARD K. ERWIN, JR.

MANY LIVES SAVED BY WEATHER MAN

He Forecasted Recent Big Gulf Storm, Warning Folk to Flee.

Galveston, Tex., Oct. 23—When one sees the ruins left by the recent tornado at Galveston and realizes the force with which this water, flying in the face of the wind, struck the city and demolished hundreds of homes, he wonders how so few lives could have been lost.

There is an answer. There was no one in these homes, except in the Galvez hotel, which breasted the waves like a mountain of granite, yet did not come quite unscathed from the fray. The reason there was no one in these houses when the sea smashed them as so many eggshells is that three men had labored, and their labors had incited an army to deeds of bravery.

These three men were W. P. Stewart, local observer of the United States weather bureau, and his two assistants, L. A. Tannehill and J. W. Gieger.

For days the hurricane had been kept track of by the government from the time it left Dominica until it reached a position threateningly near the Texas coast. On Sunday morning warnings were sent out. By Sunday night the hurricane signals were sent up and the observers began working to warn all the coast of Texas. Up in their office at the top of the city, where the gods of stor smhricked defiance at the ingenuity of man and threatened to tear the building in pieces and scatter it to the four winds of heaven, these three men labored fif -six hours without sleep and with only the little food that some one thought to bring them from time to time. So great was the strain that they did not think how long they had been there and when the storm passed they collapsed from fatigue. Had it not been for the insistent warnings of these men and the heroic efforts of the strong men of the city under these warnings, the calamity of 1900 would have been repeated despite the sea wall.

Just when the mighty seas had broken into the doors of the city and finding the tenement empty and themselves despoiled of victory, another mighty cry went up. Far up at the top of the town the little needle of the anemometer was writing another message. It came on with a scream of rage, and blew at a velocity ranging from sixty to 120 miles for six hours. As soon as the little needle began to write its message of warning the warning was sent to the people on the bay side of the city and none too soon. As it was, many waded in water to their necks seeking safety in the great buildings in the heart of the city.

EXPECT ELEVATION PLANS ON MONDAY

Board Believes Wabash and Pennsylvania Roads to Be Prepared.

Mayor W. J. Hosey, the board of works and city engineer confidently expect the officials of the Wabash and Pennsylvania railroads to be present at Monday's scheduled meeting and submit plans for track elevation east of Calhoun street. The board has several times granted extensions at the request of the railroads, the last of them being a few days ago, when the Pennsylvania men asked for the sake of convenience the meeting be postponed from Saturday, October 23, until Monday. This request was granted. The board has been given reason to believe that the plans for grade separation at Lafayette, Hanna and Winter streets and Anthony boulevard will be submitted by both railroads. Whether or not these plans will be such as can be approved by the board can be determined only after they have been presented.

PREPARING TO FIGHT SUITS.

Park Board and City Attorney Getting Ready for Injunction Cases,

The park board and City Attorney Colerick have been holding some consultations respecting the injunction suits brought by Frederick Wiebke and others interested in the Wiebke property abutting on Rudisill boulevard, to restrain the park board and contractors from proceeding with the boulevard improvements, for which contracts have been made. It is sought to restrain the work of macadamizing the street and from performing the grading, sidewalk, curb and gutter work on the south side of the thoroughfare from Calhoun street to Broadway. The hearing is expected to be held in the superior court next week. The suit hinges on the assessed valuation of the property involved.

BOARD OF SAFETY MEETING.

At its regular meeting Friday night the board of safety gave a hearing on charges of intoxication against Patrolman Richard Cantwell, who was found under the influence of liquor while in uniform and on duty. The officer's defense was that he had been feeling unwell the morning of the occurrence and took a couple of drinks of whisky, which overcame him. He was suspended from duty for fifteen days without pay. The board appointed and commissioned Patrick E. Malone, of 2423 Calhoun street, to be a merchant policeman. He will serve the business houses in the district south of the railroad between Calhoun and Lafayette streets. Mr. Malone was a Pennsylvania engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad until he was injured in the wreck of the flyer at Swinney park four years ago last summer.

WILL GIVE FINAL HEARING.

The park board at Monday afternoon's meeting will give a final hearing on the assessment rolls for sidewalks, curb and gutter and grading the park strip on the north side of Rudisill avenue from Fairfield avenue to Broadway.

CITY BREVITIES.

Nearly 100 head of swine are infected with cholera on the farm of Elmer McCray. Dr. George W. Gillie declares that hog cholera is very prevalent in the western part of the county.

Thomas L. Line, of Larwill, Whitley county, a national organizer for the Farmers' Equity union in Indiana and Ohio, arrived in Fort Wayne Friday evening after a trip through Ohio. He reports that several new unions have been organized in Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Jockel, of Piqua avenue, are the parents of a baby daughter born at St. Joseph hospital Friday, the second anniversary of their marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Jockel, 1240 High street, and Mrs. Emma Kennedy, East Williams street, are the grandparents. Mrs. Jockel will be remembered as a former school teacher.

ALIENISTS HAVE INNING.

Widely Divergent Opinions Come Out in Charlton's Trial.

Como, Italy, Oct. 23.—Today's session of the trial of Porter Charlton, the American, who is charged with having murdered his wife, was given over largely to the report of alienists. The expert for the prosecution read a lengthy report, which reached the conclusion that Charlton was entirely responsible mentally. The expert for the defense argued that the prisoner was irresponsible. Both desired to employ their written opinions by oral discourse, but the judge cut them short.

Representatives of the Crorey ten cent stores have been in the city for the past few days trying to negotiate a lease for a down town store building.

IN FIVE MINUTES NO SICK STOMACH INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" is the quickest and surest Stomach Relief.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you can surely get relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why it relieves sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthly appetite; but what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation.

This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery.

Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach misery and indigestion in five minutes.—Advertisement.

SPENCERVILLE NEWS.

Spencerville, Ind., Oct. 23.—Rev. A. K. Mumma, of this place, performed the ceremony which united Mr. Howard Hull, of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Miss Helen Patterson, of St. Joe, in marriage at the St. Joe Lutheran church on Wednesday morning at 10:30 a. m.

On Wednesday evening at the Lutheran parsonage Mr. George B. Hart and Miss Leila Horn were united in marriage by Rev. A. K. Mumma, of the Lutheran church. Mr. and Mrs. Klopfenstein, of Grabill, acted as brides matron and groomsman. Miss Horn is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Horn and the groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. McClellan Hart, two miles east of this place. Both young people are members of the Lutheran church and Sunday school and have the sincere wishes of their many friends for a happy life. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Harry Hilgemann, of Fort Wayne. The young people will reside at present with the groom's parents, east of town.

A truck load of 18 people from Hoagland visited their former pastor, Rev. A. K. Mumma, of the Lutheran church on Saturday. All were members of a Sunday school class, the Loyal Workers, of which Miss Anna Horrod is the teacher. The evening was spent with Misses Charlotte and Opal Miller of the county line.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hollabaugh, Mrs. George Hollabaugh and Mrs. Nora Hollabaugh and son, Albert, motored to Fort Wayne Thursday.

James Boots and sister, Mrs. Jane Buter, left Saturday to visit their brother and sister and other relatives residing in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Duval spent Sunday the guests of the latter's sister, Mrs. Lawrence Pridley and family, of near Auburn.

Dr. Dean Metcalf and wife, of Fort Wayne, were Sunday evening visitors of the former's parents, D. D. Metcalf and family.

Mrs. Shutt, of Fort Wayne, came Sunday to spend several months with her daughter, Mrs. Jack Beams and family.

Mrs. E. W. Erick, wife of Rev. Erick, an aged lady, fell in such a way Sunday morning as to severely injure herself across the chest although no bones are broken.

William Fairfield, while building a chimney on his new residence Wednesday had the misfortune to step on a loose board and fall although he caught himself he was badly bruised and shaken up.

TWO CHILDREN HAD CROUP.

The two children of J. W. Nix, merchant of Cleveland, Ga., had croup last winter. One was a boy of 6, the other a girl of 8 years. Mr. Nix writes: "Both got so choked up they could hardly breathe and couldn't talk. I gave them Foley's Honey and Tar and nothing else and it entirely cured them." This reliable medicine should be in every home for it gives immediate relief from colds, coughs and croup, heals raw, inflamed throat and loosens phlegm. Dreier Drug Co.—Advertisement.

A TAMER OF MILLIONAIRES

WILLIAM MULDOON

W. J. WILLIAMSON, D. D.

© BY A.P.A.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

HON. ELIHU ROOT

DR. WILLIAMSON OUT FOR A HIKE

"You big, soft-headed dubs, you can set out here and settle the European war but you haven't enough sense to know how to wash your own feet."

It was big Bill Muldoon talking and his audience was a number of prominent business men, lawyers, clergymen and others who rank high in the world's affairs. And the millionaires, who might discharge the head clerk at home if he even blinked, sat by and took it all—this denunciation and upbraiding—without even one word in retaliation.

Bill Muldoon, former world's champion wrestler, is the man who keeps the country's great men in fit condition. He also is the man who doesn't think any more of a millionaire than he does of a tramp and tells the millionaire so. His farm is in Purchase, N. Y., and he gets $60 a week from each of these wealthy men for exercising and abusing them—chiefly abusing.

The wealthy cheerfully give up the $60 to be put through long hours of drilling in the gymnasium, running cross country, being compelled to take a shower bath just the way Bill Muldoon wants them to take it and occasionally to work on Bill Muldoon's roads.

Anyone who has an idea that the former wrestler has any respect for any human being should listen to the following story told about him and Chauncey Depew. The latter was engaged in training on the farm and at the particular moment was bathing.

"Depew, wash your feet," shouted Bill Muldoon.

"I'm a gentleman, Mr. Muldoon, and I am accustomed to being spoken to like a gentleman."

"I know you are a gentleman. Gentlemen wash their feet. Wash your feet."

And Depew did.

FRIEND OF FROHMAN.

Muldoon's estate adjoins that of the late Charles Frohman and it is said that he was the only man who took liberties with the trainer. Although Muldoon says Frohman was the laziest man he ever knew, they were warm friends and had great fun together. Frohman never walked farther than from his house to his barn—a distance of two blocks.

One morning, however, he came to Muldoon and said he had decided to take his treatment. Muldoon was pleased to have won him over and directed him immediately on a six-mile walk. Frohman listened with interest to the conditions of the walk and started out. Five minutes later he telephoned Muldoon.

"Say, Muldoon, your treatment's fine. I walked as far as my house and felt so good I decided to go in and take a nap."

The formula of Muldoon's dope, as it usually is termed, is about like this:

Get up at 6 a. m. Light calisthenics with a march of half a mile and back open the proceedings. This is followed by a shower bath and then breakfast of fruit, toast, poached eggs and one cup of coffee. Later there is a horseback ride, another shower and then dinner. Then is an hour of rest and then a long stroll over the meadows. After this comes supper and then the "guests" are allowed to talk until about 8:30 when they are compelled to "hit the hay," as they call it at Bill Muldoon's. And every man of them plunges eagerly into bed when a gong gives the signal to retire for each is almost exhausted from his efforts of the day.

DISTINGUISHED PUPILS.

Theodore Roosevelt and Elihu Root are among the notables who have gone through the paces at Bill Muldoon's.

It is said that when Roosevelt was there he held Muldoon in awe and respect. In return he was treated with just the same lack of respect that the trainer shows to the other men. His language is not always the choicest but the rough talk which he uses is simply a part of his philosophy—that of subjugating the will of the man under him.

While at Muldoon's Roosevelt told Taft that he would be the next presidential nominee. Root had come up for a course of training and Taft and Roosevelt came to frame a campaign. They had been trying for weeks to persuade Root to run for the office. One afternoon after a heated discussion Root declared he had no intention of being a candidate and would hear no more about it. Roosevelt rose in his impetuous way, slapped Taft on the back and said, "Well, Bill, it's you."

One of the most recent visitors to the Muldoon farm was a minister—Rev. Dr. William J. Williamson, friend of John D. Rockefeller, and who is known as the friendliest man in St. Louis. He took the course with a lieutenant of the United States coast artillery, a son of the late E. H. Harriman, a patent attorney for the Bethlehem Steel Co., and many other prominent men.

Here is how Bill Muldoon greeted the clergyman: "Why, you big hunk of flesh. You call yourself a smart man and you don't know enough to keep yourself in condition. You're all below the chin. There's nobody at home upstairs."

Muldoon makes it perfectly clear to his "guests" that he is absolutely boss and the men who are paying him $60 a week for their board and training are not supposed to speak to him unless he first speaks to them.

IMPRESSIONS OF PREACHER.

Rev. Williamson describes Muldoon as a classic "cusser." He says he heard more profane language in his six weeks at the farm than he ever expects to hear again. It would take more dashes than the allies are making at the Dardanelles to indicate Muldoon's caustic remarks to his clients while they are going through the training exercises. The burden of his remarks is "they are all fat mutts who are beneath the contempt of a man who knows how to keep himself in condition."

One of the minister's vivid recollections is of one of the early days of his stay when he and several others were taking shower baths. Muldoon thundered this at them:

"You big, soft-headed dubs you can sit out there and settle the European war, but you don't know how to wash your feet."

Dr. Williamson soon learned that Muldoon's guests did not have their breakfast served in bed. Rising at 6 a. m., they were required to go into the gymnasium.

Then they were paired off and required to toss a three-pound medicine ball until they almost were exhausted. After a short period of rest they were made to run around an indoor track until they were on the verge of collapse, while Muldoon looked on and berated them in his classic manner. After this came a generous breakfast.

Except at meals the entire day must be spent out of doors. There were benches on which "the soft-headed dubs" might take a nap in the afternoon, but they all were out in the full glare of the sun.

NO SOFT SPOTS.

Woe to the man found seeking a shady place for a nap. He would hear several yards of Muldoon's classiest classic "language."

One of Muldoon's little jokes on his new arrivals was to tell them he would take them out for a picnic on Sunday. They would be taken ten or twelve miles into the hills in a big wagon. When they arrived Muldoon would leave them there and tell them they would have to walk back. "I hope you mutts will get back in time for dinner for it's going to be a good one."

"There was a leather importer from New York in our crowd," Dr. Williamson said, "who thought for a while that Muldoon was the meanest man who ever lived. The first morning he was there he was given a colt ride. Muldoon has a fine stable of blooded horses and he assigned this man to a rather spirited animal. The man was not accustomed to riding. His face turned white after the first mile's ride and of the men who was riding beside him turned to Muldoon and pointing to the man and said he was about to give out.

"Tell him to go home," was Muldoon's reply.

The saddle was not properly adjusted and by the time the party reached the turn in the road near Whitelaw Reid's home, the leather dealer was barely hanging on. But the riders did not slacken their pace and again the companion appealed to the reader.

"Mr. Muldoon, that man's saddle is on wrong and he is so weak he is going to fall off in a minute.

"Let him fall," replied Muldoon. "Anyone who hasn't sense enough to fix his own saddle before he starts ought to fall off."

But the rider got home safely.

"One day we were ordered to go on a 12-mile walk—17 minutes to the mile—was the rate set. Now Muldoon never lets you know what you are going to do next—that's part of his philosophy. A judge of the supreme court of Pennsylvania was wearing a pair of house slippers when the order came but he joined the ranks without a question.

As soon as he was out of Muldoon's hearing he began to upbraid him for his manner of treating decent, self-respecting men. He intended to tell him what he thought of him when we returned.

ONE ON THE JUDGE.

Each mile in house slippers added to the insults that were in store for Muldoon—and each mile gladdened the heart of the judge's fellow sufferers. We helped an almost slipperless judge over the last mile and into the grounds.

Muldoon met us at the door and jumped all over us for being 15 minutes late. Then he started in on the judge for his condition. We waited breathlessly.

"Oh Mr. Muldoon," exclaimed the judge proudly, "I didn't dream I could do it."

No one is allowed to talk for an hour after meals. Every fellow is assigned a separte bench on which he is to rest. After the hour was over we used to get together in the sunshine. But even then conversation was limited. It is a time for repose of body and mind.

"I'll tell you what it reminds me of when Muldoon comes along. A crowd of school boys when the teacher comes into the room. Everyone stops talking and the silence is painful." Dr. Williamson continued.

And that is just how Muldoon exercise his power over his guests and makes them keep in training—by treating them just as though they were school boys.

OPEN ER SHUT WINTER EDDYTORIAL—WHICHT?

We take our editorial pen in hand and dash off a editorial on whether or not we be agoing to have a hard winter this winter. While we realize that this editorial will not make the winter any harder nor any more of a open winter, it won't do no harm to give the views and perdictions of various Bingville citizens on the subject.

Old Dad Henderson who is one of the oldest inhabitants having been born and raised in Bingville, where he has sinst lived for nigh on to 88 years, perdicts that we will have a hard winter. This perdiction coming from Dad, however, does not amount to much. About this same time a year ago, Dad perdicted that we would have a mild open winter(whereas everybody in Bingville knows that last winter was enough to freeze the horns offen a muley cow. We calkilate that being as Dad missed it so bad in his perdiction a year ago by saying it would be a mild winter, he thinks he will hit it this time if he says it will be a hard winter. If Dad keeps on perdicting he's bound to hit it right sometime or other.

Dad bases his perdiction on a hard winter on several different signs. He says he never seen the bark stick so close to the tree as it does this fall, that corn in the field is covered with heavier husks, that rabbits has begin to fuz out and grow their winter coats sooner than ushual, that the feathers is thicker on chickens than common and that the goosebone isn't as porous as it would be if it was going to be a mild winter. As Editor of the Bingville Bugle we calkilate that the only way we will be able to know whether we are agoing to have a hard winter or not, will be to wait until next spring and then decide about whether this winter is mild or severe and whether the snow lays 4 ft. deep or not, and whether the thermometer is 50 degrees above freezing or 50 below.

Subscribe for the Bugle, it is a awful good thing to while away the long winter ev'gs with.

LAND'S END.

Bill Henshaw has a small boil right upon the end of his nose and Bill says it's so sore that every time he looks at it cross-eyed it makes him weep. Your correspondent is glad he ain't got no boil on the end of his nose.

Rufe Atkins says he ain't had no more ambition for the past two weeks than a corpse would have—Rufe calkilates he has got a attackt of the grip.

Miss Hen Jordan's baby was threatened with an attackt of the croop tother night and Hen druv clear to Bingville for Doc Livermore who responded prompt next morning only to find that the child didn't have croop nor nothin else the matter with it. Hen seemed to be a good deal disappointed after going to the trouble to get Doc. Livermore to find that nothin ailed the baby.

SORROW HOLLOW.

Josh Slade, who is absent minded, loaded up his old muzzle loader shot gun last week and went hunting. Josh seen a fox and blazed away at it and was considerable surprised when the gun busted in his hands. Josh then remembered that he had went and put two loads in the gun instead of one. Forchunately he wasn't kilt.

It was so cold here one night last week that several people's apples almost froze in the cellars.

Jemimah Hoff has a felon on her finger. This is the third felon Jemimah has had in two years and she says she don't want no more of same.

Personals

Lafe Packard is talking of building a addition to his barn. If talk would of did it, Lafe would have several additions built to it by this time.

Israel Goodwin perdicts that we will have a open winter this winter. Is perdicted this same thing about a year ago, and last winter Bingville like to of froze to deth.

Don't forgit that the Bugle office does job printing while you wait—if you wait long enough.

Mrs. Martha Tucker while canning peaches last week, upset the kittle and spilled a whole mess of peaches all over the kitchen floor. She ain't spoke to Jim Tucker, her husband, sinct, whereas Jim says it ain't his fault, bein as he wasn't within a mile of the house when it happened.

Bill Sims is making a new yoke for his pair of oxes. Bill has been working on this yoke now going on three years, and it ought to be a good job when he gets it finished.

We ain't seen a copy of the Hardscrabble Banner for nearly three weeks. We persume the Banner has went up the spout as we expect to do soon unless our subscribers pays up their back subscripshions.

Lokels

While driving home from Snake Bend last Tuesday during a thunder shower, Joe Hines was nearly struck by lightening. Joe was considerable surprised at this, and run his horse clean into Bingville, where he arrived with his hair standing on end, and his eyes bugged out as big as saucers. He also lost his hat.

Bill Hepburn our artistic blacksmith, says business is very dull in his line, and he wishes more horses would cast their shoes than have been doing so recent.

Miss Tabitha Jones celebrated her 22d birthday last Satterday Miss Tabitha has been 22 years old for the past 7 years. How time does fly!

Mrs. Samantha Deevers was very indignant because we failed to say in last Bugle that she was on the sick list as usual. This was a oversight on our part—we always aim to say every week that Samantha is on the sick list, and have done so faithfully for the last 12 or 13 years, but okashionally we forgit it.

Jaspar Hawkins visited the Bugle office recent and threatened to pay us $2. on his back subscripshion, but he went away without doing so. We would be obliged to Jaspar and a few more like him if they would carry out their threts onct in a while.

Beef for Sale by Abe

Abe Witherow had a very painful axident to happen to his cow one day last wk we forget whitch day.

Abes old cow "Spot" who is praps 18 or 19 yrs old & blind in one eye got a fool noshion into her head that she would jump outen the barnyard where Abe had turned her out to be milkt so she tuk a run and tride to do so but without results.

In other words when she tride to jump over the fenct she tripped and fell on tother side with a dull sikkening thud and jest layd there bellerin.

Abe heerd her and rusht outen the house and soon as he seen her he seen she was injurd but he diddent know whether it was internal or external so he sent for Doc Livermore our expert human speshialist & veternary and Doc he examind Spot and found that she had went and broke her leg. Doc said the only thing to do was to shoot her so Abe went into the house and got his rifle and did so.

Abe drest her off and now desires us to inform you all that he has choice beef roasts, sirloins, tenderloins, cows livver, cows heart, flank steaks, et cettery to sell at reasonable prices as long as this deceased cow lasts.

We make this a nouncement for Abe with great cheer, but as for us personal we dont calkilate we care for enny of ole Spots remains speshially sinst she is nearly 20 yrs old. We persoom she would be tuffern tripe.

Wood Took in Ecchange

This is to notify our dead beet subscribers who we have hounded and dunned and pesterd for yrs & yrs without results and from who we never expeckt to git enny hard cash that until further notis we will except stove and fire wood in exchange for their back subscripshions giving them due credit on our books for same as soon as said wood is deliverd.

We diddent know we was so neer outen stove and fire wood until our wife happend to call our eddytoriul attenshion to our wood pile tother day and we was most flabbergasted to discuvver that we diddent have moren enuff wood to last only a wk or two.

Therefore bring on your wood in exchange for back subscripshions and we will except it with great cheer until our wood pile gits what we consider big enuff to last us until next spring—then we'll haft to shut down on excepting wood on this basis.

When we comt to think it over it will be a good eal better for us to except wood and thus keep from freezin to deth during the cold blasts of winter than to git nothink a tall outen our unprincipeld, good for nothink, low down mean, dead beet subscribers.

SPESHIAL NOTIS—The above offer dont apply to new subscribers. In other words we wouldnt except fire or stove wood from folks who is subscribing for the Bugle for the first time—from sutch we must have cash.

EDDITOR BUGLE.

Poor Bill Disappinted

Bill Hepburn our artistick blacksmith had a pathetick axident to happen to him last Satterday whitch we persoom was most enuff to make him jest break down and sob like a child, even strong man that he is.

Last Saturday brite & erly Bill hitchd up his old gray mare to his buckboard and set out for the co seat where he makes a speshial trip every Satterday to git full and allus does so returning ushually late at nite and disturbing the quiet village of Bingville from end to tother as he drives down Main st hollering and singing ribald songs.

Well, when Bill started out to see the co seat last Satterday morning he had two silver dollers in his pocket whitch he figgered would be suffishent to pay for his dinner and supper at the co seat and git a full qt of old Demun Rum.

But there was one thing whitch Bill diddent figger on and that was a hole whitch he had in his pants pocket all unbeknownst to him and it was into this pocket that he put the two silver dollars afore he started for the co seat.

When he arrove at his destinashion and made a bee line for the saloon and askt for a qt of red licker and went to pay for same all poor Bill found was the hole in his pocket so he diddent git no licker although he coaxed and pleaded and said he would send the money over to the saloon keeper the 1st of the wk he wouldnt trust Bill who got rite into his buckboard and driv all the way back to Bingville in deep disgust and very slow lookin all over the road ahead to see if he could find em and arrove in Bingville jest about dark and a madder or more disagreeable person you never seen. When ennyone spoke to him Bill nearly bit their heads off—all except his wife of who Bill is mortally afeard. It was Mrs Hepburn who told about Bill losink the two dollers, but nobuddy has joked Bill about it enny—in fakt theyre afeard to less he'd wipe up the ground with em.

It must be a turrible thing to have sitch a appytite for whiskey as that.

FALL Sale of Winter Goods

I desire to announce to my many patrons that I have received a large amount of goods which is now on sale in my store at cash prices reasonable to all. These new goods which is arriving daily, and must be sold out in order to make room for new goods, which will arrive next spring, consists of one box of prunes, CAPS with ear lugs on same, red wool undershirts, gloves, mitts, boots, shoes, cigars, tobacker, nails, bolts, one barrel of crackers, one box of salt herring (you ort to taste some of these salt herring—they are fit to eat), one box of peppermint lozenges, one cake of salt makerel, one bolt of gingham, for shirting, overalls too numerous to menshion, and everything else which is found in a first-class business emporium. Come in and see these new goods, and when you come bring your pocket-book with you because I wont give credit to nobody. Terms stricktly cash. The reason I won't give credit to nobody is because nobody in town deserves it. No trouble to show these goods as long as you buy something but it makes us mad to have to tear the store all up from one end to tother showing a customer what I have in stock, and then have him to out and say he guesses he don't want nothing today. Don't do that with me. If you don't see what you want, ask for it, and if I ain't got it, you can't get it in Bingville, being as I have the largest and only store in this town and therefore have no competishion. Some folks says that competishion is the life of trade. That ain't so, competishion is the deth of trade and I am glad I ain't got anv. Come early and avoid the rush.

Yours for Fall Bargains in Winter Goods,
